Steady, Ruddy Nixon Now Looks To Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, pressed by history into a self-imposed domestic exile at San Clemente, Calif., has begun to look to the future, says New York Times columnist William Safire. "The haunted, hunted look of the final days in the White House-turned-bunker is gone," wrote Safire in today's edition. Nixon is now ruddy from the California sun, able to talk an hour or so without tiring, and the hand holding his coffee cup is steady. He is mindful of the irony that Camp Pendleton, near his Casa Pacifica residence, is the receiving station for many Vietnamese refugees, wrote Safire, a former Nixon speech writer. And the renaming of Saigon as Ho Chi Minh City is a stinging mockery by fate.

But the former President, forced to abdicate one of the most powerful offices on earth, "no longer spends all his time brooding about everything that went sour," Safire said. He is well-briefed on current affairs and is working on his book, scheduled for publication in 1977. Safire said that as he prepared to leave the former "Western White House," Nixon told him matter-of-factly, "I'm surviving."

CLAIM EVACUATION PAPERS COST $3,000 Viet Refugee 'Payoffs' Charged

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Three men who left a week ago in hopes of rescuing their wives' families from Saigon say they found evidence some South Vietnamese refugees paid Americans as much as $3,000 for signatures required on evacuation papers. Ronald D. Olson, a retired Air Force colonel, said Sunday the signatures were on affidavits certifying the evacuees were American dependents. The Americans signing the documents also pledged to be financially responsible for the South Vietnamese people listed on the affidavits, said Olson, who operates an Asian food store here.

Olson and his two partners, Donald D. Roberts and David W. Beebe, left Norfolk last Sunday in an effort to evacuate about 30 of their in-laws from Saigon. The three local men, all married to South Vietnamese women after serving in Southeast Asia, borrowed about $10,000 to make the unsuccessful trip, from which they returned Saturday. They got only as far as Clark Air Base in the Philippines before giving up their rescue attempt. At the Philippine base, Olson said "one American bragged he had signed for some 46 Vietnamese at $3,000 each and then unrolled a tremendous wad of money." He said that in case after case, South Vietnamese refugees held affidavits signed by Americans they didn't know. He did not identify any of the Americans.

Olson said an Air Force sergeant on a processing team at Clark said "he saw $1,000 bills" in one man's roll of bills.

Later, on Guam, Olson said he and his partners became acquainted with an elderly South Vietnamese woman who had to pay an American for an affidavit signature.

"She told of paying $1,000 to get the names of her and her three sons on an affidavit," Olson said. Olson said they walked through the refugee camps in the Philippines and on Guam looking for their relatives and they also looked over lists of evacuees compiled as the South Vietnamese were processed for immigration to the United States.

"It became obvious to us that the people who got out had to have an American there (in Saigon) to help them," Olson said. He said the relatives of the his, Beebe's and Roberts' wives had been cleared for immigration but had no American sponsors in Saigon.

Shippers Revive Old Idea Of U.P. Canal

DETROIT (AP) — Shippers are reviving a nearly century-old idea for a canal through Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Paul Trimble, president of the Great Lakes Carriers Association, said a canal through the central U.P. may be more feasible than renovating existing locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers presently is studying the building a new lock at the Soo or combining two smaller locks into one giant lock.

Only one of the five locks at Sault Ste. Marie is capable of handling the thousand-foot freighters which are beginning to ply the lakes.

Trimble said the move toward larger vessels points up a need for renovations at the locks. He said the big ships also need wider navigation channels on the St. Mary's River.

He said his group isn't demanding the canal, but added: "We think it is an alternative to renovation of the Soo locks that should be explored."

The proposed canal would be only 38 miles long, running from Au Train Bay on Lake Superior. Then, ships would pass through an existing waterway consisting of the Au Train River, Au Train Lake, Mud Lake, the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. water storage basin, the Whitefish River, and then into Little Bay de Noc on Lake Michigan.

The canal would trim 300 miles off the trip from Lake Superior iron mines to the Lake Michigan steel plants. It also would circumvent the St. Mary's River, where ice breaking in the winter causes problems for island residents.

No costs have been estimated for either a new canal or renovations on the Soo locks.

The idea for a central U.P. canal first surfaced in the 1820s and also was considered as a federal works project in the mid 1930s.

During World War II, the War Department considered it as an alternative if the locks were destroyed.

The U.S. Geological Service and the corps of engineers studied the possibility in the mid 1960s and decided such a project wasn't economically feasible.

But Trimble said new factories on Lake Superior and increasing demand for coal make conditions more favorable.

Insurance Fund From Premiums Paid By Doctors

By MARY SCHEIER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The legislature's first major answer to Michigan's medical malpractice insurance crisis will be on Gov. William Milliken's desk early this week, House leaders say.

"I would hope to have it passed, and on the governor's desk by Tuesday," said House Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park.

The bill sets up a state malpractice insurance fund from premiums paid by doctors who could not obtain insurance from private companies. It is considered an emergency response to the immediate problem of availability and is designed to guarantee malpractice insurance for all state doctors.

Because of the high number of malpractice suits and high settlement payments, many insurance companies are either not renewing or not writing new malpractice insurance policies, a situation the medical profession says could force doctors to quit practicing or leave Michigan.

For many other doctors the malpractice insurance rates have jumped drastically.

"Hopefully this bill will stop the flow of doctors out of the state. It's a short-term response," Forbes said.

The legislation is called major by lawmakers who are operating under a June 1 deadline. The Shelby Mutual Insurance Co. of Ohio, a chief writer of malpractice insurance in Michigan, has threatened to pull out by then because of the situation.

The fund would be administered by the state insurance commissioner and a board appointed by the governor. Private insurance companies would handle bookkeeping, attorneys and other details. Premiums would be similar to those charged by the private companies. The fund would be used to pay settlements or awards resulting from malpractice suits.

The Senate already has passed the measure.

Another malpractice measure coming up in the House this week would extend "Good Samaritan" protection to medical personnel responding to a life-threatening situation or emergency in a hospital.

That measure would protect

Senate Considers Spending $41 Million For More Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a time when the amount of federal spending is being sharply debated, the Senate is gingerly discussing whether to hire more aides to assist senators in their legislative work.

Each senator now is allotted from $382,298 to $751,880 a year, depending on the population of his state, to hire clerks for his own office staff.

A pending resolution, with more than half the senators listed as sponsors, would create a new category of Senate employees. The cost estimates of this proposal range from $16 million to $41 million, plus the expense of providing additional office space.

The new personnel would be hired by individual senators and could be assigned only to assist them in the work of the Senate committees where the senators serve. The main push for the resolution comes from junior senators and members of the Republican minority who contend their lack of committee staff handicaps them in dealing with legislative issues.

To hire these aides, a senator would be allowed $69,762 a year for each major committee he serves on and $34,881 a year for each minor committee of which he is a member.

If a senator paid his aide $34,881 a year, he could hire two for each of his major committees and one for each of his minor committees. This is the salary scale on which the allotments are based.

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, chief sponsor of the resolution, told the Rules Committee that his ability to participate meaningfully in a great many issues is "seriously hampered by lack of staff." He said his resolution would "put some equality" among senators in staffing and assist the Senate in making Congress an equal branch of the government.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., head of the Rules Committee conducting hearings on the issue, said that if senators made full use of the proposed hiring, the annual cost would be around $41 million.

He said analysis of the resolution showed it would permit the hiring of more than 1,000 committee-related employees in addition to the 1,262 regular committee staff members.

BH Patrolman Halts Suicide Try

Chemical spray shot through a small window subdued a 15-year-old girl who was threatening to kill herself, Benton Harbor police reported.

Patrolman Darryl Williamson used the tactic to fill a barricaded room with the chemical spray, then broke into the room and seized a shotgun from the girl.

City police reported they were called to an apartment in the 900 block of Pipestone street about 2 a.m. Saturday. Officers reported a girl had locked and barricaded herself in a room and was threatening to shoot herself and anyone who tried to stop her.

According to police reports, Williamson tried to talk the girl out of the room. After this failed, he conferred with Lt.

Leon Hardy and then climbed onto the roof of the apartment building.

After finding a small opening along the window he emptied one and a half cans of the chemical spray into the room.

The girl was blinded by the spray and Williamson kicked the door open and then grabbed the shotgun from her hands.

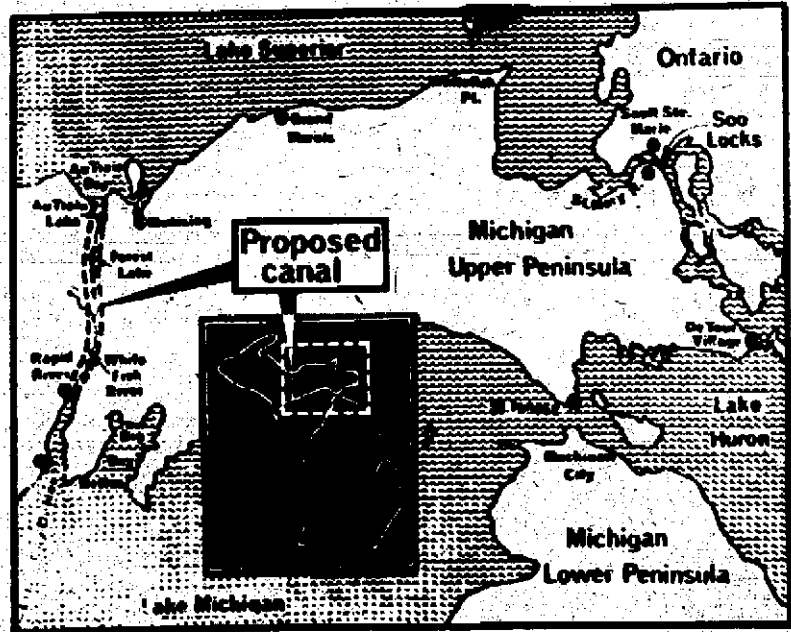

The girl was taken to Mercy hospital where the chemical spray was washed from her eyes. She was then turned over to the custody of friends. The girl said her foster mother was a hospital patient.

Police reported she had been despondent over personal problems.

Chemical spray ordinarily is used by police to subdue people who attack officers or become unruly when placed under arrest.

PROPOSED U.P. CANAL: Map shows proposed 38-mile canal which would be built in Michigan's Upper Peninsula to connect Lakes Superior and Michigan, providing an alternative to renovation of the Soo Locks to accommodate larger ships. Many College Graduates Find Jobs Are Lacking

Regardless of their field of study, today's college graduates are experts on the law of supply and demand. It is painfully obvious that too many graduates are chasing too few jobs, and the imbalance promises to become more lopsided in future years. The value of a college degree, like that of the dollar, is not what it used to be.

As usual, the job prospects of liberal arts graduates are particularly bleak. According to the National Education Association (NEA), "there will be two people looking for every job" in education. The NEA estimates that around 220,000 graduates will be searching for teaching positions in June, but that only about 118,000 jobs will be available.

Northwestern University's annual Endicott Report on corporate hiring predicts a 9.5 per cent decline in demand this year for holders of bachelor's degrees, except in engineering. The 1975 graduate, the report said, "will have to work harder to get a job, he will have to be more flexible about what kind of jobs he's willing to take, he will have to be less demanding about work conditions and he will have to make job contacts on his own."

Furthermore, advanced or professional degrees are no longer a sure-fire guarantee of employment. The American Bar Association says its accredited schools will award about 30,000 law degrees this year. But the Labor Department foresees a need for only 15,500 lawyers a year during the 1970s.

WRITER REDEFINES BICENTENNIAL

Editor, Instead of all this hupludup called "bicentennial celebration" in 1976, let's in all sincerity call it "The Decline and Fall of the American Republic" (with, of course, apologies to Edward Gibbons for stealing his title).

Let's have a call to action by all patriots to rededicate our original Constitution and Bill of Rights, without the "patches" — called amendments — especially from the 16th on and including the 25th, bought and paid for by Nelson A. Rockefeller and passed by a bunch of trained seals, commonly called "the Senate".

This amendment bypasses election by the people of a President, and however farther it can be stretched.

Shades of a dictator. With love and dedication to the Republic to which I pledged allegiance.

A DEMOCRAT PENS RESPONSE

Editor, In reference to Mrs. Harold Selter's blast to the Democrats: April 30, 1975.

I would like for her and you to hear some "facts" from a Democrat, which she believes is impossible.

No. 1. Most Republicans have enough sense not to even mention the word Propaganda, for fear of reminding us of their "Propaganda Past." The secret is cover-up!

No. 2. When Johnson was asking for aid, Nixon was saying "Blow them off the map!" But that's all in the past — the secret is "cover-up!"

No. 3. Must we protect President Ford?

Mrs. Selter referred to the American Congress in saying they might produce a dictator as long as the Democrats have it.

Let us all remind ourselves how close we came to a dictatorship, before we Democrats tried to put Nixon "in his grave," putting it in Mrs. Selter's words. (The fact is the Republicans were the ones to get rid of Nixon and his henchmen.)

But remember, that's all in the past, and the secret is "cover-up!" I feel that Mrs. Selter is a threat to the Republican party....Maybe she's not Republican. Maybe only another psychic.

JOINS FORCES OF ANTI-NUCLEAR GROUP

Editor, "Leave it to the experts" is a common put-down used by the proponents of nuclear power against those who have become informed and, therefore, alarmed and opposed to nuclear power.

Some of these "experts" are Nobel laureates, nuclear physicists, doctors of medicine, or nuclear engineers.

In evaluating the expertise of those speaking, one has to consider the credentials of both sides. And one must consider from what position the "expert" speaks. Is it part of his job to be pro-nuclear? Or will he, in spite of his job, decide to be anti-nuclear, like Dr. John W. Gofman and many others.

Dr. Gofman is a doctor of medicine and has a doctorate in nuclear physical chemistry. He is co-discoverer of U232, U233, PA232, and PA233, and of slow and fast neutron fissionability of U233. He is also co-inventor of the uranyl acetate and columbian oxide processes for plutonium separation. He has taught in the radioisotope and radiobiological fields for over 20 years, and has done research in radiochemistry, macromolecules, linoproteins, coronary heart disease, arteriosclerosis, trace element determination, x-ray spectroscopy, chromosomes and cancer, and radiation hazards. He is co-editor of "Advances in Biological and Medical Physics," has written over 100 articles, is co-author of three books on heart disease and two books on nuclear power. He has received two of the great honors in heart research, the Lyman

A Farewell With Gratitude

WASHINGTON — More than in most occupations, perhaps, the journalist is the product of his teachers. The true textbooks of the business are the wisdoms traveling from hand to hand, and the lucky fellows among us are those who have at moments been taken aside for personal instruction.

In this regard I have by force of events been reflecting on my own good fortune to have been associated, while younger, with a mentor whose value to me was enhanced because he taught with few pretensions. Three decades the sports editor of a newspaper in Florida, Bernard Kahn was a man who wore his heart on his sleeve, put his Chapstick on in public, and borrowed his philosophy from Satchel Paige: "Ain't no man can help being born average — but no man got to be born common."

I should not like to put Benny with the angels here. He wore no halo. And actually, I remember him best as one who agreed with Nietzsche that morality is the finest of all devices for leading mankind by the nose. I've seen Bernard in his cups imprudently and as befits his slot in life — sportswriting — his morality often resembled the gymnastics of a bull in the springtime.

But it's not my point to sermonize. Too many moralists, as Clarence Shepard Day wrote, begin with a distaste of reality, "a distaste of men as they are." As his employee and friend, I accepted Benny with the warts on his soul. My recollection here concerns something else, something more important, of him.

He hired me in the early 1960s, a substantial age in America, one that can be shown as the beginning of woes and enlightenments that have continued and multiplied to this day. I was at the time short on skills and ideologies, and my assignment suited the qualifications. Benny had me cover high school football games, write headlines for dog racers, results, and while John Kennedy was being murdered and Martin Luther King jailed, compile the tournament results of Country Club golf.

But aside, Benny had other designs for me. And he taught according to these ambitions. His admonishment was to look at the real world, to study its flaws, and to grab the wrongs and shake them in anger. The time is past, for example, he would say in words to the same end, when the black man is going to accept any gospel from outside the church. Only he said it, as I remember, like this: "I never saw anybody get pregnant from drinking at an integrated fountain."

Jewish, and as a boy the subject of hypocrisy and intolerance, Benny taught an appreciation of difference, of alternatives, of understanding, if you will. Not professorially, to be sure, for "B" was a common man, but rather by example. He wrote and he lived under Joseph Addison's belief that a man is ignorant if he believes in no virtue or truth but his own.

When he thought me sufficiently cultivated, Benny fired me with kindness. He suggested it was time for me to stop writing about games and attack other things. Years later while in Vietnam, I received a letter from him saying he'd not meant to prod me so far. "If you get killed," he said, "I'll never talk to you again."

I returned to Florida recently to visit the old boss. Then seriously ill with cancer, wasted in body and lying almost without movement in the bedroom of his home, he talked of many private things, of past and future, of gains and losses, of reservations and fears. Turning to his window, looking for the palmists, he said it looked like a lovely day outside.

"Benny?" I replied, "it's raining like hell."

"I know," he insisted, "but it's lovely anyway."

Short while later Benny Kahn, age 57, sportswriter and wise man, died — teaching his fortunate friend to the last.

Lobby Bill Has A Good Chance

WASHINGTON — Congress may be preparing at last to impose responsible regulations on the most secretive, most abused, least understood, most widespread, best-financed and potentially most influential private activity in the nation's capital.

That activity, of course, is lobbying, which includes everything from letters to congressmen to dinners in Georgetown to expensive advertising campaigns.

The 30-year-old law which was supposed to force disclosure of lobbying activities is so feeble that it has never been enforced, and hundreds of industries simply ignore it.

The American Electric Power Company, for instance, recently conducted a massive advertising campaign to promote increased development of coal reserves, most of which are either owned or leased by the company. Although some of the ads specifically called for legislative changes, American Electric did not register under the present lobby law.

Ayerst Laboratories, a major drug company, recently ordered 200 of its salesmen to obtain letters from five druggists each in opposition to an HEW plan to restrict prescriptions under Medicare or Medicaid to the lowest-priced equivalent drugs. These letters were designed to be presented to HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger as evidence of the opinion of the nation's pharmacists, but no official or representative of Ayerst is registered as a lobbyist.

Under the current law, only persons who have direct contacts with members of Congress and whose principal activity is lobbying are required to register. American Electric can claim it is not lobbying through direct contact. Ayerst can claim it is lobbying the executive branch, not the Congress. And so on. The loopholes are legion.

A Senate subcommittee opened hearings last week into a new lobby control measure that seeks to close all those loopholes. A House subcommittee will hold hearings into similar proposals in early June.

The prospect seems bright for new regulations broadening the definition of lobbying and requiring detailed public accounting of income, spending, officials contacted and gifts or loans to public officials. The bill is sponsored by Commun Cause and an impressive array of reform-minded senators and congressmen. The National Governors' Conference endorsed lobby disclosure laws last year.

The most controversial provisions of the proposed measure would broaden the requirement for the logging of contacts to the executive branch and would include outside social contacts as well as those made officially during working hours.

The social contact bill is the toughest. It is not realistic to expect public officials to report every single cocktail conversation. The law makes no distinction between trivial and innocent remarks and those heavy with implications of influence-peddling.

Some lobbying groups recognize the legitimate need for a reform measure and will concentrate only on trying to weaken it. The AFL-CIO chief lobbyist, Andrew Biemiller, for instance, has instructed his troops not to campaign against the bill as a whole but to get the social contacts provision killed.

Other lobbying organizations, however, have vowed not to let the carrot get its nose under the tent at all. The Chamber of Commerce, for instance, is marshaling its allies for an all-out attack on the measure.

Friends Hold Party Honoring McAlvey

By CLIFF STEVENS
Special Correspondent

Over 350 people attended a surprise retirement dinner honoring Donald G. McAlvey, Eau Claire schools superintendent, Saturday night at Holiday Inn, M-139, Benton township.

McAlvey, superintendent at Eau Claire since 1970, was honored by fellow school administrators, teachers and associates for his 46 years of service in education.

McAlvey, 64, who will retire on June 30, started his education career in 1929 as a teacher at the then Noll rural school in Crystal. In 1934, he moved to Carson City, teaching at two schools until he was named superintendent at Morley in 1940, a position he held for 11 years.

From 1951 to 1956 he was superintendent at Almont and then came to southwestern Michigan as superintendent of Fairplain in 1959. From 1965 to 1970, McAlvey was assistant superintendent at Benton Harbor, and became Eau Claire's superintendent in 1970.

Lee Auble, Berrien Springs superintendent, speaking on behalf of county school superintendents, said McAlvey's work at Eau Claire made exemplary years for both the community and school system.

Richard Ziehm, former St. Joseph school superintendent and now head of Sylvania, Ohio, public schools, told the gathering that McAlvey was "honest and thoughtful" and he had enjoyed the many years of his association. McAlvey had hired Ziehm to his first teaching position while at Almont, and Ziehm is one of 25 current school administrators who had their start with McAlvey over his 46 years of service.

Sheldon Rosenberg, president of the Eau Claire school board, said McAlvey "did great things for Eau Claire, and we're sorry to see him leave." Rosenberg presented McAlvey with a plaque on behalf of the board, tracing his career in education from Noll rural school at Crystal to Eau Claire.

William F. Schaefer III, Eau Claire superintendent-elect, said the hardest job he'll have is to follow McAlvey at Eau Claire.

He said McAlvey invited him to visit the Eau Claire schools and after seeing other schools in his native state of Illinois, Schaefer returned to Eau Claire to work with McAlvey, "knowing he (McAlvey) was a unique person to get his start with in administration."

McAlvey was also presented with an all expense paid eight-day vacation to Hawaii, one of the two places McAlvey had expressed an interest in visiting. His second desire is to visit Alaska.

Condition Good

Mercy hospital officials reported the condition of Benton Harbor fireman Alfred Todd, 28, was "good" this morning.

Todd was hospitalized last Wednesday after firemen were called to stop a leak of chlorine gas at the Michigan Standard Alloys aluminum foundry on Arthur Mendel road. Todd breathed some of the gas while helping clear the air. He had been listed in "serious" condition, but was taken out of the intensive care unit Friday.

Prayers Ask For Bountiful Crop As Bud Blessing Opens Festival

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Skies were gray, the air had a mid-40's chill and a tinge of fog hung over hills that flank the broad valley of Herbert Teichman's Tree-Mendus farm.

There were no blooms on the farm's countless fruit trees.

But, there were prayers and hopes for a bountiful crop, and Teichman called the day "beautiful," as he thanked nearly 300 people for turning out for the annual Blessing of the Blossoms ceremony Sunday afternoon.

It was the first time the ceremony was held at Teichman's farm, north of Eau Claire. The former orchard used on the Walter Miller farm near Pearl Grange has been removed.

Blessing of the Blossoms is the religious start of Blossomtime week festivities which run all this week.

The setting in the valley was ideal—large enough to hold the cars and participants and to provide for a new format.

A processional moved along the valley to the service site, marked by a large wooden cross and pulpit formed from a tree stump.

Also new was the dedication to Miss Blossomtime, Cynthia Thornburgh of Niles, of an apple tree in a nearby orchard. A plaque on the tree will bear her name and she will be able to pick her own apples. In future years, each blossom queen will have an apple tree marked for her, Teichman said.

In previous years, a portion of the service featured members of various faiths gathering separately under apple trees to pray with their pastors. Because there are no orchards in the valley, this was not done.

To instill a flavor of orchards, Teichman has planted several apple trees around the service site. Community queens also placed blooming boughs of apricots at the pulpit. These were brought to bloom artificially.

The ceremony procession began with a trumpet fanfare, followed by a prelude, "Variations on Old 100th," by a brass ensemble from Lake Michigan college and Southwestern Michigan college. Director was David Purcell.

A prayer of reconciliation was read by the Rev. George Ross, associate minister of St. Joseph Catholic church, who served as liturgist and celebrant.

A litany of praise was followed by the blessing of the blossoms, during which holy water and incense were sprinkled on apricot boughs by Rev. Ross.

The ensemble was joined by the Handbell choir of the First Congregational church, Benton Harbor; the Connection choral group, Pioneer church, Berrien Springs; and the Liturgical choir, First United Methodist church, Coloma.

Other ministers participating were Rev. Paul Kuntzman, First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, general chairman; and Rev. H. Ross Bunce, Newhope and Scottdale United Methodist churches, service committee chairman.

Also, Rev. Eric Lund, First Congregational church, Coloma; Also, Rabbi Wayne Franklin, Temple B'nai Shalom, Fairplain; Rev. Clarence Beehler, United Church of Christ, Bainbridge; Rev. H. Scott Tonk, Lakeside Episcopal church; Rev. A.E. Grice, Covert Community church; Rev. Ronald Magnuson, Harbert Community church; Rev. David Kleis, Community United Church of Christ, Eau Claire; Rev. Kenneth Snow, United Methodist church, Buchanan; Rev. Arnold Bolin, director, Berrien county Council of Churches; Rev. Carl Hausermann, United Methodist church, Coloma; Rev. Robert Andrews, St. Paul's Episcopal church, St. Joseph; and Rev. Richard Youells, United Methodist church, South Haven.

The traditional highlight was the appearance of the 30 community queens.

They will herald the week's events on the Key to the Cities tour, beginning today and running through Friday.

Other events are: Blossomtime fashion show at 8 p.m. Wednesday, at Shadowland ballroom, St. Joseph; Blossomtime youth parade, 3:30 p.m. Thursday, in St. Joseph; Blossomtime country concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, at Niles high school; and Blossomtime youth dance, 8 p.m. Friday, at Shadowland ballroom.

The grand floral parade will step off in St. Joseph at 1 p.m. next Saturday, and move through St. Joseph and Benton Harbor.

The parade will be followed by a square dance at 7 p.m. at Benton Harbor high school; and the Blossomtime grand floral ball, at 9 p.m. at Shadowland ballroom.

Lottery Winnings Diverted From Boat To Leaky Roof

The old adage "when it rains, it pours" has a special meaning for Richard Geipel of 1628 Pontiac court, St. Joseph township.

Geipel, innkeeper at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, recently won $1,500 in the Michigan state lottery Triple Play (gold) game. He planned to use the prize winnings to purchase a new boat, but a leaky roof put a damper on those plans and he ended up spending the money for a new roof on his house. His only comment on the new roof — "I hope it floats."

Girl Scouts Receive Grant

Singing Sands Council of Girl Scouts has received a scholarship grant for the formation of a special patrol, including ten girls and two adults, to attend "Wyoming Trek" at Girl Scout National Center West, near Ten Sleep, Wyo., Aug. 4-28.

National Center West, a 15,000-acre site owned and operated by Girl Scouts of the United States of America, provides a variety of programs, including horseback riding, archaeology, hiking and backpacking and requires advanced skills in camping and outdoor living.

The trip is made possible through the DeWitt Wallace Reader's Digest scholarship grant, designed for sharing of responsibility and financial support by the Singing Sands Council, the community and the participants. The patrol will be comprised of Scouts and non-Scouts whose families could not otherwise afford to send them.

The scholarship is available from a trust fund presented to the Girl Scouts in 1971 by Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Wallace, founders and co-chairmen of the Readers' Digest. Income received by the fund was designated by Wallace for expanding the "Wyoming Trek" opportunities. Over 150 girls will benefit this year from the fund.

Assisting with the recruitment of patrol participants are Theresa Salzman, of the Big Sisters of St. Joseph county; Joan Murry, of the Berrien County Department of Social Services; and Ruth Jewett, project director for the Singing Sands Council.

The Council will furnish general camping equipment and extensive training in outdoor skills to prepare the patrol physically and psychologically for their experience in wilderness living.

The community is invited to share in the project through donations of personal camping equipment and supplies, such as boots, ponchos, flashlights and film. Donors are asked to contact the program department of Singing Sands Council, 1635 North Ironwood drive, South Bend.

Plan Bingo At YWCA

Afternoon bingo will be initiated in the twin cities area beginning Thursday, May 8, at the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA.

Games will be held each Thursday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. The nursery will be available for preschool children from 1 to 4:30 p.m. at $2 for the afternoon.

Profits from special games will be used for special programs at the YWCA, aimed at specific needs in the community. Some of these needs may be based outside the building, depending on money available.

Profits from regular games will be used for on-going expenses to help meet the rise in costs brought on by the current economic situation.

Judith K. Clark will be in charge of the games, working with volunteer teams of YWCA members.

The YWCA, at the corner of Pleasant street and Lake boulevard, St. Joseph, is a participating member of the Blossomland United Way.

The committee in charge of the project is seeking volunteers to assist as workers for the bingo games.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Blue Potatoes? Yuk!

Dear Ann Landers: I married a wonderful gal, a psychology major who also happens to be a fantastic cook. Here's the problem.

Immediately after our honeymoon Sally began to prepare some very fancy dinners — exotic dishes I had never heard of before. When she served me mashed potatoes colored blue I told her to please get back to the simple stuff because food with strange coloring kills my appetite.

Sally insists I have a hangup and I must get rid of it. So now I'm getting pink milk, purple cottage cheese and polka-dot cauliflower, along with the blue potatoes.

Sally reads your column and your word is law in our house.

Will you tell her artificially-colored food has nothing to do with emotional problems and to please stop trying to break me of a "hangup." This letter is not from Yale (I went to Brown eight years ago.) It's no gag, it's a for-real problem and I'd appreciate your help. — Hungry Herbie

Dear Herbie: This is for Sally: Ix-nay on the ood-lay oloring-kay, kiddo. Herbie doesn't need to conquer the "hangup." It's a normal revulsion. In fact, the thought of polka-dot cauliflower nauseates me and I can eat anything.

Old Story

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 24-year-old girl with a terrible case of acne. I was asking some of the girls at work what to do about it. The salves and soaps I've been using don't do any good.

One girl asked me if I was a virgin. When I said, "Yes," she replied, "Your skin will clear up when you have sexual relations." I then discussed this with a couple other girls and they agreed with her.

What about it, Ann? True or false? — Need To Know In Long Island

Dear Need: Is that old yarn still kicking around? Usually it's the boys who promote that garbage, but apparently some of the girls believe it, too. (Maybe someone sold THEM a bill of goods.)

There's no truth to it. If there were, all virgins would have skin problems and the promiscuous girls would have the most beautiful complexions. You know very well that such is not the case. Quit fooling around with salves and soaps and go to a dermatologist. Acne CAN be eliminated but you should be under the care and observation of a skin specialist.

nut?

You wouldn't believe the flap this has caused in our family. Hurry your answer. — Who's Who?

Dear Who: When your brother and his wife untied the knot legally, his wife became your FORMER sister-in-law. She was related only by marriage. When the marriage was terminated, she lost her "title."

No matter how often your brother marries he can give you only one set of in-laws at a time.

Mystic Advice

Dear Ann Landers: My girlfriend used to run her life

according to the horoscope in the paper. She got into trouble a few times because she relied too much on the horoscope. Now she is debating between a mind-reader in Beverly Hills and a palmist in Boyle Heights. Which would you recommend? — Joe

Dear Joe: I have no faith in either, but if she MUST choose, she's better off with the palmist. It will probably cost her less and besides, I'm sure she has a palm.

Confused about what's right and what's wrong in today's "new morality"? You're not alone. If you want honest, down-to-earth information on your sex questions, read Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex And How To Deal With It — A Guide For Teens And Their Parents." Send 50 cents in coin plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Three movies will be featured for Family Film Night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial Library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, May 6, at 7:30 p.m.

"Music Box" is a Laurel and Hardy comic which follows the comedy team as they attempt to deliver a piano up an unusually long flight of stairs; "Rhapsody of the Colorado" follows a group of travelers on the rapids of the Colorado river through the Grand Canyon, and "Vanishing Prairie — Large Animals that Once Roamed the Plains," an excerpt from the feature-length production "Vanishing Prairie," shows the prong horn antelope, big horn sheep, mountain lion and coyote with close-up photography.

A story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Saturday, May 10, at 11 a.m.

A photographic display will be at the library for the month of May, through the courtesy of Tim Schroeder.

New books at the library are "Strong Wine Red as Blood," Robert Daley; "The Great American Insurance Hoax" by Richard Guarino and Richard Trubo, and "Clout: Mayor Daly and His City" by Len O'Connor.

Lemon Overdose

It was bound to happen. Yesterday, I blacked out from an overdose of lemon.

Ever since manufacturers of everything discovered lemon had a fresh, clean smell, my nose has been on the verge of puckering.

If started out as one of those typical, average days in the life of a housewife. I ran my lemon deodorizer up the flag to see who could salute it, swished my dishes through lemony suds, damp mopped my floor with lemon-scented ammonia and spread a smooth coat of lemon wax on it.

I gave the furniture a spritz of lemon wax, and took the prints off the picture window with my lemon window cleaner.

Everything was so fresh and clean smelling I thought I was going to be sick, so I called Mayva and made plans for lunch.

Stepping into the shower, I lathered up with lemon soap and washed my hair with lemon essence and climbed into the car which was a lemon before lemons came into style.

Mayva had already ordered me a lemon diet drink and blew lemon menthol cigarette smoke into my face all during lunch. After lunch, I popped a lemon sour breath mint into my mouth and we shopped for about an hour before I knew I must return to my lemon dream cottage.

There was no escaping. I went out to sit by the garbage cans. They had been sprayed with lemon. I put my head in the oven. It had been cleaned with lemon foam. I turned on TV. Graham Kerr was arranging lemon slices around a flounder.

When my husband came home I was propped up in a chair mumbling to myself.

"What's wrong?" he asked pecking me on the cheek and nearly knocking me out with his lemon after-shave lotion.

"I want to smell dirt again," I said, "do you understand? Good old-fashioned musty, rancid, greasy, baked-on dirt. And I want to smell hair with a wet possum aroma and shoes that smell like feet, and chairs that smell like leather and bodies that sweat and refrigerators tainted with cantaloupe."

"Now, now," he said patting my hand, "you're going to be all right. It's been a bad day. You just sit there and relax and I'll bring you a nice, cold lemonade."

That's when I passed out.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) weigh what you say today very carefully when dealing with a sensitive friend. A thoughtless remark will leave ill feelings.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll find yourself embarrassed if you pal around with friends today who are able to spend more freely than you can.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You won't be as self-disciplined today as you should be. You'll find it easier to put things off till tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Decisions you make today are apt to be short-sighted and based upon conclusions neither factual nor practical.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be careful in material transaction with friends today. Your generous nature is likely to overrule common sense.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things will not come your way today by wishful thinking. You'd better roll up your sleeves and get to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll mistakenly rely upon another to take care of something important you could do better yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Your social image is extremely delicate today. Don't try to upstage others or do anything potentially in poor taste.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An event will not turn out as fruitfully as you hope today. It won't be too disappointing. Don't make too much of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be lavish with your compliments unless the other party deserves them. Flattery for its own sake won't work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Put blinders on today when you pass shop windows featuring expensive items that you know are beyond your budget.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll knowingly let those in your charge get away with things they shouldn't today. Later they'll try the same thing again.

Family Ties

Dear Ann Landers: Settle a family argument, please. My husband's brother was divorced from his wife. Is she still our sister-in-law? If so, does this mean if he marries three more times we could end up with four sisters-in-law on account of this

Dr. Lester Coleman

We've got a thumb sucking problem in our family. My husband is infuriated whenever he sees our five-year-old son suck his thumb. Are there any new ways to break the habit?

Mrs. L. R. E., R.I.

Dear Mrs. R.: The causes of thumb sucking are not new, and there are no new treatments.

It is obvious that your husband is not aware of the psychological factors involved in thumb sucking. Because of his fury and the accompanying scolding and shaming, he is perpetuating the more deeply imprinting the anxieties and insecurities of your child.

Psychologists agree that thumb sucking is the outgrowth of fears, anxieties, insecurities and feelings of inadequacy. There is also a concept that the sucking reflex must be satisfied during infancy. When this is thwarted, thumb sucking may be extended into early childhood.

The best way to treat this problem is not to treat it. If parents are more relaxed, sympathetic and understanding, if they ignore the thumb sucking and try to learn what is creating it, then the problem will be resolved.

Nagging, anger, shame and fury may make the child stop thumb sucking, but will undoubtedly induce other psychological problems that are not so obvious and therefore far more difficult to correct.

Even at this early age, consultation with a psychologist or a psychiatrist may uncover the basic reason for your son's anxiety. When this is eliminated the thumb sucking will usually stop.

I have a hydrocele. Can this be cancerous? Can this affect my being a father? I am 22.

Mr. E. W., Tenn.

Dear Mr. W.: A hydrocele is a collection of fluid surrounding the testicle. There are a number of different types and variations.

None of them is dangerous. None indicates the possibility of cancer. They are cured easily by simple surgery. The results are excellent and they do not affect the fertility of the person.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH If all of your friends seem to mumble, check your hearing. The chances are great that your friends are not at fault.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye-care booklet available called, "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Eye booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Disillusioned Policeman Finds New Life In Country

By KATHY BLACKBAY
PENTWATER, Mich. (AP) — Policeman Keith Wells knew it was time to leave Detroit when another patrolman took his beat one night and was murdered. He saw it was time as he stood by the bed of a dying patrolman. The officer was close to retiring from the force and planned to take up a new career. He caught a bullet in the throat, and it spun downward through his body, tearing up everything in its path.

When the doctor told him that fear for his safety was destroying his wife's health, Wells decided it was time to leave. The final blow came when Mrs.

Wells went to the hospital with a sperm attack. Her doctor blamed it on anxiety.

Officer Wells had seen enough needless state policemen.

"I said 'Baby, it's not worth it,'" he recalled. "It was the combination of things, and Jean got sick. The doctor said, 'get her away from here.'"

Besides his wife, there were two young daughters to consider.

"The crux of the problem was that Keith worked in the ghetto," Jean Wells said. "His work was getting rough. I was working with the police wives and it seemed as though we were always serving at funerals. His partner took his car one night and was shot. Keith might have been on that run."

The family made an abrupt break with Detroit and decided to move outstate. Four months after their decision, time enough to sell their house, they went from metropolitan to village life. They arrived in Pentwater in the summer of 1970 without work, only courage and optimism for a safer life. Detroit was the only place they had ever lived.

Moving on had long been in their minds, Mr. and Mrs. Wells said. They often dreamed of owning a farm, as so many urbanites do.

The Wells family first saw Pentwater in 1965 after a tornado tore up their intended campsite and they were detoured to Charles Mears State Park in northern Oceana County.

"We fell in love with the place and kept coming back," he said.

When they finally moved to Pentwater they found that village land wasn't — and still isn't — any bargain. The out-of-towners paid $1,500 for a rundown cottage and lot, a sum they grant was a little high. But they got in before a land price boom.

"It wasn't easy to give up a home five times the size of this," Wells said of the former cottage, now a comfortable early American style home.

But in Detroit, the family didn't have the security it feels now.

"The girls were given a certain way to school," Mrs. Wells recalled. "If they were even two minutes late, we got on the phone."

She said that was the standard procedure of all parents in the neighborhood.

"Even when I walked the dog," he said, "I took a gun."

In winter, Pentwater's

population hovers around 1,000 and swells to about 8,000 when the summer people arrive.

"I look forward to when the summer people come," Wells said. "But I'm getting like the natives. When fall comes and all those people leave, it's a relief. Then we get our town back."

"We can tell the difference in our kids from the summer kids," he said. "They're at different plateaus. The summer kids are more worldly."

Friends and relatives had mixed feelings about their leaving the big city for a more rustic life, and fellow officers were surprised that Wells could just pick up and go.

"When I was there, there was a slow of them that wanted out," Wells recalled. They said "I wish I had the nerve to do what you're doing."

"I think it's an economic thing. Job security keeps us tied down," he said. "People get bogged down with payments, so they don't dare give up their jobs. We never lived over our heads. Not being in debt is one of the main things that kept us going."

Anyone thinking of making a move without job assurance can benefit from what Keith and Jean Wells have learned.

DOWNEY WED: John Downey, who for 20 years was a prisoner in the People's Republic of China, and was released March 11, 1973, was married in the Chapel of St. Thomas More at Yale University in New Haven, Conn., Saturday with his bride, the former Audrey Lee. Downey, 44, is a student at Harvard University Law School. The Chinese born Mrs. Downey is a research associate in molecular biophysics and biochemistry. (AP Wirephoto)

Woodcock, Bond Speakers At NAACP Meeting

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — A powerful union leader and a liberal black lawmaker have focused on the nation's rough economic straits in speeches before the state convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Presidential hopeful Julian Bond called for sweeping national reforms, and union leader Leonard Woodcock said America is in its worst recession since the 1930s when they addressed the state NAACP.

Woodcock, the head of the United Auto Workers, said the nation must stop listening to conservative economists and the government must spend more money to end the economic crisis.

The convention was held Saturday at Adrian College.

Unless we can solve our economic problems, Woodcock said, "we will end up fighting among ourselves for the available jobs."

Woodcock criticized President Ford for asking about the source of money to help revitalize Detroit.

"When we had to fight Hitler and the Japanese," Woodcock said, "the government didn't ask where the money was coming from. If we had asked, we would be under Nazi rule today."

The UAW chieftain added that the federal government has the power to turn the country around and it will be a tragedy if the problem isn't understood.

Woodcock was somewhat optimistic about the auto industry, however, saying a spring upturn in sales that has yet to materialize may yet come now that spring finally has arrived.

If sales remain depressed, Woodcock predicted, a current production increase will be cut back.

Bond, a Georgia state legislator, said overall reform of the nation's economy and unemployment policies are needed to get the country back on its feet.

He said the nation's spending priorities should be altered to include increased public works and job creation programs.

Concerning his presidential aspirations, Bond said he has set a mid-June deadline for fund-raising and campaigning.

"If enough support is raised, I will become a definite candidate," he said.

But he said he wouldn't accept a vice presidential nomination.

"It's either all or nothing," he said.

He called the economy the nation's biggest issue and listed unemployment as No. 2.

He called for a cut of about 40 per cent in defense spending which, he said, wouldn't pose any threat to the nation's security.

"We find it easy to open our hearts to Vietnamese orphans who were made that way by U.S. involvement in Indochina," he said. "I find it frightening that there are so many people out of work here in this country and yet we open our hearts and our nation to so many from outside the U.S."

Stadium Price Goes Up

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Pontiac Stadium Building Authority says the cost of the new domed arena has risen by more than one-third in the past 18 months.

The boost came despite a contract which was supposed to have protected the city from cost overruns on the new home of the Detroit Lions.

Officials now put the cost of the facility at $55.7 million, up $15 million from the price tag announced in late 1973.

Robert Rummel, executive director of the authority, said inflation and design changes for the facility's fabric roof are responsible for the cost increase.

He said the boost is not a violation of the contract because the design changes were approved after agreement on a no-increase contract with the contractors, Barton-Malow Corp.

Officials said the city has been forced to borrow more than $7 million to pay for the overruns.

In 1973, Rummel estimated the cost of the roof at $9 million. Officials said the roof now will cost $10.1 million.

Rummel said other cost increases are for seating changes, sewer alterations and different artificial turf.

Rummel said he couldn't explain why the changes were made.

The National Football League Lions will make the stadium their home this fall.

Conference Spot

MOSCOW (AP) — A communique published today following the visit of Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat called for equal representation of the Palestinians in a resumed Geneva peace conference. But no mention was made of when the Geneva talks should be reopened.

FATHER DIES DURING CONTEST Michigan Lass Carries On

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — A plucky 17-year-old girl is carrying out her father's last wish, remaining in the America's Junior Miss Competition despite his death.

Pamela Miller, the Michigan Junior Miss, was told of her father's death moments after she competed in a Youth Fitness routine Saturday at the contest in Mobile, Ala.

The news of the death was broken to her by her mother, Patricia Miller, who was informed several hours earlier that Richard Miller had died at their Battle Creek home.

Mrs. Miller told officials of the pageant that Pamela "took the news very well."

Miller, 50, had been disabled with multiple sclerosis for 14 years.

Mrs. Miller said he urged Pamela to stay in the competition, which ends tonight.

"This is what her father wanted her to do and I feel she will stay. By not telling her until evening, we thought she would do better during the judges' interviews which make up 55 per cent of the scoring," Mrs. Miller explained.

Miller was employed as a recreational therapist at the Fort Custer State Home in Battle Creek for several years until his illness forced his retirement in 1964. A native of Houghton, he attended Michigan Technological University after serving in Burma in World War II.

Pamela said before the pageant her fondest dream was to qualify for the finals so her father could see her on television.

TEDDY'S CRITIC
FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The Most Rev. Daniel A. Cronin, bishop of Fall River, has criticized Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for his opposition to a Senate bill to prohibit use of federal funds for abortions.

Nixon's Promises 'Falsified'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Yale University President Dr. Kingman Brewster Jr. has told graduating University of Michigan students that incidents in the administrations of Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon gave rise to cynicism.

"Under President Johnson, the promise of the Great Society was falsified by the performance ... its hopes were sapped by the claims and cost of an immoral war."

"Under President Nixon, too many exaggerated promises were knowingly false when they were made," he said.

Brewster received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the commencement, which saw 6,200 other degrees awarded.

Dr. Brewster was a substitute for Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who originally was scheduled. He bowed out because of the press of State Department affairs.

13-Cent Letters Appear Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — What effect is the Postal Service decision to merge air mail with first-class likely to have on future postage rate increases?

The Postal Service doesn't say in its request to the Postal Rate Commission for an opinion on the merger, but a new rate schedule expected this year is likely to eliminate a separate category for air mail and set 13 cents per ounce as the postage for domestic letters.

If, as the Postal Service plans, the merger takes place while present rates are in effect, there will no longer be any reason to pay the 13-cent air mail rate — a letter with a 10-cent stamp will be treated the same as one with a 13-cent stamp.

The Postal Service plans to go ahead with the merger Aug. 1, but even though the opinion of the Postal Rate Commission is not binding in this case, postal officials might delay the changeover if the commission has not made a decision by then.

The commission, a regulatory body responsible for monitoring major changes in postal operations, must invite the public to comment on the merger and ask the Postal Service questions about it. The length of the process is hard to predict.

Requirements involved in obtaining a postage rate increase are such that Oct. 1 is now seen as the earliest date that the Postal Service might be able to raise its rates. The service is operating in the red, and its expenses will rise further when negotiations under way with four unions lead to new contracts for 600,000 postal workers.

Unless the Postal Service wants to go to fractional rates, 13 cents appears safe as the upper limit, for this year at least.

Within 100 days of the date that it files a rate increase petition with the Postal Rate Commission, the Postal Service could raise the first-class rate by no more than one-third of the present 10-cent figure, but it could not go higher until the commission made a final decision. The rate-changing process involves delays that would almost certainly preclude such a decision this year.

In disclosing its plans to merge air mail with first-class mail, the Postal Service stressed that most mail sent long distances now moves by air. It also promised that service for all mail under the new system will be as good or better than present air mail service.

Service standards now call for air mail letters picked up by 5 p.m. to be delivered the next day in adjacent regions and within two days anywhere in the continental United States.

On first-class mail, the objectives are next-day delivery in metropolitan areas and some adjacent areas.

FPC Decision: Wildlife, Or Save Customers Cash?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Each summer, nesting birds flock to a wildlife refuge in northeastern Alaska. Caribou and other animals migrate through the wilderness area.

If a natural gas transportation company has its way, a pipeline will cut through the refuge along a route that environmentalists claim will upset the birds' propagating and migrating patterns. But the company says that route would save money for natural gas customers.

The Federal Power Commission begins hearings today on the proposal and on a proposed alternate route that would involve converting the gas to a liquid and transporting it 1,900 miles by ship.

The commission is faced with competing plans offered by the El Paso Alaska Co., an affiliate of the El Paso Natural Gas Co., and the Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co., a group of pipeline and oil companies.

The hearings, which are expected to continue until next autumn, will result in the commission deciding whether to grant permits to either company, or to recommend a compromise route.

They will be held before Administrative Law Judge Nahum Liff and will be divided into two phases, with the first considering technological and policy matters and the second focusing on environmental problems.

El Paso wants to build an 800-mile pipeline, roughly parallel to the trans-Alaska oil pipeline now under construction, from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope to Point Barrow on the state's northern coast.

At Point Barrow, the gas would be liquefied, pumped onto a tanker, and shipped to Point Conception near Los Angeles where it would be converted back to gas and piped to various distributing companies.

The route offered by Alaskan Arctic would run a total of 2,625 miles, cutting through the Arctic wildlife refuge and the Yukon Territory, and splitting in the province of Alberta for two destinations: California and southern Pennsylvania.

The two competing companies are transportation firms and do not own the estimated 22 trillion cubic feet of natural gas believed to be in the North Slope fields. But they hope to pump one trillion cubic feet of gas a year to distribution companies in the lower 48 states.

Ronald Wilson, an attorney representing an environmentalist consortium composed of the Sierra Club, the Wilderness Society, the National Audubon Society, and the Alaskan Conservation Society, said the Alaskan Arctic plan to run the pipeline through the refuge "is not a fit use for something set aside for wildlife."

He said groups in Alaska were still studying the possible damage the pipelines could cause the environment and that members of the consortium have not taken final positions on either proposal.

Alaskan Arctic disputing claims that its project would upset the wildlife refuge, says it offers the most environmentally sound transportation system at a lower cost than that offered by El Paso. Alaskan Arctic claims its route would operate more cheaply and would trim the cost of natural gas by an estimated $845 million annually.

"These transportation cost savings will be realized for all market areas: Western, as well as Midwestern and Eastern," it said in a paper outlining the case it will present to the commission.

Aussie PM Asks Aid For Indochina

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Australian Prime Minister Gough Whitlam has called on nations that fought in Indochina to join a massive program of reconciliation and reconstruction in that region.

Whitlam told a news conference Sunday that Australia, which he described as one of "the guilty countries" that participated in the Vietnamese "civil war," already has begun supplying relief aid.

The Australian prime minister, who is attending the 34-nation Commonwealth summit here, flies to Washington on Wednesday for talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Whitlam issued his appeal after being asked if he believes that nations that fought in Vietnam, such as the United States, have an obligation to help in rebuilding a unified Vietnam.

He replied that Australia has such an obligation and has begun fulfilling it, and he thought others should do the same, preferably through international organizations.

The Australian leader's aides reported later he intends repeating his call in a major speech he will make in Washington, and intends raising the matter in his talks at the White House.

Whitlam also was asked if Australia's faith has been shaken in the United States as an ally in the light of the American withdrawal from Indochina.

He said: "America has been, is and will continue to be the greatest military country in the world. What I think we should realize is that from now on America's commitments will require the support of the administration and the Congress. If the President and Congress support commitments, I have no reason to believe those commitments would not be effective."

Whitlam declared that the ANZUS defense treaty between the United States, Australia and New Zealand was as valid as it ever has been in its 21-year history.

As regards ANZUS I have never heard any president or congressional leader express any doubts as to the validity and relevance of the arrangements.

A newsman asked under what circumstances Whitlam's Labor government might adopt a position of non-alignment in world affairs.

Australia is aligned and therefore is not eligible to join that group of countries, he said, but added that it would benefit Australia to have close contacts with non-aligned countries.

STATE PRIMARY Wallace Tabbed Man To Defeat

DETROIT (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace is the man to beat in Michigan's 1976 presidential primary, Washington Democratic Sen. Henry Jackson said Sunday.

Jackson said he "definitely" will run in the primary. Wallace, who won the 1972 Michigan balloting, also has announced his intentions to be in the race.

"Wallace is not going to be defeated — except by hard work," said Jackson. Wallace polled nearly half the vote in 1972.

Jackson also said he would make no agreements with Wallace in the event of a stalemated Democratic National Convention.

"George Wallace would get no deals from Scoop Jackson," he said. Jackson added he is convinced that Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will not seek the presidential nomination.

On another topic, Jackson said he believes the nation's cities which have been hard-hit by the recession, should get special federal help.

In an appearance on the Lou Gordon show on WKBD-TV, Jackson said he would support full U.S. military intervention to prevent communist aggression against South Korea.

"We have a treaty commitment with Korea. We must honor the treaty," he said.

The senator said he would support use of U.S. troops and bombers to protect South Korea.

He also said America traditionally has opened its arms to refugees and should provide whatever support is needed for those who fled South Vietnam.

Jackson criticized Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, but said he believed the decision on keeping him is up to President Ford.

Relatives Log 127,000 Miles Toward Degrees

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Mrs. Barbara Harrod and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Carroll Harrod, have logged a few miles on the road pursuing nursing degrees — 127,000 miles.

The two, both 38, have been making the 200-mile drive from Burwell to classes at the College of St. Mary in Omaha for two years.

They will be awarded their associate science degrees in nursing from the college next Saturday. They plan to become registered nurses and return to work at the Community Memorial Hospital in Burwell.

Carroll, the wife of Dale Harrod, says the twice-a-week drives between Burwell and Omaha helped her log 87,000 miles the last two years.

Barbara, who is Mrs. Keith Harrod, goes home only on weekends but has charted 40,000 miles.

Executive Gifts Still Flowing In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Despite recent tremors at General Motors, the gift business is apparently going strong in corporate Detroit.

Most of the gifts given to corporate executives are in the $10 to $25 range, however, mostly because $25 is the maximum allowed for a tax deduction.

But some range into the hundreds of dollars.

Most major firms have strict rules against receiving gifts of more than nominal value from people doing business with the company. The idea is to prevent even the appearance of favoritism.

General Motors Corp. recently fired 25 employees in New York who admitted accepting gifts from car dealers in violation of the firm's written policy.

Nonetheless, the number of gifts to corporate execs generally is on the rise, according to people who supply the them.

"We sent out more than $1 million worth of turkeys, pheasants, capons, hams, boxes of steaks and cheese boxes last Thanksgiving and Christmas," said Charlotte Whitlock of Loewenstein Poultry & Game Co. of Detroit.

"Most of them were corporate gifts," she said. "Some of the business results from an employer doing something for his employees, but a lot of it involves salesmen buying items for their contacts."

"The auto companies themselves don't send a lot of food, but the dealers will often send food to the people they deal with in the auto companies."

Robert B. Galby, president of Peerless Detroit Inc. says the propriety of the gift depends on the importance of the recipient.

"If a traffic manager at a plant earns $14,000 or $15,000 a year, it's all right to give him a Parker pen and pencil set. It won't corrupt his judgment, but a color television might. You could give a $35,000-a-year man in middle management a $12 set of steak knives, but not a trip to Europe."

While most gifts are small, the executive gift firms still sell more expensive items.

Joe Valenti, a veteran in the gift industry, said a salesman earning between $50,000 and $75,000 would find a range of gifts at his shop.

"We'd just show him what we had and let him make the selection," Valenti said.

The trend in the lower priced gifts is to let the recipient pick what he wants.

U.S. Begins Cutting Back Thailand Troop Strength

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The United States will remove more than one-quarter of its troops stationed in Thailand in the next two months, taking its first major step toward total withdrawal from its last military foothold in Southeast Asia, it was announced today.

The announcement, made jointly by the Thai and U.S. governments, said the authorized troop strength of 27,000 would be cut 28 per cent to 19,500. The announcement did not say how many of the 350 U.S. military planes remaining from the armada that bombed Cambodia and North and South Vietnam will be allowed to remain.

However, Thai Foreign Minister Chatichai Choonhavan said for the time being his country will hold on to 130 South Vietnamese Air Force planes that were flown there by refugees. They are claimed by both the new Saigon regime and the United States, which gave them to the former Saigon government.

He said there has been no contact so far between U.S. officials and the Thai government about the planes and the next step is to hold talks. Chatichai also said his government is ready to open diplomatic relations with North Vietnam.

Saigon radio, monitored in Bangkok, today carried the first word of release of persons imprisoned by the old South Vietnamese regime. It broadcast an invitation by the new regime for newly freed political prisoners and their families to meet at a pagoda and help plan a welcome home ceremony for people returning from Con Son prison island.

Communist broadcasts in the past have claimed the Nguyen Van Thieu government held tens of thousands of political prisoners, but the Thieu government claimed it held only criminals and Communists.

The 25,000 U.S. servicemen now in Thailand, mostly air force men, represent half the number during the peak in 1968-69 and are concentrated on four upcountry bases.

The fall of the South Vietnamese government last week prompted some left and center Thai parliamentarians to demand that the government "drive out the Americans as soon as possible." The United States has no status of forces agreement with Thailand, its oldest Asian ally, and based its presence on old agreements between former administrations.

American troops first came to Thailand in 1962 with 10,000 men. Troop strength climbed in the middle sixties and soared to 6,000 as U.S. jets tried to blunt the 1972 North Vietnamese offensive.

In other Indochina developments:

—Ex-president Duong Van "Big" Minh was released from custody along with 14 other old government figures by the new government in Saigon. Liberation Radio announced in a broadcast monitored in Bangkok.

—Nguyen Cao Ky, former premier and vice president of South Vietnam, told newsmen in Guam the United States was not to blame for the fall of South Vietnam and placed the responsibility on President Nguyen Van Thieu and a what he called a corrupt Saigon administration.

—Associated Press writer Daniel DeLuce reported from Hanoi that 2,500 Vietnamese Roman Catholics attended early morning mass at Hanoi Cathedral on their first Sunday of peace in a generation.

The Chicago Tribune reported that Graham Martin, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, withheld information from officials in Washington and failed to disclose evacuation plans soon enough for Embassy personnel to leave Saigon in an orderly manner. In Monday's editions, the newspaper quoted an Embassy source from the U.S.S. Okinawa to which evacuees from South Vietnam were flown. Some officials said Martin seemed dazed by the quick takeover of South Vietnam.

BACKERS ON DIFFERENT TACK

Renew Refugee Aid Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional backers of aid to Indochinese refugees are renewing their efforts for aid legislation that omits the controversial issue of whether Congress should give retroactive approval to the use of U.S. troops in the evacuation of Vietnam.

The director of President Ford's refugee task force, L. dawn, was to testify before a House judiciary panel today on how much money will be needed to transport and care for up to 80,000 refugees.

The House last week rejected a $327-million aid bill for the refugees, partly because the bill contained after-the-fact approval of U.S. troop use for Saigon's evacuation.

The House International Relations Committee may begin work this week on a new bill that deals only with money and omits the controversial troop use authorization.

Similar activity on a new refugee relief bill also seems likely in the Senate. Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said they will introduce a bill to provide whatever funds are needed to help Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees being resettled in this country.

Meanwhile, Congress is ready to take final action on a bill to protect the environment against strip-mining. The measure, similar to one President Ford vetoed last year, was coming before the Senate today.

The bill was hammered out by a House-Senate conference committee from differing versions passed by both chambers in March.

The bill establishes minimum federal standards for coal strip-mining, requires full reclamation and imposes a 35-cent-a-ton tax on coal to clean up past strip-mining excavations.

Bolt Cutters End Santa Barbara College Takeover

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Thirty-six students were arrested today after police used bolt cutters to slice through chains barring the doors of a $14-million University of California computer center. Students briefly occupied the Santa Barbara campus building to protest alleged indifference to minority problems. The students had taken over the building Sunday evening and occupied it for about three hours. Officers cut chains the students had used to padlock the computer center entrance and then cleared barricades to push open the doors. The arrests were made without incident and there was no violence. Across the country, a group of 35 students at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., left an office and classroom building they had occupied since last Tuesday. Their departure, just before midnight Sunday, came after a weekend of talks with university officials. A Brandeis spokesman said the university had rejected the students' demands for major increases in scholarships, faculty and administrative staffing in the coming academic year. Santa Barbara Police Chief A. W. Trembly said about 40

Reagan Candidacy Opposed

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (AP) — Accusing former Gov. Ronald Reagan of "betraying conservative principles," the United Republicans of California have adopted a resolution opposing his candidacy for president or vice president. The resolution carried 61 to 45 Sunday after more than four hours of debate. Supporters, such as former UROC chairman Walt Hintzen of Santa Barbara, said Republicans "lost of the Rockies have been so influenced by his press image as a conservative, they think Ronald Reagan walks on water." "It is our duty to tell the rest of the world what they have in Reagan, a man who is not a conservative," said Hintzen.

Two Georgia Officers Killed

CORDELE, Ga. (AP) — A state trooper and a city policeman were shot to death in the Cordelle police station apparently while the trooper was administering a drunken driving test to a motorist he had earlier arrested, authorities said. The trooper was the second shot to death in the line of duty since the Georgia State Patrol was organized in 1937. Authorities said the shootings occurred late Sunday after the trooper arrested a motorist on two charges, including drunken driving, and brought him to the station while the man's wife, mother and brother followed in their car. All four persons were arrested after the shooting. No charges were placed immediately. Killed were trooper James Young, about 38, a native of Fitzgerald recently stationed in Cordelle, and Cordelle policeman W. R. Haralson.

Bill Near Passage

Car, Driver Dunked In Galien River

NEW BUFFALO — Algirdas Darguzis, 50, Burbank, Ill., escaped injury early yesterday morning when his auto plunged into the Galien river north of here, state police at the New Buffalo post said. Police said the driver was headed south on Red Arrow highway near the river when he lost control of his car about 12:50 a.m. The auto struck 13 guard rails, crossed all four lanes of traffic, passed through a public fishing site parking lot and plunged into the river, police said. Officers said Darguzis was able to force open a window in the auto and swim to shore where nearby fishermen gave him help. Later yesterday morning the car was pulled out of the river, police said.

Malpractice Boycott To Continue

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — A spokesman for the city's anesthesiologists vowed they will continue their boycott over skyrocketing malpractice insurance rates, although he said 80 per cent of physicians in other specialties have renewed insurance. "Once and for all this issue must be met and resolved," Dr. Donald Walker, chief of anesthesiology at Franklin Hospital, said Sunday. He said an estimated four-fifths of private specialists in other fields are renewing their policies, but he added, "Our colleagues are behind us. I've been getting calls all morning long saying they want us not to back down."

Auto Sales Report Due

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's automakers report April sales results today, with analysts predicting yet another disappointment for the industry. Last month's sales were off sharply from the already poor showing of April 1974, when the energy crisis depressed sales. So, even the usual 4 per cent increase usually recorded from March to April still would leave sales lagging. But instead of the usual increase, domestic car sales are estimated at 515,000 for April, down 1.5 per cent from March and off 27 per cent from April 1974. If those estimates are correct, last month would be the worst April for Detroit's No. 1 industry in 14 years. Imports were expected to show a 15 per cent gain over a year ago at about 130,000 deliveries. That would be off 10 per cent from March.

Mrs. Griffiths Raps Media

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Former Michigan Rep. Martha Griffiths has lashed out at the media for its treatment of the Equal Rights Amendment. The media, she said Sunday, has been "more unfair in its treatment of the Equal Rights Amendment than of any other constitutional amendment ever put before the American people." The Michigan Democrat, who authored the amendment, charged the media has "generally selected people from off the streets and given them front-page coverage" to speak against the proposal. "The ERA has been given poor, not to say downright, dishonest coverage," she said. "For any other amendment, the press would have picked experts for the opposition, not women and others who are not lawyers and who tell different stories in different parts of the country."

Sturgis Couple Are Killed

VICKSBURG, Mich. (AP) — A Sturgis couple was killed Sunday when their single-engine plane crashed on a farm in rural Kalamazoo County, sheriff's deputies said. The Cherokee 140 was found in a field just east of here. Officials said they believed the crash occurred three hours before the wreckage was discovered. The victims identified as Clayton J. Martinka, 25, and his wife, Patricia, 27. There were no other people on board, deputies said. The plane took off from Kalamazoo Municipal Airport at 12:23 p.m. and was believed headed for Sturgis, where it is registered. But the plane apparently was headed back toward Kalamazoo when it crashed.

Government Help Asked

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The president of the American Osteopathic Association says the federal government should pay all medical malpractice insurance charges above current rates. Dr. Paul E. Wilson of Ocala, Fla., made the proposal in remarks to a weekend convention of Michigan osteopaths. "Putting a brake on additional costs for coverage will help, but in the long run, more drastic reform is called for," Wilson said. He reported his association wants a national health insurance plan. A federal agency would process malpractice claims and a federal court would settle valid ones. Attorney fees could not be more than 25 per cent of the total, Wilson said.

May Abandon Air Patrol

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Police are considering abandoning their airborne highway speed enforcement program. Capt. John Amthor, the State Police safety and traffic division commander, said the five helicopters and two fixed-wing aircraft could be replaced by more sophisticated, on-the-ground radar equipment. One device under study would take a picture of the driver of the car and the vehicle's license plate, monitor the speed of the car, and send speeding tickets by mail. The airborne program has been in operation for 12 years, mostly during the summer. Amthor said costs outstripping effectiveness. He said it takes five men to operate the program for one aircraft. When all seven aircraft are in operation, 35 men abandon daily routines.

'Too Concerned'

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The national commander of the 10,000-member American Indochina Veterans League, Harvey Denenberg, says he is bitter about the Ford administration's concern for the Vietnamese refugees.

Job Outlook A Bit Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says the unemployment rate, now at 8.9 per cent, has reached "approximately" its highest level in the current recession.

Simon also said he was heartened by the April jobless figures released last week because although unemployment increased 0.2 per cent, the size of the total labor force also rose.

Speaking Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Simon also predicted a drop in oil prices by the end of the decade. Referring to the oil exporting countries, Simon said "their proportion of the world's proven reserves will decline, coupled with their internal demands for funds to industrialize and diversify and all of the needs in their various economies."

"It's going to put pressure on the prices and I think we are going to see a lower price of oil — and I have no idea at what level because no one can forecast that either — before the end of this decade."

Meanwhile, there were these economic developments:

—The International Monetary Fund reported that the world's industrialized nations have regained most of the monetary reserves they had lost since the fourfold increase in the price of world oil.

The development appeared to end fears, at least temporarily, that oil importing nations would be bankrupted by the high cost of oil imports.

Several oil exporting nations, including Iran, Algeria and Indonesia, have experienced a decline in their reserves in recent months, the IMF said. However, the largest oil exporter, Saudi Arabia, remains the third-ranking nation in terms of total financial reserves.

Large borrowings by industrialized nations, the large flow of funds from oil producing nations and an improved balance of payments position of some nations apart from the flows of borrowed money are some factors that led to the increase in reserves, the IMF said.

—Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, has ended General Motors Corp.'s 40-year ranking at the top of Fortune magazine's top 500 companies. In its issue to be published Tuesday, Fortune also said oil companies have captured five of the top seven slots in its annual ranking of industrial corporations.

Fortune has been publishing the annual ranking by sales since 1935 but said a study showed General Motors had led in sales since 1935.

Exxon, with sales of $42.1 billion in 1974, led second-ranked GM handily as the auto maker had $31.5 billion in sales.

—The Conference Board, a group of private economists, predicted that the moderate growth and high unemployment projected by the Ford administration for the next five years could cost the United States as much as $350 billion in lost output.

"Except for the Great Depression, such massive losses of real output are of unprecedented magnitude," said Dr. Michael E. Levy in an analysis of the Ford administration's budget for the next fiscal year.

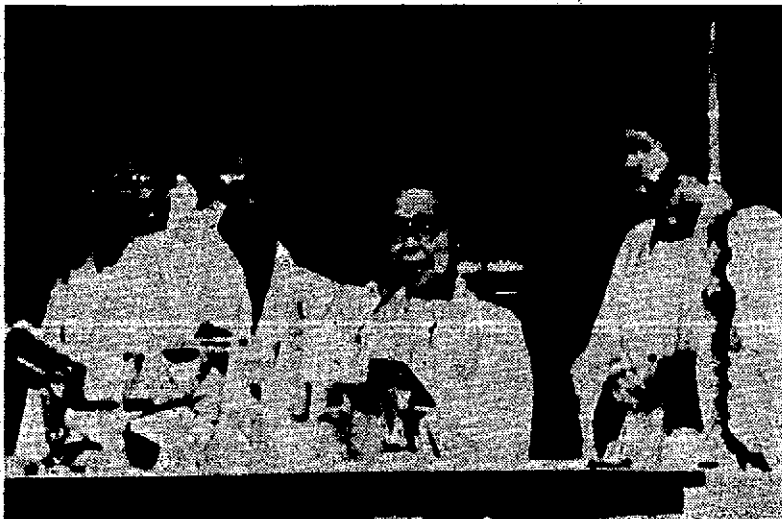

The board said that if unemployment exceeds 9 per cent, the federal budget deficit could easily reach $70 billion. However, the board said such a deficit could be financed without triggering a new bout of inflation because the capital market is now in a state of deflation.

Chinese Blast Russ Maneuvers

TOKYO (AP) — China charged today that recent Soviet naval maneuvers reveal "the limitless desire of the Soviet revisionists for sea hegemony."

Peking's official newspaper, the People's Daily, asked how the Soviet Union "could prove its sincerity toward detente ... while its battleships demonstrate their combat power."

"The paper's commentary, broadcast by Peking Radio, added that 'some European countries are demanding that the Soviet Union notify them of its naval maneuvers at least seven weeks in advance, and we agree that this is a completely justifiable demand.'"

Lansing Home Crowded But Happy For Refugees

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Thirteen tired Vietnam refugees have turned the three-bedroom home of Air Force Staff Sgt. Harold Dean into a small displaced persons center. The refugees are the parents, five brothers, two sisters, two half-sisters, a brother-in-law and a 3-year-old niece of Dean's Vietnam-born wife, Oanh. They arrived in Lansing on Friday after leaving Saigon in the American airlift April 22 and stopping over on Guam and California.

"We did not leave our country because we wanted to. We had to leave because our lives were in danger," said Cap Trong Pham, 59, Dean's father-in-law, a retired official of South Vietnam's national bank.

His daughter, Mai, 28, reported two Vietnamese women who worked with her at an American air base at Pleiku were tortured and humiliated when seized by Viet Cong soldiers.

She said they were stripped of their clothes and given tattered peasant dresses to wear. Nails on their fingers and toes were cut off and one finger also was severed, she said.

"Their hands looked like they had leprosy," said Mai, who reported seeing the two women later in Saigon.

The refugees also told of a "terror bombing" of leaflets dropped over Saigon.

Mrs. Dean said thousands of leaflets dropped shortly before the Communist takeover warned: "Anyone who has anything to do with Americans or American culture will be dealt with harshly."

Her relatives said leaflets contributed to mass panic and widespread attempts to leave the country.

Several of the refugees speak some English because of their extensive American contacts in Vietnam. Oanh, who married Dean in Vietnam in 1967, served as translator for others.

The Deans said they began processing papers for the evacuation about a month ago but didn't have the money to finance the family's escape from the country.

Finally, the U.S. State Department expedited their evacuation, and Dean is convinced that more than 500 letters written to President Ford and Congress by friends at Lansing's Cedarway Church got the family out.

Still worrying the family is the fear that two sons who were left behind may have been captured or killed. One worked on an American air base and the other was a high school teacher. They were not notified in time to flee Saigon with the other 13.

Pham and his wife Minh Thi Nguyen, 53, lost 20 to 30 pounds each over the past four months because food was scarce, Dean said.

The Lansing home is crowded but happy, and the refugee grandparents cuddle the Dean grandchildren they saw for the first time Friday — Herbert, 7, and 1-year-old Annette.

The two Dean children bunk in their parent's room, while the grandparents sleep in Herbert's room. The rest are scattered in three and four in the third bedroom, a basement room and the living room.

Some eventually will live with Air Force Lt. Col. James Pitts, Dean's brother-in-law, who owns a small farm near Montgomery, Ala.

"We are happy and this is no problem at all," Dean said Sunday.

THEY DIDN'T CARE

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors says it will stop offering air bags as optional equipment beginning with the 1977 model year because of consumer indifference and their steep cost to the company.

Budget Crunch Hits Day Care

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state budget crunch has hit the state Department of Social Services, which is dropping day care payments used solely for the health and social well-being of children.

Included in the payment cutback are children placed in day care centers because they are in physical danger if left constantly at home.

Helen Stanton, who heads a Detroit day care center said: "One of these days they are going to find one of those children dead."

About 1,500 children will be affected by the cutbacks.

Day care payments will be allowed, according to a department memo, only if the relative who cares for the child is mentally or physically ill. That means "the benefit (of day care) to the child is irrelevant," said the memo from Samuel Manzo, a Wayne County supervisor for family services.

One day care center supervisor said the new procedure in effect asks some parents to admit they are abusing their children.

The curtailed payments are a result of budget cuts ordered by Gov. William Milliken.

Howard Sausley, who directs the department's Office of Family Services, said payments will continue for children whose parents or guardians work, are in school or are training for a job.

Savings to the state may be minimal, as payments to centers run from $3.30 to $6.26 a day per child, with 75 per cent of the money coming from the federal government.

Sausley said if a home situation gets too bad because of the child's constant presence, more expensive foster care may be necessary.

PRESIDENT: The Rev. Dr. Ralph A. Bohlmann was elected Saturday to become president of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo. Sad Forecast For Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A former Northern Ireland prime minister says the province faces the "real and terrifying alternatives" of civil war or independence from Britain after a hardline Protestant victory in elections for an assembly to draw up a new constitution. The United Ulster Unionist Coalition, a Protestant group opposed to sharing power with Ulster's Roman Catholic minority, took 46 of the constitutional assembly's 78 seats in results announced over the weekend. Brian Faulkner, who served as prime minister of the province from 1971 to 1974 and headed a moderate Unionist party that won only five seats, told newsmen: "I fear the coalition's policies will lead to direct confrontation with the British government."

TOGETHER AGAIN: Canh Dean (in foreground holding child) was reunited in Lansing with her mother, father and other relatives who fled South Vietnam. Oanh married an American serviceman, Harold Dean, in Vietnam in 1967 and the couple lives in Lansing, Mich. The refugee family feared reprisals by North Vietnamese or Viet Cong because of connections with Americans. Worn out but happy, refugees arrived aboard the same plane Friday night after an airlift from Saigon, Guam and California. (AP Wirephoto)

PILE OF WORK: Logs and logging equipment lay scattered on the ground in the Red Lake State Forest near Waskish, Minn. Twelve teams of men spent a weekend cutting to help a friend pay medical bills. (AP Wirephoto)

Loggers Rescue Friend In Need

WASKISH, Minn. (AP) — Velmer Halama needed money — almost $7,000 of it.

His two daughters had just undergone extensive medical tests for serious diseases.

Shelly, 7, was tested for possible bone cancer and Jan, 9, for tuberculosis. Though Halama was relieved that neither was ill, he had to pay the hospital bills.

But Halama was lucky. He had friends.

And during the weekend of Feb. 22-23 up to 30 of them felled enough tamarack trees to more than cover his daughters' medical expenses.

The loggers, mostly from the Waskish-Kellier area, converged on a site in the Red Lake State Forest near Waskish and went to work.

"There aren't words to express how you feel about something like this," Halama said as he watched nearly 12 teams of men cut and pile the timber. "It's just great."

Franklin Kasbau, a Waskish farmer and close friend of Halama, knew of his friend's plight and came up with the idea of a logging benefit. It didn't take him long to enlist the help of the community. After two weeks of contacting people, the loggers began work.

"I believe in helping," said Don Ufford of Kellier. "The next time it might be my turn. I might have a catastrophe."

COURTS NEED HELP

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State courts need the legislature's help in obtaining statewide financing of courts, says Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice, Thomas J. Giles Kavanagh.

THE OUTPUT: Ends of freshly cut and stacked limbs make an interesting pattern. Loggers spent a weekend of their time cutting about $7,000 worth of logs to pay medical bills of farmer Velmer Halama's young daughters. (AP Wirephoto)

Vet Benefits Depend On Full Details

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Veterans cannot claim their benefits unless their military discharge record includes their report of separation and service record, the attorney general has ruled.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the so-called DD-214 must be included when county clerks record veterans' military discharges.

Until 1948, Kelley wrote, the military service record and report of separation were placed on the back of the discharge certificate. The procedure was changed in 1948, he said, so that the report of separation and military service record became a separate document.

The Michigan Veterans Trust Fund had requested the opinion to determine whether the change from having all data on one document to having it on two meant everything had to be recorded by the county clerk.

"In the past," Kelley wrote, "the certified copies of the discharge as recorded have been used as supporting documentation for all VA rights and claims. The DD-214 report of separation is currently used for this purpose. Thus, if only the discharge certificate is recorded none of the vital information needed to secure VA claims and benefits would be available."

"Without a record of these documents the benefits they were intended to help provide for cannot be claimed. The certificate of discharge, which contains nothing but the name, serial number, rank and date cannot be used for these purposes and is essentially useless without the other documents except to show the type of discharge received," he wrote. "Without the other documents except to show the type of discharge received," he wrote.

Islands Have Tourism Boom

TORTOLA (AP) — They didn't seriously start promoting tourism to these "treasure islands" until three years ago, but since then the tourism rate here has grown 15-20 per cent annually while generally declining in most other Caribbean islands.

Yet there are no golf courses, no jetport, no gambling, no cruise ships, no "big time" entertainment, no television, and only 700 beds in 20 small hotels and guest houses in the British Virgin Islands.

TRAINEE UNSEATED: Detroit police officer Judy Dowling, a nine-year veteran, leads her mount back to stable after learning the Mounted Division was being disbanded temporarily as a result of large-scale layoff of officers. Judy was in fourth week of a seven-week training program and would have been the first woman ever to join the mounted section. She owns five horses. (AP Wirephoto)

Detroit Mounties May Fade Away

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's versatile mounted police unit, which has been patrolling city parks and streets since 1891, soon may be nothing but a memory.

The 48-member Mounted Section has been caught up in the city's financial troubles and ordered to disband, perhaps permanently.

The officers are scheduled to be reassigned to precincts for

Detroit Water Department Ruled Liable

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit water department may be solely liable for millions of dollars in claims related to the 1971 Port Huron tunnel explosion which killed 22 men, a Detroit newspaper says.

The Detroit Free Press, in today's edition, said it has learned a ruling by a Wayne County Circuit Court judge has made contract clauses covering damages resulting from lawsuits questionable.

Those clauses were thought to protect the department from liability. The ruling has been appealed to the state Court of Appeals.

Government 'Lax' On Hiring Rules

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Congressional investigators are criticizing the government for lax enforcement of rules requiring federal contractors to end job discrimination against blacks and women.

In a report Sunday, the General Accounting Office said it found a pattern of "almost nonexistence of enforcement actions." It said the pattern could lead contractors to believe that "the compliance en intend to enforce" regulations against discrimination.

One-fifth of the "affirmative action" hiring plans approved by the Pentagon for its contractors do not meet federal guidelines, the GAO said.

Seventy per cent of the plans approved by the General Services Administration, the government's housekeeping agency, were deficient and did not have sufficient safeguards to promote job equality, the GAO added.

"As a result of these failures, the minorities who are supposed to be assisted by federal anti-discrimination efforts are understandably frustrated," said Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., fiscal-policy subcommittee chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

Bolling said the first responsibility for the plans lies with the government.

GAO investigators said that 10 years after an executive order banned discrimination by federal contractors, the Labor Department still does not have a standard for evaluating progress in employment of minorities.

The Labor Department is supposed to require each contractor with 50 or more employees and a contract above $50,000 to prepare an affirmative-action plan "to achieve prompt and full utilization of minorities and women at all levels and in all segments of the work force where deficiencies exist," the GAO said.

To force compliance, the department can cancel contracts.

The initial responsibility for evaluating hiring plans falls to compliance agencies within federal departments. The GAO said the Labor Department has evaluated fully only one-third of the 13 compliance agencies since 1972.

The investigators also said that coordination of compliance efforts within the government was inadequate. And they said that government field enforcers who negotiate with contractors over compliance steps frequently were exceeding the deadlines set for ending negotiations and cracking down with penalties.

The GAO study was an outgrowth of 1973 hearings by then-Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., on the economic problems of women.

In the year ending June 30, 1974, more than $50 billion in federal contracts were awarded to nonconstruction firms that together employed about 25 million workers.

Jordanians Tell Israeli Buildup

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

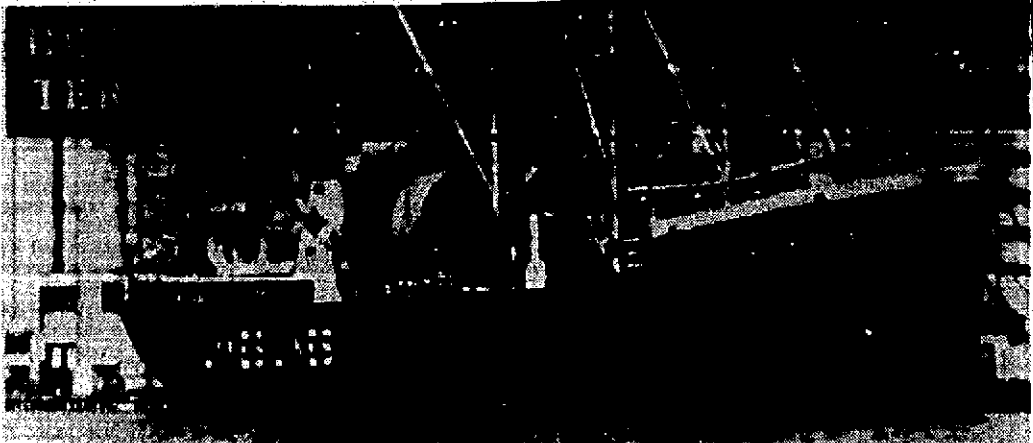

Israel is massing troops and armor along the entire length of the Syrian and Jordanian cease-fire lines, a Jordanian newspaper claimed today.

There was no immediate comment from the Israeli, Syrian or Jordanian commands.

The independent newspaper Al Dastour quoted Arab travelers from the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River as saying the build-up included tank columns and missile batteries that were "moved up to scores of concentration points on both Arab fronts."

Al Dastour said thousands of Israeli reservists released from service after the October 1973 war were recalled to active duty when the buildup started last week.

Meanwhile, Iraq's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Abdul Jabbar Shanshal, announced that his army lost 1,640 killed and 7,903 wounded in the final year of civil war between Iraqi troops and Kurdish rebels seeking an independent state in northern Iraq, the official Iraqi news

FARMERS NEED QUICK RELIEF

State Ponders PBB Questions

By FRED E. GARRETT
Saginaw News

MERRITT, Mich. (AP) — The poisoned-animal disaster on Michigan farms is very real. Losses run into millions of dollars. Total damages may never be known.

Long-range effects on farming are questionable along with the ability of the state to absorb the shock in an economy already tottering under a feeble auto market.

And possible effects on human genetics and future farm animals in the next several generations still are questionable.

The most immediate problem facing legislators is getting quick relief to farmers whose cows, swine, sheep or chickens were contaminated.

Other major questions are how to judge the total loss and who should pay.

Legislators, who visited a stricken area in Oscoda and Missaukee counties recently, say the problem started in the summer of 1973. A toxic fire-retardant chemical — polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) — from the Michigan Chemical Co. in St. Louis, was sent to Farm Bureau plants and mixed accidentally with regular feed as a nutritious additive.

The PBB had been dumped into bags the same color as those which normally hold the additive.

Farmers started complaining that summer to veterinarians who were equally baffled about prime animals dying, aborting new-borns, losing production of milk and eggs, and, in general, showing signs of "an unknown disease."

It was not until May 1974 the culprit was found.

By then, it was almost too late. But the Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Department of Health worked quickly.

They called for thousands of animals, 1.5 million chickens, 4.85 million eggs, tons of dry milk, cheese and butter to be destroyed. At last count, between 14,500 and 18,000 quarantined cattle had been killed and buried. Hundreds of swine and sheep were either quarantined or destroyed.

But the destruction was somewhat of a blessing to the farmer-owners. At least they had legal recourse to quick compensation.

What about the "marginal" victim, whose herds and flocks are — to say the least — "sick and unhealthy." Who will bail them out? Will they be subjected to long, involved court fights?

"The USDA should have set a lower level of tolerance for the poison to begin with," says Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, co-chairman of the House Agriculture Committee which is studying the disaster.

"Then we could have moved faster and quarantined more animals. And there is possible long-range effects on human health that must be considered because of the delay. We can't make guinea pigs out of humans."

Albosta, who is a farmer, contends the "maximum" levels for PBB were set "arbitrarily" by the USDA.

The USDA used one-part-per-million as the guideline when the problem first became apparent. Then, last November, the USDA lowered the level to .3

DEPRESSING report comes last week from Julius Shiskin, director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, who reported that nationally, unemployment soared to a 34-year high of 8.7 per cent. He said 8 million Americans were out of work with another 1.1 million giving up their search for a job.

ppm for milk, beef, pork and lamb and to .05 ppm for poultry.

"When I asked the director of the USDA in Washington why the figures used were different, he told me they were the only levels at which PBB could be detected with any consistency with the equipment available," Albosta said.

"I asked him why he wanted the consistency. He told me they would have to go to court and that definite proof would be needed on the level that caused PBB poisoning."

Sen. John Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, said Michigan farmers should be of concern to the USDA.

"The federal government goes to all sorts of lengths to aid people in times of frost, floods and tornadoes. This is even worse because it is so widespread, and the damages could be lasting."

The visiting legislators saw many dairy herds not quarantined because they were below the .3 ppm level. But those herds were far from healthy, and some were all but destroyed.

Many herds are off 50 per cent off in milk production and many cows are still dying because of the effects of PBB. Entire herds have been thrown "out of cycle" for the milking-calving combination which is a must if a dairy farmer is to survive.

Jim VanHartsema, 29, Falmouth, is stunned.

"I'm below the level for quarantine and must still operate," he said. "I'm $160,000 in debt, and we're still taking a beating."

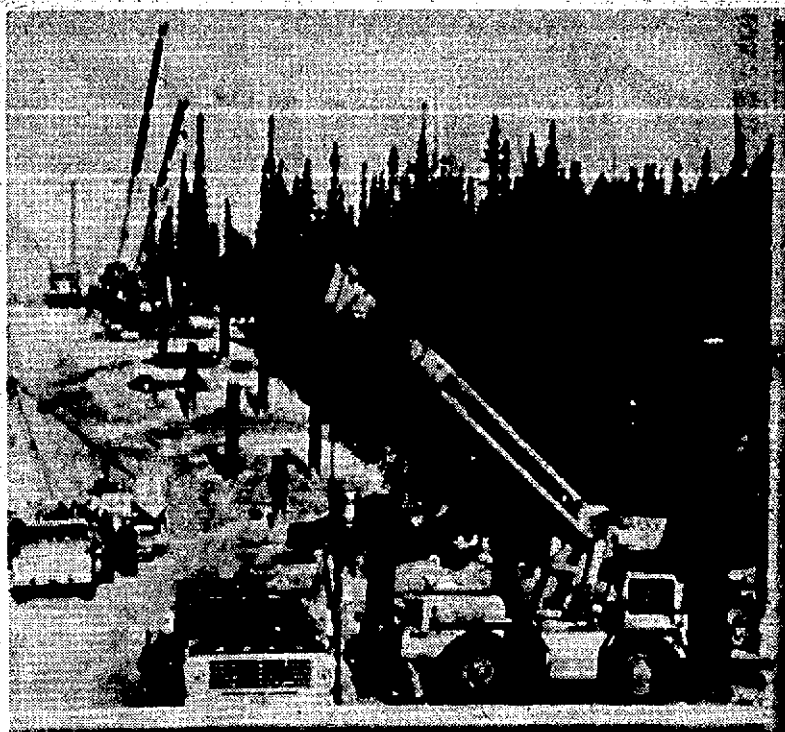

"I can't ship my animals to market without indicating they are 'contaminated,' which means they won't sell normal market. And they aren't producing enough to keep my family alive."

His records show a drop from 16,471 pounds of milk per cow in 1972 — before PBB — to a potential 13,882 pounds this year.

"It's the upper 3,000 pounds that is profit and must be used to feed my family and improve my herd," VanHartsema said.

Alfred Davis, 46, Merritt, was lucky. His herd was quarantined when his best cow died and tests showed PBB was present in amounts above .3 ppm.

"If I had known what was going to happen, I would have sold my cattle long ago," he said. "But I have 1,000 acres and have a diversified operation involving horses which were not affected. I would say the 55 per cent PBB additive in my feed is what caused the poisoning of my cows."

ALASKA PIPELINE CONSTRUCTION: Just north of the Yukon River, crews install pairs of supports for a section of the trans-Alaska pipeline which will be installed above ground. A cross beam will later be placed between the 18-inch diameter supports. Some 70,000 supports will be needed on construction of the oil pipeline. (AP Wirephoto)

Ken Zuiderveen, 24, Falmouth, said his herd's butterfat content has dropped by over half and his best cow has been damaged by PBB so badly she never will return to full production.

Ken's uncle, Gary Zuiderveen, 51, Merritt, says his animals have not been quarantined but he has lost 20 cows since Jan. 15.

"We bought the feed in the fall of 1973," he said. "My producing cows would eat only half. So — being tight Dutchmen — we spread the rest on the ground for my feeder cattle. That was the biggest mistake of my life."

MINUTES

There have been so many signals, some caught by American decoders, some missed. What does it all mean?

On Dec. 6, Navy Capt. Alvin Kramer of the cryptographic section might have known if he had finished translating a radio intercept of a Japanese spy in Hawaii. But there is more pressing business. Tokyo is transmitting to Nomura: all U.S. demands rejected; inform Hull, Sunday, Dec. 7, at 1 p.m. This is decoded. But what does it mean?

Dec. 6, Roosevelt sends a personal peace plea to Emperor Hirohito. Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, prepares an alert message to Pacific Army commands, including Hawaii.

The minutes tick down, to Dec. 7. The surprise is complete, and the huge naval base explodes in towering flames. The battleship Arizona takes a bomb through her stack and becomes a tomb for 1,000 men. Seven other battleships, lined up in a row and dead in the water, are hit and severely damaged.

Americans fight the attacking planes with anything at hand, machine guns torn from their mounts and fired from the hip, rifles, handguns, anything. Seaman William Clemmons, raging in a frustration that was soon to seize a nation, stands on the deck of his ship throwing the most lethal weapon around — potatoes.

A clerk at Wheeler Field insists that Lt. Robert Overstreet sign a receipt for sidearms. "Hell, man," the agitated officer replies, "this is war!"

They're Reviving Soapbox In Famed Chicago Square

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Memories of One-Arm Charley mingled with shouts of "Give him the hook!" as Chicagoans met to revive the art of soapbox oratory in Bughouse Square.

About 1,000 persons — old-timers, curious young couples, kids, fanatics and the merely nostalgic — gathered Friday night just north of the Loop in a small park whose seldom-used real name is Washington Square.

A few dozen people, some highly articulate, some almost incoherent, put their names on the speakers' list and stepped up on the makeshift platform.

Author Studs Terkel recalled a favorite play of One-Arm Charley, the "mayor" of Bughouse Square in the days when Communists, Wobblies and anarchists assembled each Friday night in Bughouse Square.

"We believe in heckling here," said Terkel. "We have a five-minute limit for speakers. If they go over five minutes, shout 'Give him the hook.' If you don't agree with what the speaker says, heckle him. See if he can answer you."

"One-Arm Charley had a way of handling hecklers. When one would start up, Charley would just say, 'If brains were bug juice, you couldn't drown a gnat.'"

"There was cheering and booing and a variety of speakers and hecklers throughout the evening Friday.

"Hermann Goering was the greatest soapboxer of them all," proclaimed one orator. "Forget his message, just think of his style."

"Jesus is the answer," declared a teen-ager with acne cream on his face. An elderly woman sucked from a half-pint bottle and shook her cane at the darkening sky as she listened.

An old radical in a cowboy suit stepped up. "We want to know if these Vietnamese coming here are really poor refugees or just more cheap labor wetbacks with no union!"

The tradition of Bughouse Square flourished for 40 years but died in the late 1930s.

"Some crazy ones spoke here," said Sidney Lens, a long-time union organizer, peace activist and one of the organizers of the Bughouse Square revival. "Some real oddballs spoke here. But some brilliant ones, too."

Added Lens, "We're taking back our right of free speech."

BUGGING THE ORATOR: Amateur orator, left in hat, holds microphone and fends off enthusiastic hecklers at a revival of soapbox tradition in Chicago's "Bughouse Square," more properly known as Washington Park, Friday. For many years the park was Chicago's version of London's Hyde Park, a meeting place for soapbox orators. (AP Wirephoto)

PREDICTION ACCURACY ONLY 40%

Tornadoes Object Of Research

BY JOHN HAMER
Congressional Quarterly

In northern Missouri last month, people wearing hard hats dashed outside during a severe storm to scoop up hailstones the size of golf balls. They plopped the hailstones into plastic bags, noted the date, time and location, and stuck them in their freezers.

Their bizarre behavior was not the latest springtime fad, but part of perhaps the most comprehensive tornado research program ever undertaken. Project Dustorm, sponsored by the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR), asked citizens in 11 midwestern states to collect large hailstones.

"We'll probably get more hail than we can handle," says Dr. Edwin Danielson, Dustorm's director. He believes that hailstones, which form around dust particles, may play a key role in the severe storms which spawn tornadoes. Danielson discovered a strong correlation between the number of tornadoes in the Midwest and dust storms in the Southwest.

He theorized that a cool, dry finger of the jet stream might be dipping southward around the Rocky Mountains, picking up desert soil, and sweeping eastward to collide with warm, moisture-laden air moving up from the Gulf of Mexico into the heart of the nation's "Tornado Belt."

Dustorm is using a fleet of aircraft and an array of meteorological equipment to test the theory.

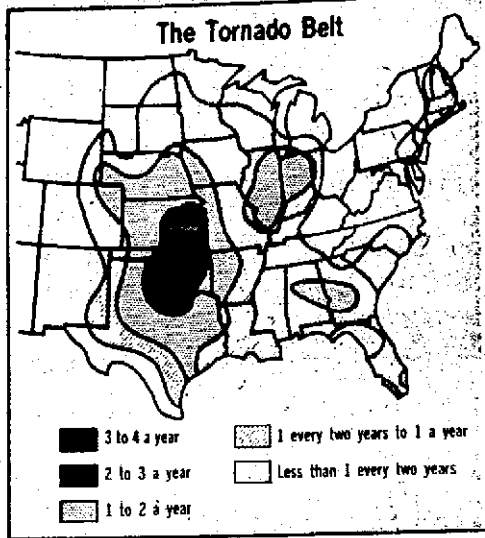

The National Weather Service states flatly: "The tornado is the most violent of all storms." Dropping suddenly from thunderstorms, the whirling funnels can generate winds of more than 150 miles per hour and can flatten towns, explode buildings or drive straws through posts.

Tornadoes can occur any time, but about 80 per cent come between noon and midnight, after the sun has warmed the air, and more than half hit in April, May and June. They are bigger killers than hurricanes, claiming nearly 9,000 lives in the past 50 years compared with 5,000 deaths from hurricanes. Last year, a near-record 945 tornadoes in the United States killed 361 persons — the yearly averages are 693 tornadoes and 112 deaths.

Tornado forecasting has improved greatly in the past decade, but the prediction accuracy rate still is only around 40 per cent. Meteorologists would like to be able to pinpoint tornado locations, to tell large from small twisters in advance, and to measure the speed and direction of their winds.

The National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City has developed new radar equipment which, unlike conventional radar, can detect the counter-clockwise winds which indicate a tornado. Weather satellites have helped somewhat, and the Skywarn program links together some 500 tornado-watch networks, relaying warnings to local radio and television stations. But twisters often arise so unexpectedly that they evade all but the most telling emergency warning system — the eyes and ears of terrified people in their paths.

Drug Crimes Falling

DETROIT (AP) — Programs to fight drug addiction cost far less than the amount they save in cutting down robberies and burglaries, a federally commissioned study shows.

The unpublished report, based on data from Detroit, showed that every 10 per cent increase in the number of persons treated cut the number of money-producing crimes by 2.1 per cent.

The computer study was performed by the Public Research Institute of Arlington, Va., for the White House Special Action Office on Drug Abuse Prevention, which has since merged into the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

Dr. Daniel Levine, who headed the $100,000 research project, called the results "highly statistically significant." It is believed to be the first scientific study of the effectiveness of drug-abuse programs.

Levine said the cost of keeping one person on methadone was about $1,400 a year. "The cost to the public of providing the treatment is safely exceeded by the reduction in losses of the victims of crimes."

He estimated the loss reduction at about twice the cost of the drug programs.

But Levine warned the study doesn't necessarily mean that expanded drug programs would reduce the crime level further. "Most addicts who would stop sticking up people might already be in programs," he explained. "Nobody knows."

The study was based on data for Detroit from July 1970 to June 1974.

THE VERMONT wilderness had barely been explored at the outbreak of the Revolution, and the area was not a colony. Throughout the Revolutionary years it was known as the New Hampshire Grants and was the subject of controversy between New York and New Hampshire. The state did not gain independent status until 1791. The Battle of Hubbardston, during Burgoyne's 1777 campaign, was the only major military action in Vermont. The World Almanac notes.

WAITING FOR INTEREST RATES TO DROP?

Washington's scramble to spend the nation out of recession could create another mortgage money crunch.

In all times of uncertainty, people tend to save more and as savings increase the availability of mortgage money also increases and we are experiencing now a growth in savings. Will this money always be available for home loans?

The Federal Reserve Board governs this with its policy of restriction. When the Board wants to slow down the economy because of over heating, it restricts the supply of money like slowing a stream with a dam. When this happens, interest rates rise because money is being rationed and the supply cannot meet the demand. Long term rates on things like mortgages are offset because the higher rates in short term money attract money from Savings Associations, which finance homes as their major source of revenue. Aside from what the Federal Reserve Board does, the money supply for mortgages is greatly affected by the day-to-day need of the government. It may come as a shock to the conscientious taxpayer who has to borrow to meet special needs like income taxes to know that the U.S. government is the biggest of all borrowers at any time because it must borrow to survive.

That means increasingly frequent offerings of Treasury bills, notes and bonds as the government goes into the money market to borrow just as the individual goes to a lender with hat in hand to do the same things.

The effect of this competition for money will be higher interest rates again, and another mortgage crunch.

So what's the hurry about getting the new home now, while plenty of mortgage money is available?

Common sense about real estate investments and indications for the economic future suggest you shouldn't wait.

Common sense reasons include these: Once you take possession of your home, you begin to acquire equity in addition to monthly amortization. Mortgage interest charges as well as property taxes are tax deductible. And real estate is one of the few investments keeping up with inflation.

It makes particularly good sense to invest in real estate during periods with high rate of inflation such as we now are experiencing; it's a choice between seeing your capital grow or watching it erode.

A recent study by the United States Savings and Loan League offers an even more compelling argument for buying now. The study reveals the annual rate of inflation between September, 1973, and September, 1974, was 12.1% as measured by the Consumer Price Index. Now, how would that rate of inflation affect today's homebuyer years from now? A home bought today for $40,000 could be sold in 1985 for $122,000!

And here's another way of looking at it: There's little chance of salaries keeping pace with inflation. In order to maintain purchasing power, a person earning $20,000 today would have to earn $62,674 in 1985, at the same inflationary rate.

However, the homeowner whose dwelling is worth twice as much or more than his annual income keeps pace with inflation at least in this one area, and has the added bonus of increased equity for the future.

Time For Dreams Running Out

Tot Has 6 Months To Live

By DAVID V. GRAHAM
BURTON, Mich. (AP) — Three-and-a-half-year-old Shawn Marie Eschenweck has a dream of meeting television entertainer Tony Orlando.

Or hearing his voice on a telephone. Or getting a photograph from him.

She may not have many more dreams. Doctors give the little girl only six more months to live. Maybe less than that.

Health Improving
WASHINGTON (AP) — Good reports on Betty Ford's health are issuing from the deouse and the First Lady's schedule lists more activities than at any time since she underwent cancer surgery last September.

Shawn is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eschenweck of Burton, near Flint.

"The doctors have said Shawn has bone and marrow cancer, and several tumors," said a family spokesman, Mrs. Kay Titmus, who is Mrs. Eschenweck's cousin. "The family just found out last week."

Shawn had been ill for about a month and has lost about 10 pounds, according to Mrs. Titmus.

She had been in a Flint hospital and then was taken to Children's Hospital in Detroit, where doctors confirmed the cancer and the family found out how long they can expect her to live.

Mrs. Titmus said Shawn liked to listen to Orlando even before she could talk, signaling in baby talk that she wanted to hear the family's eight-track tapes of the entertainer.

She has watched his show, "Tony Orlando and Dawn," since it has been on TV, mispronouncing it. "Tony Orlando and Shawn."

While the girl was in the hospital, Mrs. Eschenweck slept on a rented cot in Shawn's room. Eschenweck worked at his job as a deliveryman nearly every day and then drove to Detroit.

Doctors say Shawn will have to take cobalt treatments at the Detroit hospital every day from now on.

"The doctors said she is too weak for local hospitals to help her," Mrs. Titmus explained. "The hospital in Detroit specializes in children's cancer. 'Shawn is in a lot of pain,' Mrs. Titmus said. 'She doesn't understand what is happening to her, all she wants to do is go home.'"

'Slim Pickings' For New College Grads

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

Job prospects for this spring's newest crop of college graduates are dismal.

Desperate students are queuing up for cracks at whatever is available, a campus phenomenon that is making college placement officials work harder and longer.

Paul Ginsburg, dean of students at the University of Wisconsin, says it's not unusual for 70 students to be waiting in line each day to discuss job possibilities.

"Students begin gathering before 7 a.m., an hour before the office opens — a sight I never recall seeing before," Ginsburg says.

Charles Sunberg, placement director at UCLA, says, "I really don't know what adjective to use to describe the situation. Bad? Worse? It's the worst I've seen in many years."

The University of Pennsylvania's Arthur Letcher agrees. He says, "It's not too good."

Only for engineers, accountants and mathematics and science teachers is the employment outlook bright. But even in these areas, the number of job choices is considerably fewer than earlier anticipated.

The College Placement Council, which is headquartered in Bethlehem, Pa., and compiles job offers received by 136 colleges and universities around the nation, says:

"Slim pickings for just about everybody but engineering candidates, and possibly accounting majors. Now, midway through the season, cutbacks appear to have hit engineering as well."

Ben Upchurch, placement director at Georgia State University, says "the demand for college graduates this year is about 10 to 15 per cent less than it was last year."

Doug Nichols, placement director at Shippensburg, Pa., State College, says, "The cliché that a college education guarantees you a job is no longer true."

Columbia University's Athena Constantine says, "The number of direct job listings filed with the office are down from past years, and the job offers are coming through much later than in past years."

Jerry Richardson, assistant director of career planning at Ohio's Bowling Green State University, blames the recession for the reduction in campus recruiting.

"A lot of companies are not quite sure what the economic picture is and are interviewing a little later than they used to," Richardson says. "A lot of them aren't going to make any offers until July."

Robert Pardick, placement director at Bradley University in Peoria, Ill., says "as it presently stands, there are tentative job offers."

Some college seniors, faced with the dwindling job market further gutted by experienced laid-off workers, are making commitments to seek graduate and doctorate degrees.

A placement spokesman for Georgia Southern College says "many graduates try to expand with a masters degree to give themselves more salability."

But Sundberg sharply disagrees.

"Going to graduate school just because you can't find a job is the wrong thing to do," he said. "That's not why a person should continue his education."

Richardson also claims continuing school just compounds the problem.

"If you can't get a job with a bachelor's degree, you can't get a job with a second degree, because many companies can't afford that second degree," Richardson says.

Letcher concurs with Richardson that liberal arts grads, more than anyone else, are going to have great job hunting difficulties unless they have career goals and change tactics.

"Routine letters with routine resumes don't work today," Letcher says. "The volume of people hunting jobs today is great but there are still jobs around. Employers are willing to talk to people who make a special effort to get a job."

Nichols tells students they've got to do a lot more than ever before — be more mobile, more flexible and able to identify the alternatives.

"It is especially difficult for those who are not geographically mobile," says Nancy Gilpin, of the career services office in Philadelphia's Temple University. "If you are able to go to the southern part of the United States, or to some rural areas in other parts of the country, your chances are a little better. For teachers, the East Coast and the West Coast are saturated."

Nichols says, "We're encouraging people to prepare a very thorough search. It's going to take more time and effort to get a good job."

Adds Letcher, "People still buy intelligence, sophistication and performance. You've got to learn to sell yourself."

University Discovers It Pays To Advertise

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — When market conditions are bad and a product won't sell, advertising can make a difference, even when the seller is a prestigious technological university, the market is summer jobs and the product is out-of-work students.

Faced with slim response from the traditional ways of digging up summer work for students, Massachusetts Institute of Technology took out three ads in the Wall Street Journal. They began "MIT Students Seek Summer Jobs."

The same day, responses came in from interested company presidents, board chairmen and plant managers and continued for two weeks. The result was about 40 job openings, most of them for young people with training in business or engineering.

"Our usual bush beating efforts weren't coming through," said Lawrence E. Maguire, director of the student employment office. "We wanted to get to the top level of decision makers, the ones who could say, 'Take one, take two,' and somebody beneath them would have to do it."

STUDENTS LEAVE

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — A group of 35 Brandeis University students who occupied an office and classroom building since last Tuesday left the building just before midnight Sunday after a weekend of talks with university officials.

The idea was to round up well-paying jobs where students could use their training, not spend their time sweeping floors or waiting on tables.

Offers that have come along so far include those from a smaller wholesaler that wants someone to analyze its long-term growth potential; a chemical company that wants help developing new plastic products and a law firm that needs someone to set up a flood insurance program.

"These jobs are tailor-made for MIT students," said Mark W. Crane, a student who came up with the advertising idea.

The ads, which ran from April 10 to April 15, cost $1,400. It comes out to about $35 per job, and that, says Crane, is pretty good.

"It gives us a good return on our investment," he said. "If we had gotten 10 jobs, we figure that would have been breaking even. Forty is doing a lot better than we hoped for."

Crane, 20, of Kennett Square, Pa., works in the student employment office. The ad copy says, "Massachusetts Institute of Technology students are talented men and women whose capabilities and contributions you will find rewarding." Then it lists 27 areas of specialty, ranging from aeronautics to urban planning.

Maguire said that several other universities have inquired about the success of the advertising and are now considering similar campaigns themselves.

Notice of Hearing Involving Accounting for Differences in Book and Tax Treatment Relating to Depreciation

Notice is hereby given that on March 27, 1975, Michigan Bell Telephone Company and on April 2, 1975, General Telephone Company of Michigan filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission applications for orders to extend normalization accounting for accelerated depreciation to all differences between book and tax treatment including such differences for cost of removal and salvage.

Such applications request that the Commission orders be applied to current and future rate cases of Applicants as to the issues involved. The granting of such requests in the applications by the Commission will affect the amounts of increases or decreases that may be authorized by the Commission in current and future telephone rate cases of Applicants. Applicants have filed with the Commission direct evidence upon which the applications are based. A hearing on these matters is scheduled on May 20, 1975 at 9:30 A.M. in the offices of the Commission in the Law Building, Lansing, Michigan.

Interested persons may intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Administrative Code, as amended, No. 54, R. 460.11 et seq. Copies of Applicants' applications, together with supporting testimony and exhibits, are available for public inspection in the offices of the Commission, Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

Birthday Party A Year Late

Columbia Reveals Replenished Bankroll

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Columbia Pictures joined the half-century club recently with a birthday celebration on ABC's Wide World of Entertainment.

It has become something of a ritual, these televised salutes to movie companies reaching their 50th year.

Within the past year or so, such companies as Disney, MGM, United Artists and Warner Brothers have discovered they have reached the mid-century mark.

The result: a television special loaded with stars and nostalgia, plus a large plug for the upcoming product. Columbia unwrapped its replenished bankroll for a studio party complete with klieg lights and Chasen's chill.

Among those who came to the birthday celebration were movie queens from Mae West to Barbra Streisand and box-office winners from John Huston to Charles Bronson.

And Frank Capra. He was Columbia's link to its glorious past. Resplendent in a shocking-pink jacket, the 77-year-old director seemed fit enough to start a new movie tomorrow.

"This might be something for you," he confided to a reporter at the long bar outside the film-stage party.

"Do you realize that Columbia has won nine best-picture Oscars? Considering how Columbia was a small studio for so long, that's quite a record."

Indeed it is. And Capra contributed the first two — "It Happened One Night" in 1934 and "You Can't Take It with You" in 1938.

The others: "All The Kings Men" (1949), "From Here to Eternity" (1953), "On The Waterfront" (1954), "The Bridge on the River Kwai" (1957), "Lawrence of Arabia" (1962), "A Man for All Seasons" (1966) and "Oliver" (1968).

Only one other studio has won nine — MGM, which was a major company from its beginning.

The birthday party wouldn't have been so gala if it had been given last year (which it should have been; records show that Columbia had been incorporated Jan. 10, 1924).

Columbia was then undergoing rough times, none of its offerings clicking with the world's audiences.

That has changed in the last few weeks. Columbia has managed to come up with three diverse winners: "Shampoo" for the swinging crowd, "Tommy" for the rock lovers and "Funny Lady" for all ages.

And the company has high hopes for its future product.

There were two other links to Columbia's past at the party: producers Robert Cohn and Bruce Cohn Curtis. They are the son and grandson of Jack Cohn, who founded the company with his brother, Harry, and Joseph Brandt.

The real beginnings of Columbia go back to the early 1920s, when the Cohns and Brandt formed the CBC Sales Corporation and sent Harry out to California to make pictures.

He set up shop on Beachwood Drive, amid a ramshackle collection of studios known as Poverty Row. Harry taught the other shoestring producers a few tricks, using such economies as painting both sides of scenery backdrops so they served a double purpose.

The hustling film men abandoned the CBC name for Columbia because the trade kept referring to the young company as Corned Beef and Cabbage.

As Columbia, the company smelled no better until the advent of Capra, whose astounding touch reached the Depression millions.

Among the Capra contributions: "Lady for a Day," "It Happened One Night," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "Lost Horizon," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," and "You Can't Take It With You."

Columbia survived Capra's defection as well as the death of the dynamic Harry Cohn in 1958. One thing about the 50th celebration would have ruffled Cohn. It was held at studio of his old rival, Warner Brothers.

Three years ago Columbia and Warners combined facilities as The Burbank Studios, and the house that Harry built on Poverty Row lies vacant.

By the employment of a remarkable new intelligence device — imagination — we are about to witness a meeting at the headquarters of the K.G.B. on Dzerzhinsky Square in Moscow. Seven men, all wearing the blue-tinted uniforms of The Secret Police, are sitting around a table. On the wall is a large-scale map of the land. The chairman, a major-general, is extremely annoyed; indeed, as we enter, he is bellowing at a colonel across the table:

"Come now, Boris Ivanovich, how do you expect us to conduct an effective political warfare operation against the Jews when your little Cambodian playmates pull a stupid stunt like recognizing the Palestine Liberation Organization as the legitimate government of Israel? That's at least two years premature. Or has the Far Eastern Division decided to sandbag our operations?"

Boris Ivanovich: "General, I assure you we had no hand in that. Our key men were in Hanoi and Singapore when the balloon went up in Phnom Penh. By the time they reached that godforsaken place, some third-echelon enthusiast had pulled that stunt off. I admit that's no excuse, but it can't be changed without creating more trouble. Hanoi is cooperating fully with the line you have set forth: the P.L.O. is the legitimate government of Israel? That's at least two years premature. Or has the Far Eastern Division decided to sandbag our operations?"

General: "Well, let's get down to business. Colonel Garamin, how is the diplomatic scenario proceeding? Did Gromyko handle the Egyptian and the Syrian according to the script?"

Colonel G.: "Sir, things could not have gone better. First he scored a goal by announcing with the Egyptian — what's his name? Fatmy? — that we would guarantee Israel's frontier. This went over big with the Western press; they never read footnotes. All we asked from Israel as a precondition was a withdrawal from occupied territories and the creation of a Palestinian state. And the amazing thing is that capitalist commentators never take a look at our maps — the one right over there (pointing) which shows Israel's legitimate boundary as the one set up by the United Nations in 1947. Once we get the Jews to Geneva we can start a fine dispute on the meaning of 'occupied territories,' a real mini-max setup in which we start with the '47 line and generously concede our way towards the pre-1967 map."

General: "How about the Syrian? Are we going to be able to keep those madmen in line as we play this thing through? I'm not worried about Sadat — he's just a talented crook — but that Assad gets a funny look in his eyes when he hears the word 'Golan.'"

Colonel G.: "That's a hard one to call. Old Gromyko put on a real headline performance, promised some more planes."

Boris Ivanovich (interrupting): "Excuse me, I forgot to mention that we have Hanoi's promise of 50 of their best pilots, so maybe so maybe next time the Syrian airforce can stay operational."

Colonel G. (resuming): "That would be a help, but to get back to the main point, when Andrei sent the Syrian off they issued a different communique; no talk about guaranteeing any Israeli frontiers. It was a real stunner, like that Korean stuff — kinchi? — you once fed us Boris. In any case, all the boys in Washington are comparing the communiques — it should keep them busy for at least a week."

General: "Fine. Now Major Butin, what about the negotiations play? Is that in the works?"

Major B.: "Yes, sir! I haven't had as much fun since 1967-68, when we last put the American imperialists through the hoops. We have it staged this way: first, we get the Americans to agree to reconvene the Geneva Conference; second, we maintain our position that the P.L.O. must be represented; third, the Jews refuse to attend if the P.L.O. is recognized; fourth, we turn on the music good and loud that Israel wants a military solution, won't negotiate in good faith, and all the other themes we developed in our 'Recognize the Vietnam' operation. At this point, we have the Americans braced: either they lean on Israel to go along, or back Rabin and Pines. Either way we mop up and... (his voice trails as we quietly slip off).

Fishermen Find Body Of Youth

CADILLAC, Mich. (AP) — The body of a 14-year-old Cadillac youth, who had been missing for five months, was found Sunday by two fishermen in Lake Cadillac.

Authorities said Louis Van Dyke's body was in about 16 feet of water just off the Cadillac city dock on the east side of the lake. The fishermen said they snagged the corpse with a fishing lure.

Officials said the area was searched by Wexford County divers only a week ago. The body probably drifted into the area after the search concluded, officials said.

An autopsy was scheduled today. Young Van Dyke, whose body was identified by his parents, was last seen Dec. 6. He told his parents he was going to a movie with a friend.

Authorities say they think he may have tried to cross the frozen lake and fallen through the ice.

Soviets Need Foreign Cash To Unlock Siberia Wealth

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer
IRKUTSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The Soviet Union's center of economic gravity is inching slowly to the east, toward the vast mineral and energy riches of Siberia.

There are major problems to overcome and Siberia's role in the Soviet economy still is largely in the future. But if its resources are developed the Soviet Union could become the world's richest nation in the 21st century.

Estimates are that about 80 per cent of the Soviet Union's fossil fuel deposits and energy resources are in Siberia, which stretches 3,400 miles from the Ural Mountains to the Pacific Ocean across nine time zones. Siberia is as big as all of North America.

It is thought to contain 90 per cent of Soviet coal, 75 per cent of the oil and gas and 68 per cent of all mineral resources, to say nothing of great rivers that can provide 80 per cent of the country's total hydroelectric power. There is more timber there than in Sweden, Norway and Finland combined.

There also is gold, silver, tin, platinum, copper, iron, diamonds and all the other mineral resources in proportion to the huge area of the earth's crust occupied by Siberia.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said four years ago that by the end of 1975 Siberia would be producing about 20 per cent of the Soviet Union's industrial output.

Massive investments are needed, however, to unlock Siberia's treasures. That is why the Soviets have sought American, Japanese and other foreign investment of money and technology to speed the process.

So far, cooperation projects have not advanced swiftly, but the Soviets are diverting more and more of their own money to develop Siberia at "a priority rate."

In the current five-year plan, about 30 per cent of a total 501 billion rubles capital investment — $716 billion at the official exchange rate — goes to Siberia and the far east.

The lure is in quick profit from such resources as gold and diamonds where a little production goes a long way, especially with the worldwide jump in gold prices.

The production figures are secret, but Western experts put Soviet output at 400 tons of gold a year — second only to South Africa.

The last decade has also seen an oil boom in western Siberia centered on the Tyumen area, 1,400 miles east of Moscow and running for a thousand miles along the Ob River and its tributaries.

Forty-five new oil deposits have been discovered in the region in the last four years and it has become the Soviet Union's biggest oil producing province. In 1971, western Siberia produced 31 million tons of oil and planners now count on 147 million tons this year, a third of Soviet production.

The goal in 10 years is 230 million to 260 million tons, more than the current output of Iran and better than half of present Saudi Arabian production. And that is only one area of Siberia.

There is also natural gas in the area. Yet, 2,000 miles further east in the Yakutsk area there are even bigger gas deposits, considered by some to exceed known Middle East deposits.

The Tulsa (Okla.) Oil and Gas Journal, looking at all those reserves, says the Soviet Union may replace the United States as the world's largest natural gas producer by the 1980s. The journal said Soviet gas reserves have grown from 30 trillion cubic feet in 1957 to 882.5 trillion cubic feet in 1974.

By comparison, U.S. reserves totaled only 237.1 trillion cubic feet at the end of 1974.

Siberia also contains huge coal and iron deposits that could, in the distant future, provide a basis for steel complexes that would rival those of the Kuznetsk area of southwestern Siberia or the Donbass in the Ukraine.

One reason for the Baykal-Amur Railroad, to run 1,900 miles from the tip of Lake Baykal to the Pacific coast, is to get transportation into an area of rich coal, iron and copper deposits. The railroad won't be completed until 1982 and will cost unknown billions of rubles. Some Siberian industrial complexes, such as at Irkutsk and Bratsk, are built around dams on the Angara River that provide electricity for aluminum and wood-processing plants.

At Bratsk, where the sizzling sound of power lines carrying 500,000 volts accompanies a view of the dam, there is a wood plant and an aluminum plant the Soviets say are the biggest in the world.

At the wood plant, Director Kuzma Mazminov thumped a chunk of Siberian pine with his fist and said, "Our raw material base will last 80 years." The plant cuts trees over an area twice as big as Belgium.

Northward, down the Angara River, a similar complex is being built at Ust-Ilimsk and another is planned at Boguchany even further north.

Siberia has the resources, but its not all clear sailing for the Soviet Union.

A major problem is the weather, bone-chilling cold most of the year and a short period when much of the country turns into a mosquito-infested bog. Much of the area is in the permafrost zone, perennially frozen earth that requires special construction and drilling techniques.

The Soviets say they have invested five billion rubles — $7.1 billion at the official rate — in west Siberia oil fields from 1971 to 1975.

Investment money remains tight in the Soviet Union — there is the ever voracious military, rising consumer demands and the major investment needed to ensure the Soviet population of reliable food supplies.

That is one reason the Soviets want Americans or Japanese to help them develop oil, gas and copper deposits. And they want to pay for it with deliveries of the extracted product.

ADORNMENT ON DAM: Base of huge new dam at Ust-Ilimsk at Irkutsk in Siberia is adorned with picture of Lenin and the words "The name and clause of Lenin will live forever." The Soviet Union's center of economic gravity is inching slowly toward the vast mineral and energy riches of Siberia. (AP Wirephoto)

Are Women Emotionally Superior?

"True or False: When men and women become depressed to the breaking point, it's usually for entirely different reasons."

As age-old conceptions of womanhood are undergoing dramatic reappraisal, it becomes important to analyze the corresponding changes in male-female psychology. Read this week's "People Quiz" to find out to what extent women are better equipped than men to handle emotionally taxing situations.

Defending Champ Celtics Still Game Down

Van Lier Gives Bulls 2-1 Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — There's no place like home, and the Golden State Warriors are glad to be there this week.

The Warriors trail 2-1 in their National Basketball Association Western Conference final playoff series with the Chicago Bulls, who Sunday won their second in a row at the Chicago Stadium with a 108-101 triumph.

Now the Warriors, who started first but were pinned on the ropes the entire second half by the sharp-shooting of Chicago's Norm Van Lier, have Tuesday and Thursday night contests on their own court to recoup in the best-of-seven series.

"We knew there was a possibility of losing both our games here," said Warrior Coach Al Attles. "and now the pressure is on us."

The Warriors won the series opener at Oakland 107-89 and very nearly took the second game here Wednesday night before the Bulls snatched it 90-89 on Tom Boerwinkle's field goal in the last two seconds.

But there was nothing flimsy about Chicago's victory in Sunday's nationally televised game in which Van Lier pumped in 35 points and the Bulls were in control after Golden State suddenly slumped to a 13-point deficit in the second quarter.

It was a game in which the guard tandems of both teams took the play away from their high-scoring star forwards, Chicago's Bob Love and Golden State's Rick Barry.

While Love was held to 19 points, Van Lier and guard running mate Jerry Sloan combined for 40 points.

Barry struggled for a 21-point effort, but the Warrior guards clicked for 48 with Butch Beard hitting for 28 and Charlie Johnson for 18.

The Bulls took command early in the third quarter when Van Lier and Sloan scored six successive points for a 64-57 lead and Golden State continued to falter for a 10-point deficit, 81-71, entering the final quarter.

The defending champion Boston Celtics, still down by one game in their National Basketball Association playoff with the Washington Bullets, are struggling to regain their shooting form.

"We're due to break out," Boston captain John Havlicek said after the Celtics hit on just 39 per cent of their field goal attempts Saturday in a 101-99 victory over the Bullets. "We couldn't shoot any worse than we have so far in this series."

Veteran forward Paul Silas, who contributed 10 points while grabbing 25 rebounds as the Celtics remained alive in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final, tried to explain the shooting.

"When you have to make the shots, it's not the same," Silas said. "If you're up by 13, the rim looks as big as the ocean. But if you're down, it can look very small."

Despite the third game victory after two losses, Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn was concerned with the team's over-all shooting.

"It could have been a 30-point game," Heinsohn said. "We were very effective on defense and got the second shots on the offensive boards. However, we still didn't shoot well and that bothers me."

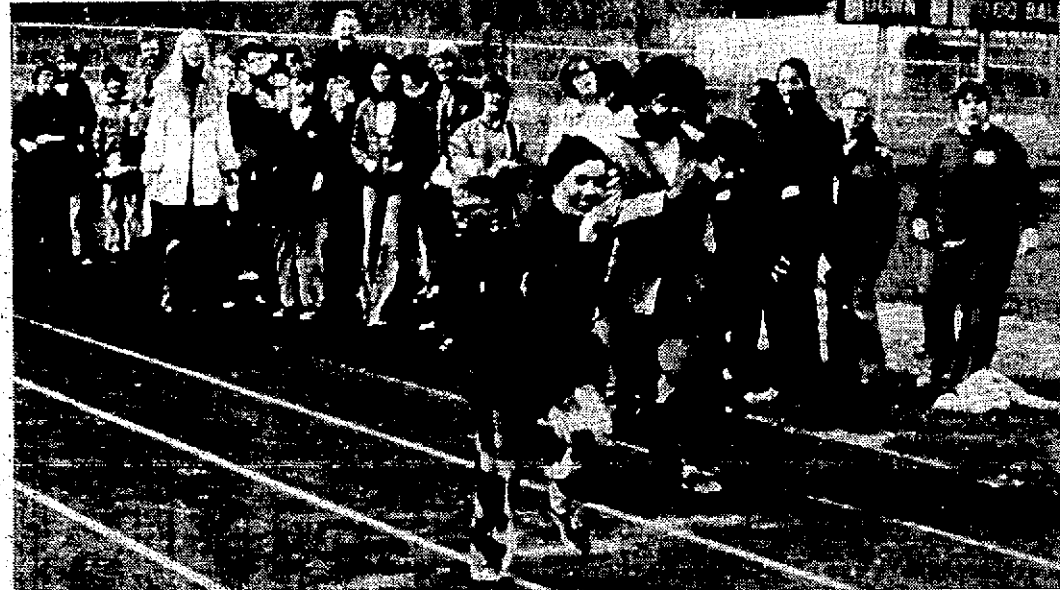

Havlicek, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White led Boston scorers in the third game, but none hit on 50 per cent of his shots. Havlicek connected on nine of 20 while scoring 26 points. Cowens hit on 10 of 27, finishing with 24 points. White had 21 points, but managed to hit on just nine of 25 field goal attempts.

The Celtics threw up a tight pressing defense to pull away from Washington in the third quarter. The Bullets scored just 10 points in the third period and Boston was home free with a 14-point lead heading into the final quarter.

While hoping to regain their shooting eyes, the Celtics are expected to continue the same defensive tactics in the fourth game at Landover, Md. The fifth game is scheduled for Boston Garden Friday night.

HANDY WORK: Butch Beard of the Golden State Warriors grimaces as ball is knocked out of his grasp by Chet Walker of the Chicago Bulls during Sunday's National Basketball Association playoff game in Chicago. Bulls won the game 108-101 to take 2-1 lead in the Western Division championship series. (AP Wirephoto)

EAGER COMPETITORS: About 400 athletes from Berrien, Van Buren and Cass counties have been competing the last several weeks in the Special Olympics for mentally retarded children and adults. Pictured is some of the track and field activity which was held last Saturday at Dickinson Stadium in St. Joseph. Saturday's winner from Area 17 will go on to the state meet in Mt. Pleasant June 5, 6 and 7. (Staff photo)

No Pressure For Flyers

Near NHL Finals With 1-0 Whitewash

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — It's supposed to be difficult to win National Hockey League playoff games. The checking is closer, the pressure is more intense and the fear of making a mistake shadows every player whether he's playing, eating or trying to sleep.

It is, therefore, something of a shock to watch the Philadelphia Flyers. They have ignored the tension, shrugged off the temporary loss of their top goalie and all but breezed to victory in their seven playoff games this season.

The most recent triumph was Sunday's 1-0 whitewash over the New York Islanders in the third game of their Stanley Cup semifinal series. An ungiving Philadelphia defense allowed New York just 14 shots on goal, permitting netminder Bernie Parent to yawn through his third shutout of the playoffs and Philadelphia's fourth in the seven post-season games they've played.

The key, according to Coach Fred Shero, is discipline — not an easy thing to instill in a player. And that discipline, Shero said, showed itself most in the closing eight minutes of the game after right wing Reggie Leach scored Philadelphia's goal on a backhand 30 seconds into the third period.

Parent had scares from New York forwards Billy Harris, Bob Nystrom and Jude Drouin, but otherwise had an easy time in helping the Flyers take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series going into Wednesday night's fourth contest here. It was Philadelphia's eighth consecutive playoff victory and extended to 21 games (including regular season) the Flyers' unbeaten streak.

Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith offered a simple remedy for his club's recent performance against the Montreal Canadiens in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

"We've got to score more goals," Smith said. "The only difference is that Montreal has scored more than us in the last two games."

Buffalo won the first two games on its own ice, 6-5 in overtime and 4-2. But in Montreal for Game 3, the Sabres looked like they forgot where the net was as the Canadiens scored an easy 7-0 victory. Then, on Saturday, despite Smith's promise that things would change, Montreal toyed with the young Sabres and scored an impressive 8-2 victory.

Montreal has come through on 10 of 23 power play chances while Buffalo is one for 18. Eight of the Canadiens' power play goals came in the last two games when the Sabres lost their composure and were hit with numerous penalties.

The teams battle in Game 5 of their best-of-seven series Tuesday night in Buffalo.

Positive Forgetfulness May Help Tigers Get Untracked

DETROIT (AP) — Today was just another one of those days for the Detroit Tigers. "Those" days are off days, although despite the open date on the Bengals' schedule, they do have an exhibition match slated with Cincinnati to break up the monotony.

Just when the season started getting into gear for Detroit, the rain clouds came and cut a three-game series with Boston to one game. But perhaps it's just as well.

The Tigers have been bombed, 17-3 and 12-2 in their last two games, and maybe a little extra rest, combined with some positive forgetfulness, will help them get untracked Tuesday when a nine-game home stand opens. Milwaukee, Texas and Kansas City will be the visitors.

The Tigers' last game was Saturday, when the Sox clobbered Lerrin LaGow, getting six runs in the opening inning and coasting the rest of the way.

Friday's game was rained out and rescheduled as a doubleheader for Sunday, but the weatherman goofed again and more rain washed out the twin bill.

Oddly, Joe Coleman, quickly getting a reputation as Detroit's bad-weather boy, was to pitch Sunday. The weather has been lousy every time Coleman has been slated to throw, one of the things which gets the blame for his 1-3 record.

"I don't know what I did — but I must have done something," Coleman said Sunday. "This is unreal."

Manager Ralph Houk was not unhappy with the postponement.

"I would have hated to see Coleman pitch on a wet mound again," he said. "He's had only one half-way dry mound all year and he won that game."

Houk said pitching again on a wet mound could have ruined everything Coleman accomplished the last time he pitched — and won.

"A ballgame in the rain can go either way," Houk said. "It's unbelievable, some of the things that happen in the rain. And of course, you always run the risk of somebody getting hurt."

Coleman is slated to start Tuesday against the Brewers and Pete Broberg following tonight's match with the Reds in Cincinnati.

Houk hinted he might send pitching coach Steve Hamilton in to hurl a few innings in tonight's benefit.

Tigers' McKee Named 'A' Coach Of Year By Peers

Earl McKee of Benton Harbor has been selected as Class A Coach of the Year by the Southwestern Michigan Basketball Coaches Association.

Other coaches honored in the SMCBA's first selections were Bill Wilson of Buchanan in Class B, Jerry Schaffer of River Valley in Class C and Mike Heckathorn of Galien in Class D.

The group's Class A all-star team included Mike Howard and Edward Albert of Benton Harbor, Mickey Ott and Mike

Roger Walters, Gary Young and Bill Dungey of Cassopolis headed the Class C honor team, which included Bill Adams of Eau Claire, Greg Johnson, Mitch Coffman and Mike White of River Valley and Bill Frantz of Lake Michigan Catholic.

Members of the Class D team include Don Kooy and Dale Luther of Galien, Harold Baber and Joe Lewis of Covert, Ron Briney of Michigan Lutheran, Lynn Boitnott of Lawrence and Jeff Runser and Bob Linke of Bridgman.

Meritorious service awards were voted to Bud Fossen of Portage Northern and Dave Dillon of Sturgis, who have retired after 20 or more years of coaching.

Recognized for coaching 50 or more victories were Watervliet girls' coach Sandra Wallen and Benton Harbor freshman coach Don Buzye.

MSU's Stolz Cutting Spring Drills Short

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State head football coach Denny Stolz has decided to end spring training scrimmages to avoid injuries and because Stolz says the squad has reached an acceptable plateau.

Under Big Ten rules, MSU could practice 20 days within 30, but Stolz said with 16 workouts behind the Spartans, he would halt scrimmages no later than Wednesday.

Stolz made his decision after a wide-open scrimmage in which freshman tailback Claude Geiger of Charleston, W. Va. and second string quarterback Marshall Lawson of Lake Charles, La., had outstanding days.

Geiger galloped 68 yards on a touchdown run while Lawson had a strong running day with carries of 31, 21 and 26 yards.

The only dim spot of the day was a pileup in which tackle Harvey Feinauer of Bay City suffered a knee injury. He was to have surgery today and is expected to be back on the field by fall.

Stolz ran several Ohio State plays against his top squad as a reminder that OSU will be at East Lansing Sept. 13 in MSU's home opener.

SMC, Dowagiac Standouts At Big Roadrunner Relays

Extravaganza Draws Over 600 Thinclads

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

DOWAGIAC — Host Southwestern Michigan College and neighboring Dowagiac high school stole most of the thunder here Saturday in the huge Roadrunner Relays extravaganza.

The Roadrunners walked away with four firsts and four seconds in a solid display of depth in the college division events. Meanwhile, Dowagiac, both the boys and girls teams, dominated the prep field by combining to take seven firsts.

From 900 to 700 athletes from 25 schools participated in the Roadrunner Relays held for the first time on SMC's new all-weather track. Action started Friday afternoon with individual college events under sunny skies but rain and wind put a damper on most of the times Saturday afternoon.

Although no team scores were kept, SMC coach and meet director Ron Gunn indicated he felt his team would have taken the most points.

"I think we would have won it. I'm just very happy. This is the best performance we've ever had as a team even over last year when we won the meet. There was much better quality this year. I'm very pleased at the way we performed."

Mott Community College and Jackson Community College also both grabbed four firsts. SMC, Mott and Jackson will get the chance to really prove who's No. 1 when the Roadrunners host the Michigan Community College Athletic Association State Meet May 16-17.

The Roadrunners won the four-mile relay in a slow 17:45.3. The squad had gone 17:10.0 earlier. Team members were Steve Bunn (Hartford), who had the fastest leg at 4:21.0, Tom Ellspermann (St. Joseph), Joe Ofsansky and John Roscoe, still on cloud nine over his national record six-mile race Friday.

"We didn't have any competition and the wind didn't help either," noted Roscoe, who plans to attend Ball State or Western Michigan on a full-ride scholarship. The star runner has 15 full-ride offers.

The SMC team of Morris Coats, Wilbert Anderson, Darrell Gatson and John Hobson took the sprint medley relay in 3:31.4. The Roadrunners captured the two-mile in 8:00.2 behind the running of Dave Ballosser (Niles Brandywine), Greg Lozeau (Bridgman), Ofsansky and Chad Curtis. SMC also took the high jump relay with a new meet record of 19 feet, 4 inches. Carl Sims went 6 feet, 6 inches to pace the effort while Bill Bradford and John Valiska both had leaps of 6 feet, 5 inches.

Terry Houseworth of St. Joe took an individual first with a shot put of 47 feet, 10 inches while as a team the Roadrunners finished second.

Ironically, the Roadrunners' 440 and 880 relay teams both lowered existing meet marks but ended second to powerful Mott in both events. The 42.4 440 and the 1:28.8 880 did break school records but couldn't top Mott's 42.2 and 1:27.6 times. A bad baton exchange cost the Roadrunner the 880 race while the 440 was probably the most exciting event of the day. SMC runners in the events were Coats, Gatson, Anderson and Oliver Fowlkes.

The Roadrunners were second in the pole vault relays with Greg Pollock getting a leap of 13 feet, 6 inches. Howard Lane was second in the long jump with a jump of 22 feet, 5 inches but as a team SMC ended third.

Dowagiac, without much serious competition, had a lock on the 440 relay events as the boys won the regular 440 and weight men's 440 and the girls the regular 440.

The Chiefs' girls squad of regular 440 in a speedy time of 45.5, good for third on the area honor roll. The squad consisted of Dennis Bacon, Keith Kellis, Kevin Miller and Doug Mitchell.

The Dowagiac girls' took first in 52.9, also second (tie) on the girls' honor listing. Team members were Lynette Fifer, Joni Krook, Faye Douglas and Pam Mitchell. The shot putter's 440 (48.0) included Steve Tomczak, Tom Dillard, Mike Leets and John Mosier.

Dowagiac got super leaps from Bacon and Mitchell to win the long jump relay at 43 feet, 8 and three-fourths inches. The pair, running one-two on the honor roll, bettered those marks with jumps of 22 feet, 4 inches and 21 feet, 4 and three-fourths, respectively.

Tomczak and Mosier teamed up to win the shot put relays with 82 feet, 10 inches. Mosier had a put of 42 feet, 5 inches and Tomczak 40 feet, 5 inches.

The boys also hauled away first in the rain-splattered mile relay in 3:43.0. Members were Dale Killarney, Maurice Cooley, Tim Pugh and Mike Leets. The Dowagiac boys also ended second in the distance medley relay.

The Chiefs' girls' squad of Mitchell, Fifer, Krook and Kay Cunningham placed first in the sprint medley relay with a clocking of 2:00.0.

"I thought our kids ran well...but they could do more (See ROADRUNNER, Page 25)

St. Joe Takes Two Firsts

St. Joseph came up with two firsts Saturday in the East Lansing Relays while Brandywine and Paw Paw placed high in the Cornstock Relays.

The Bears took the two-mile relay in 7:59.8. The runners were Marty Kirk, Bob Goodman, Dick Goodman and Henry Follman, who legged a 1:57.5 anchor.

St. Joe also captured the mile relay, the meet's last event, in 3:26.9. Team members were Follman, Kirk, Dick Goodman and David Kars-ten.

The Bear 440 team of Scott Wolf, Brian Nisbet, Mike Ryan and Steve Pribe was clocked in 46.4 but did not place. The sprint medley squad of Bob Goodman, Dale Ruple, Dave Ziebart and Dick Newnum ended fourth in 3:49.5.

Individually, the Bears got a third in the two-mile from Tim Dine, who was timed in 9:50.0. Portage Northern's Matt Henry won in 9:26.0. Ryan was fifth in the high hurdles in 15.2, which bettered his previous 15.3 second spot in the honor roll listings.

"I was a little disappointed with our field events but I was pleased with our two-mile relay team," offered Bear Coach Ron Waldvogel. "Follman came from behind to really pull it out."

Niles finished fourth in the 440 relay but its 45.3 clocking ranks as the best in southwestern Michigan. The members were Craig Briggs, Otis Moffitt, Mark Adams and Gary Pridavka. The same runners lowered their No. 1 honor roll ranking in the 880 relay to 1:33.0.

The Vikings' mile relay squad also ended fourth in 3:29.9 but the time bettered their previous honor roll effort (third place). Moffitt, Pridavka, Briggs and Dave Gutschenritter were the runners.

Over at Cornstock, Paw Paw tied for third with 36 points while Brandywine finished sixth with 28 points. Lakeshore was tied for 13th with 12 points. Jackson Lumen Christi won the event with 49 points with Plainwell second with 46.

Ed Dow and Leroy Rushing both turned in honor roll performances in the long jump relays. The two merged for a meet record 42 feet with Rushing at 21 feet, 2 inches and Dow at 20 feet, 10 inches.

The Paw Paw distance medley team set a new meet and school record of 10:46.5 in taking first. Members were Dow, Charles Brynecsen, Mike Thompson and Norman Cowie. The Skins placed second in the pole vault with 24 feet. Scott Walters and Richard Weeks both vaulted 12 feet. Paw Paw was second in the high jump at 12 feet, 4 inches. Dow went 6 feet, 4 inches and Mel Gipson 6 feet.

Brandywine nosed out Paw Paw in the high jump for a new meet mark of 12 feet, 5 inches. Dennis Wilson edged Dow with his leap of 6 feet, 5 inches. Greg Bestle went 6 feet. Wilson also jumped 20 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the long jump.

The Bobcat mile relay team improved its honor roll effort with a time of 3:32.0 with Wilson running a 50 foot anchor. Other members were Bestle, Jim Heed and Tim Balon.

Lakeshore was fifth in the sprint medley and fifth in the shuttle hurdles.

SAND BLASTING: Bruce Crampton blasts from bunker at 13th green during $150,000 Houston Open golf tournament. Crampton shot three-under par 69 on final round for 73-hole total of 273 and two-stroke victory over Dr. Gil Morgan. (AP Wirephoto)

Crampton 'Cuts' Houston Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Crampton came to Houston hoping — not too optimistically — to make the cut for the last two rounds. Now he goes home to Dallas seeking — very enthusiastically — two victories in a row.

"There is no substitute for victory," the veteran Crampton said Sunday after he'd scored by two strokes over challenging Dr. Gil Morgan, a far-sighted eye doctor who decided to take up golf instead of fitting glasses after receiving his doctorate from the Southern College of Optometry.

CF Australian native now living in Dallas, made the cut comfortably on Friday, took the lead from struggling Lee Trevino the next day and scored by two strokes Sunday with a last-round 69 and a 273 total, 15-under-par on the Woodlands Country Club course, a 6,929-yard layout that was hacked out of a South Texas pine woods less than a year ago.

Morgan, now in his second year of tour activity, briefly tied Crampton three times on the front nine of the final round but couldn't stand the pace. Bruce dropped a pair of 15-foot birdie putts coming home that Morgan couldn't match. He finished with a 70 and second alone — by far the best finish of his brief career — with a 275 total. Joe Inman, 67-70, and John Schroeder, 71-70, were next with Tom Kite, Larry Nelson, Eddie Peacock and 47-year-old Lionel Hebert grouped at 279. Kite had a 68 in the hot, humid weather, Hebert 69, Nelson 70 and Peacock 71.

Trevino, the leader through the first two days, never really got in the chase after opening the final round four strokes back. He played his last round in 74-147 for the last two rounds — and finished well back at 282.

Arnold Palmer had a closing 69 for 289. Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Gary Player and Tom Weiskopf did not compete.

Spartans Gain In Baseball Race

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Unbeaten Michigan State tightened its grip on the Big Ten baseball lead with a 4-0 triumph over second-place Michigan, as inclement weather disrupted many conference games over the weekend.

A second game between the two league leaders was canceled on Sunday but rescheduled for today.

Meanwhile, last year's co-champions, Iowa and Minnesota, aided their hopes with victories in doubleheaders, rescheduled for Sunday after postponement. Iowa downed Wisconsin 4-2 and 5-3 to move into third place and Minnesota won both ends of a doubleheader from Northwestern, 5-4 and 7-2.

Inclement weather also forced cancellation of games between Illinois and Purdue, Indiana State at Indiana, and Cincinnati at Ohio State.

Mahan struck out nine batters in his three-hit victory over Michigan Saturday.

In chalking up his fifth triumph against two losses, Mahan retired the last 10 Wolverine batters. MSU stands at 6-0 in conference play, while Michigan fell to 5-2.

Home runs by Bryan Jones gave Iowa a sweep against Wisconsin. In the opener, Wisconsin tied the score at 2-2 in the seventh inning, but Jones belted a two-run homer in the 10th inning. Jones smacked two home runs in the second game to lead the Hawkeyes to a 5-3 triumph.

The victories moved Iowa's record to 7-3 and Wisconsin dropped to 9-5 in conference play.

Minnesota's Joe Kordosky hit a home run to break a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning of the second game of a doubleheader and the Gophers went on to win 5-4 over Northwestern.

Minnesota also took the opener 7-2 to boost its record to 9-4. Northwestern stands at 5-9 in the conference.

Bulldogs Win

COVERT — Covert defeated Saugatuck's jayvee baseball team Saturday 9-7 with Rod Barnes getting the pitching victory in relief of Reginald Johnson. Bulldog hitters were Barnes, Keith Columbel, Henry Lindsey and Johnson. Covert is now 2-6 on the year.

Mustangs Win Lansing Invitational

Thomas Super For Indians

You kinda felt Rick Thomas was going to have another super day Saturday before the first inning of the Hartford-Bridgman baseball game had run its course.

Thomas — the small but mighty hurler for the Indians — got Hartford going in quick fashion with a home run his first time at bat.

The crafty 5-8 150 pounder didn't disappoint in the pitching department either, firing 10 strikeouts, walking no one and giving up five hits.

Hartford won 5-2, upping its league record to 6-1...one game behind first place Lake Michigan Catholic. Thomas has all six hurling wins.

Besides Thomas' four-bagger, Tom Lowe socked a home run and Denis Huffman clouted a round-tripper with two aboard to account for all Hartford scoring.

Bridgman countered with homers by Chuck James and John Jones.

In other Saturday action, River Valley won the Lansing Invitational tournament, Lake Michigan Catholic beat Lakeshore twice, St. Joseph took Brandywine 7-2, Buchanan got past Cassopolis 5-4 and 13-0, Coloma split with Edwardsburg. Bloomington defeated Marcellus 9-7, South Haven bopped Paw Paw 1-0, Lawton dropped two Schoolcraft tournament games and Dowagiac split a non-conference doubleheader with Belding.

River Valley won the Lansing tournament with a 8-4 victory over Stockbridge in eight innings.

"We played real well all weekend," said coach Jerry Hinman of his Mustangs who have now won eight straight.

Jeff Jackson belted two doubles and Denny Zebell two singles in a 5-2 first round win over Benzie Central of northern Michigan. Dan Hinman got the mound win.

The Mustangs then took Springport 3-2 as winning pitcher Steve Rennhack spun a two-hitter, fanned 10 and walked two. Sixth inning RBI hits by Dennis Busse, Dave North and Zebell made the difference.

Greg Johnson's RBI single, coupled with a sacrifice fly by Jeff Jackson, produced the winning runs in the extra inning of the title game. Phil Varice got the mound win for River Valley, now 13-4. The Mustangs made just four tournament errors.

The Lakers edged Lakeshore on a RBI single in the sixth by pinch hitter John Riechardt.

Winning pitcher Gary Meek ended the game by picking off Craig Shafer at third base. Meek had 10 strikeouts and two walks as did losing hurler Jeff Wiles. Both pitchers gave up three hits.

The Lakers upped their season card to 10-1 by burning the Lakers 9-2 in the nightcap. Bob Matner had a two-hitter.

Tim Case gave up four hits hurling St. Joe past Brandywine.

Greg Priebe had two of the five Bear hits, while Rick Dyer socked a two RBI single and Roger Vogie homered. The second game was rained out.

Buchanan stretched its Blossford conference record to a league-leading 7-2 with the 5-4 eight-inning win over Cass. Walt Vanderbush tripled then raced home on a wild pitch for the decider. Brian Virgil got the mound win in relief.

Kevin Vanderbush hurled a one-hitter in the nightcap and would have had a no-hitter except for a misjudged routine fly ball to the outfield. The Bucks punched across eight runs in the first innings, five in the last in this non-conference affair.

"We won the wrong game," said Coloma coach Bill Leedy, as his Comets split with Edwardsburg. The Eddies won 3-1 in eight innings in the opener, then dropped the non-conference nightcap 7-2.

Edwardsburg won on a RBI single and double steal in the eighth. Jim Fautersack scored Coloma's lone run on a past ball. Lew Tutton and Jerry Gagliardo were the leading hitters for Coloma in the second game.

Bloomington is now a perfect 5-0 in the SAC baseball race after taking Marcellus.

Jeff Melvin had four hits (two RBIs) for the winners, while Tom Rigney stroked two hits along with Bob Lindsey, who tripled. Tim Hoyt got the win.

Mike Dorman's sixth inning RBI single stood up as South Haven strengthened its hold on first place in the Wolverine conference with the win over Paw Paw.

The 5-1 Rams went with Dave Gumpert on the mound. Gumpert has now won all three of his conference starts. Mike Sweet was the top South Haven hitter going two-for-three.

Lawton participated in the Schoolcraft tournament, losing to Middleville 10-0 and to Mat-tawan Saturday 14-3.

Dowagiac split a non-conference doubleheader with Belding. Harold Primley hurled the Chiefs past Belding 11-3, while Dowagiac lost 9-1. Marty Smallbone had the only homer for Dowagiac.

BASEBALL

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies traded first baseman Willie Montanez to the San Francisco Giants for outfielder Garry Maddox.

GOLF

WAKAYAMA, Japan — Australian Graham Marsh fired a four-under-par 68 and won the 36-hole, $62,000 Wizard Golf Tournament by one stroke over Taiwan's Lu Liang-Huan.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Maria Astorles rolled in an eight-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff with Joanne Carner and Judy Rankin, and won the $40,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Birmingham Golf Classic.

PARIS — Britain's Brian Burges, although carding a final round two-over-par 73, held on for a two-stroke victory in the French Open Golf Championship and first prize money of $6,200.

TENNIS

MEXICO CITY — Brian Gottfried of the United States teamed with Mexico's Raul Ramirez to score a 7-6, 6-7, 6-2, 7-6 victory over Mark Cox of Britain and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and win the World Championship of Tennis men's doubles title.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Billie Jean King and Tony Trabert breezed through the Australian team of Margaret Court and Frank Sedgman 6-4, 6-2, to win the $60,000 Mixed Doubles Classic.

AUTO RACING

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Buddy Baker held off a challenge from David Pearson to win the Winston 500 Grand National stock car race by only inches.

St. Joe Kickers Remain In First

The St. Joseph Kickers edged Lansing Latioano International 2-1 Sunday on their Arden field to remain first in the West Michigan Soccer League.

The Kickers, now 4-0-1, got goals from Vance Noll and Peter Zabal.

In a preliminary game, the Kicker 'A' junior team downed East Lansing 6-0. Frank Bock and Dennis Ott netted two goals apiece and Mark Lehmann and Jeff Zych each had one.

Home 'Fatal' For Nuggets

Pacers, McGinnis Win ABA Playoff Series

DENVER (AP) — Several weeks ago, before the American Basketball Association playoffs got under way, Denver Coach Larry Brown said he didn't feel the homecourt advantage would be of much importance in post-season play.

Observers might have doubted Brown's sincerity, especially since his Nuggets posted an unequaled 40-2 record at home, during the regular season.

Then Denver won all three of its home games in the opening series against Utah, making Brown's statement seem all the more dubious.

But in the Western Division final series against Indiana, home was anything but sweet for both teams. The last four games in the seven-game series were won by the visiting team, including Saturday night's 104-96 Indiana victory over Denver that vaulted the Pacers into the ABA championship series beginning May 13 in Louisville against Kentucky. In all, five of the games in the Indiana-Denver series were won by the visitors.

Indiana forward George McGinnis had scored 39 points in the series' opening game, which was the Pacers' only loss here. In Saturday night's finale, he personally saw to it that victory did not escape the Pacers.

The 6-foot-8 McGinnis had game-high totals of 40 points, 23 rebounds and eight assists. He also was credited with three steals and a blocked shot, and he committed just one turnover.

Rookie Bobby Jones led Denver with 20 points and 15 rebounds.

Plangger's Splits Openers

Plangger's opened over the weekend with splits in a pair of softball doubleheaders.

After winning 5-2 and losing 3-0 to Steelcase at Grand Rapids Saturday, Plangger's returned home Sunday and downed Grand Rapids Wal-Vac 6-5 before dropping the nightcap 4-2 in the Michiana League twin bill.

Rick Plangger won Saturday's opener on an eight-hitter. Pacing a seven-hit attack by the winners were Nick Shushman's two-run homer, Fred Chabot's two-run triple and Vic Gillette's two singles.

Wes Decker blanked Plangger's on a two-hitter in the second game. George Luther was the losing hurler.

On Sunday, Plangger again hurled the opening victory on another eight-hitter. He also had two of Plangger's seven hits, Dan Fester added a triple.

Plangger's got the winning runs in the sixth while trailing 4-3. After a double by Shushman, a walk to Chabot and an infield single by Ron Mandarino loaded the sacks, the deciding runs were forced home when Jack Mucia was hit by a pitch. Doug Wymer walked and Plangger walked.

Luther took the loss in the second game. Plangger's had just five hits, including a RBI double and a single by Dick Hacker.

Plangger's returns to action at 7 p.m. Saturday in a doubleheader against Topper's of Kalamazoo.

better," commented Dowagiac boys' coach Mike Britten. "I ran everyone except three people. I gave everyone a chance and that's important. If Doug and Dennis (Bacon) both get themselves healthy they can go over 22 feet."

"I was rather pleased with the way the meet went although I was hoping for more teams. I guess there was some late cancellations. I think it can build to one of the finest meets around with a year's experience. The track itself is probably the best in the area."

The Chief girls' team is coached by Emily Cornstock and John Lewis.

Kimble Stars

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Todd Kimble scored both goals as the Leprechauns defeated the Rainbows 2-1 in recreation youth league soccer Sunday. Todd Cowden had the Rainbow goal. Next league game is Sunday at 2:30 p.m. on Sylvester field.

Bieri, Novikoff Ride To Victory

NILES — Three area entries won motocross firsts racing on the World track here Sunday.

St. Joseph's Joe Bieri took first in the mini-bike class, while Mike Novikoff of St. Joe was the 125 cc winner and Doug Damacus of Niles was open champ.

Other placers in the mini-bike class were Lisa Atkins of Berrien Springs second, and Jeff Bieri of St. Joe third. St. Joe rider Allan Marks was third in the 125 cc race, while Mike Cox of St. Joe was second in the 175 cc event.

Mark Hinkle of Berrien Springs took third in the 250 cc race, while St. Joe drivers Gary Haynes and Ron Rimple were second and third respectively in the open event.

Dixon Bieri finished in runnerup spot in the woods class, with Jane Atkins Berrien Springs third.

In the state high school motocross races at Detroit Saturday, St. Joe's Joe Peterson took fourth in 100 cc event.

When it comes to car insurance value, it pays to compare State Farm.

THE STATE FARM AUTO INSURANCE VALUE PACKAGE

RATES: Low rates are one of the major reasons State Farm got to be the world's largest car insurer. Our agents save money for thousands of Michigan drivers every year. You'll find your rates with State Farm are competitive with those of most other major car insurance companies. But cost alone doesn't mean value.

COVERAGES: In addition to the mandatory coverages required by Michigan No-Fault Law, State Farm offers a wide range of optional coverages. Many at a rate advantage. With these optional coverages, your State Farm agent can tailor your car insurance to your particular needs, and probably save you some extra money, too.

CLAIMS: Because State Farm is number one, our claim service is second to none. Because State Farm is America's largest, we have a large number of experienced, full-time claim personnel throughout the U.S. We can offer the convenience of large drive-in claim centers in major metropolitan areas. In many cases, your State Farm agent can settle everything right in his office; write a check and get you on your way. However your claim is handled with State Farm, you can be sure it will be done promptly and fairly.

AVAILABILITY: With over 600 agents in Michigan and almost 12,000 across the nation, State Farm is there. Just about anywhere you should run into trouble, there's a State Farm agent nearby who's dedicated to giving you the same kind of good-neighbor service you get from your hometown State Farm agent. If you're traveling through a "non-no-fault" state, he can give you valuable guidance. If you move permanently, you don't have to start shopping for car insurance all over again. The State Farm agent in your new community can simply pick up where your previous agent left off.

AGENT: Rates are what you pay. Service is what you're really buying. And the personal service you can expect from a State Farm agent is exceptional. He's nearby and he's available whenever you need help. Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there is more than an advertising slogan. It's a promise.

MORE COMEDY THIS FALL

TV Viewers In For Chuckles

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The networks' fall program schedules are all in now, and it appears that viewers are in for more chuckles and very concentrated crime-stopping on TV when September rolls around.

However, 12 of the crime-fighting sagas are in direct competition with each other on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday nights.

This may make viewers groan, but it's all part of the highly competitive "counter-programming" the networks are doing in their quest for sponsors of the 70 prime-time shows in their new schedules.

Twenty-six new series, ranging from a Mel Brooks sitcom on ABC to CBS' "Beacon Hill," an Americanization of "Ups-airs, Downstairs," will be on TV next fall, while 18 shows now on the air won't return.

Twelve pinstrips were mid-season replacements, like ABC's controversial "Hot 1 Baltimore" or one-season shows like NBC's "Lucas Tanner."

Among the old durables departing are NBC's "Adam-12," ABC's "Odd Couple" and CBS' "Mannix" and 20-season "Gunsmoke" series. Despite the demise of the last, the Old West on TV hasn't completely died.

ABC says next fall it's airing an as-yet unnamed Western on Monday nights to compete with NBC's "Emergency" and CBS' "Gunsmoke" replacements — the returning "Rhoda" and the new "Phyllis" sitcoms.

NBC is doing without a prime-time variety show next fall, and CBS is sticking with "Tony Orlando and Dawn," "Cher" and Carol Burnett.

ABC is trying a live variety show, hosted by Howard Cosell, against four Friday night sitcoms — CBS' new "Big Eddie" and old "M-A-S-H" and NBC's dead 8-to-9 p.m. duo of "Sanford and Son" and "Calico and the Man."

Three nights later, Cosell's "NFL Monday Night Football" has equally stiff competition from CBS' "All in the Family" — it's moving from Saturday — and "Maude." NBC offers its new "Ellery Queen" in that hour.

ABC's second Monday night football hour faces two medicine shows — CBS' "Medical Center" and NBC's new "Medical Story."

The sawbones aren't the only professionals in head-on combat. NBC's "Petrocelli" will face CBS' new "Kate McShane" in a Wednesday night battle of TV lawyers.

But the most intensive head-on fights, none of the warring conducting during the new "family viewing" hour, will involve cops and private eyes.

On Tuesday nights, ABC's "The Rookies," CBS' "Switch," a new gunshoe series, and NBC's "Police Story" all are scheduled to battle for ratings from 9 to 10 p.m. EDT.

On Wednesday nights, CBS' "Cannon" opposes ABC's "Baretta" NBC's new "Doctors' Hospital" is the time period's third entry. On Friday nights, as ABC shows a movie from 9 to 11 p.m. EDT, CBS' "Hawaii Five-O" and Barnaby Jones will take on NBC's "Rockford Files" and "Police Woman" series.

The pattern will be repeated Sunday nights, starting at 9 p.m. EDT, with a two-hour movie on ABC fighting NBC's "Sunday Mystery Movie" and CBS' "Kojak" and "Bronk," the last a new cop show with Jack Palance.

We'll discuss other facets of the new schedule later this week.

Last Member Of 'Stooges'

Dead At 78

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Moe Howard, the last member of the Three Stooges comedy team, died Sunday night of lung cancer. He was 78.

Howard was the mop-haired leader of the slapstick trio, whose bullying bluster invariably received its just deserts in the end from his partners.

Howard was a boyhood friend of comedian Ted Healy and they teamed in a vaudeville act in the early 1920s, which featured Howard heckling Healy from the audience.

DIRTY OLD CAR: John R. Gretzinger, left, Director of Reliability & Quality Control at Buick Motor Division and Donald F. Taylor, Production Manager at Buick, run Taylor's 1914 Buick through the Buick emission test laboratory in Flint, Mich. Needless to say, it failed miserably. In deference to its age, the car was not given the official EPA test which would have required it to run too long and too fast. But at a steady 30 miles an hour for two minutes, carbon monoxide emissions ran 74-grams per mile, many times higher than current EPA standards. However the 2,500 lb. car, with a 4-cylinder engine, got 26-mpg, which rated close to the top in its weight class among today's cars. (AP Wirephoto)

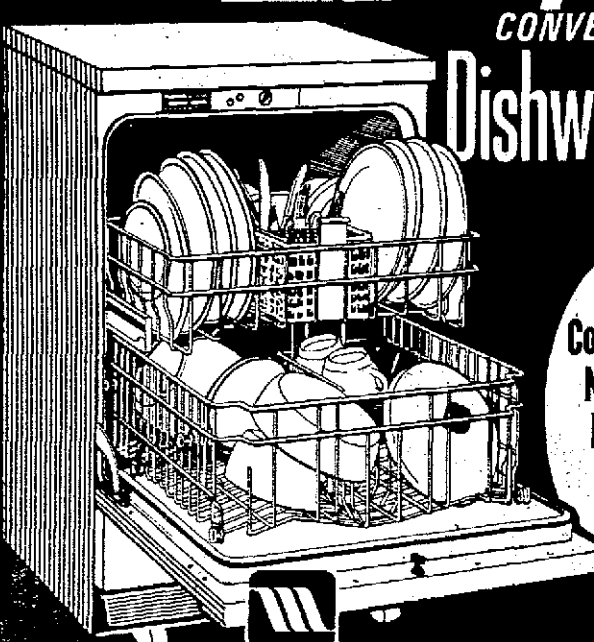

DRAWN TO COMMUNE: Television personality Steve Allen, center, visited Seattle, Wash., not to put on a show but to visit a commune and his family. Allen is shown here with his son, Logic Israel, and granddaughter, Purity. They are members of the Love Family, a Seattle commune. Allen's son joined the religious commune about four years. House Fire, Man's Burns Studied In South Haven

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven firemen were attempting today to determine if there was any relation between a house fire here which they believe had been deliberately set and burns suffered by a South Haven man Saturday night.

South Haven police said the man, Fred Mosley, 41, appeared at South Haven Community hospital about the time firemen were going to the fire at the home of his brother Ernest at 412 Edgell street.

Mosley was reported in fair condition today in Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo, with second and third degree burns over his upper body.

Fire Chief Leslie Olmstead, who said the fire appeared to have been set, said the state police fire marshal was to be called into the case to investigate.

According to Olmstead, a nearly empty five gallon fuel can was found in the dining room of the frame house and it appeared a flammable fluid had been poured onto bedding in a nearby bedroom.

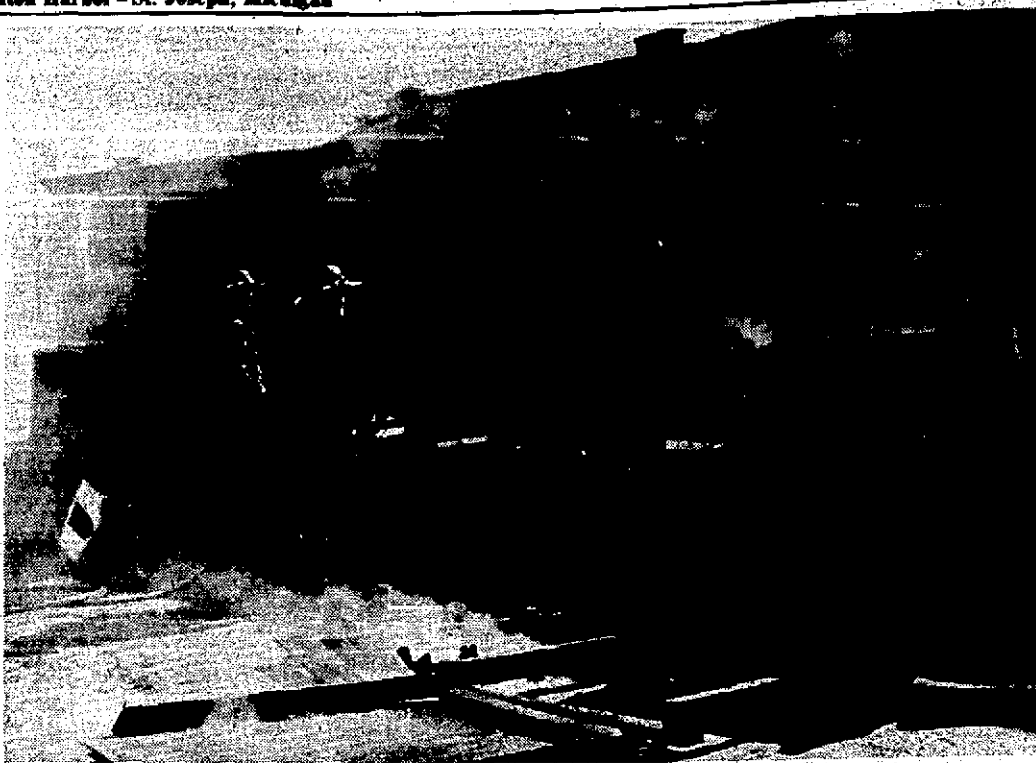

According to Olmstead, the Ernest Mosleys were not at home when the fire occurred and were reported out of the city.

A man was seen running away from the house just before the fire was discovered, he said.

Olmstead said it had not yet been determined how Fred Mosley had been burned. Unofficial reports were conflicting, he said.

Olmstead said officials had not yet been able to talk with Mosley because of his condition.

An estimated $10,000 in damage was caused to the interior of the house, firemen said.

MOBILE HOME DESTROYED: Galien township firemen are seen after battling fire which destroyed Lee Morrieal mobile home, route 1, box 197A, Nye road, Galien, yesterday afternoon. Township Fire Chief Robert Klingerman said two bedroom structure and contents were destroyed by 5:15 p.m. blaze. He estimated loss at $5,000. No cause for fire has been established, Klingerman said. Morrieal and wife were gone from home when fire broke out and their two teenage children playing in yard turned in fire alarm, Klingerman said. (Staff photo)

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The capital murder trial of a young father accused of killing his son with poisoned Halloween candy begins here today.

Ronald C. O'Bryan, 30, is charged with causing the death of his 8-year-old son, Timothy, by giving the boy cyanide-laced candy last Halloween night.

Defense lawyers said much of today will be spent on pretrial motions. District Court Judge Frank Price is expected to rule on several motions presented earlier by the defense. Jury selection may not begin until Tuesday.

O'Bryan was charged with murdering his son after police discovered he had taken out a $38,000 life insurance policy on the boy. Testimony at a pretrial hearing also indicated O'Bryan had made inquiries about cyanide and had attempted to purchase the deadly poison.

Timothy died in his father's arms moments after eating part of a piece of candy that was among the candy he collected on a trick-or-treat outing with his father and sister.

Police said a cyanide-laced package of candy was also found among the Halloween candy of Elizabeth O'Bryan, the 3-year-old sister of Timothy.

Friends of O'Bryan expressed disbelief after the Deer Park, Tex., man was charged with his son's death. O'Bryan was an active member of the Second Baptist church in Pasadena, Tex., and had a reputation of being a loving father who was very careful with his children.

An assistant district attorney said in a pretrial hearing that the state would ask for the death penalty under a Texas statute allowing capital punishment in cases of murder for profit.

Lawyers estimated it may take up to two weeks to select a jury qualified on the death sentence.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The economic squeeze doesn't mean legislators have to buy their own meals. Things haven't gotten that bad yet.

Lawmakers confirm what lobbyists have acknowledged — the private interest boys have sufficient resources to continue their wining and dining of legislators at a respectable level. Few lawmakers report any decline in offers, although most hasten to add they rarely take advantage of such wooing.

"I haven't seen any evidence of a cutback at all," said Sen. Dale Kildee, D-Flint. "I've not noticed any lessening of their efforts to talk to lawmakers over a steak or martini."

"I haven't seen any difference at all," affirmed Rep. Dan Angel, R-Marshall. "The general spending patterns haven't changed, although I heard them complain too many staff members are taking advantage of their functions."

In addition to one-on-one dinners and drinks, the major lobbying groups also hold periodic food-and-booze spreads in nearby hotels and motels. As staff aides, the press and nearly anyone warm and breathing usually can get in.

"It's business as usual," another lawmaker confirmed. "I don't think there's any basic change," one added.

Nor has there been an appreciable decline in what one lawmaker calls "trolling." Trolling means walking casually around a popular dining spot. If the legislator is lucky, he'll soon catch the eye of a lobbyist willing to buy him a meal in return for the privilege of bending his ear on a pet issue.

"Many lawmakers have been noted to troll through the lobby of the Olds Hotel, and those with enough gall even troll at the City Club," a lawmaker said, referring to a private club in the Olds. Many City Club members are lobbyists.

"There is greater trolling noticed at the Capital Park Hotel — there are some professional trolls who have it down to a science."

"Occasionally you hear the expression, 'Have you found a live one yet?' But there's about the same degree of disappointment and success as in the past," he said.

Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, said he believed some major companies, such as those in the auto industry and utilities, have reduced lobbying because of financial hardship. "Cutting back will be commensurate with profits," he said. But he added that lobbying for smaller organizations apparently has picked up.

Another lawmaker said the high rollers — especially the school lobbyists, both board groups and teacher's unions — have not cut back. "Nor have what he called the 'conglomerates' — lobbying agents with several different clients of dissimilar interests."

An interesting byproduct of that arrangement is when a lawmaker is spotted being lobbied, no one can be sure who's doing the lobbying.

New Buffalo Township Planners Call Hearing

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo township planning commission has scheduled a public hearing on the rezoning of two parcels of land from residential to commercial use near US-12 and Behner road.

The hearing is set for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall.

Jon A. Putzke of Union Pier is requesting the rezoning of approximately 2.3 acres to build a professional stage theater. No cost estimate for the building has been made, according to Putzke. The other parcel, which is owned by Richard Kohlenstein of New Buffalo, is being rezoned at the request of the planning commission to conform with the surrounding area, according to township officials.

HUNGER STRIKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Jewish activist Vladimir Slepak, his wife and son today, announced the end of their three-week hunger strike.

PRISON CELL REPAIR: Prison cell installer cuts out old cell in the six block at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson. A six-man specialty crew that does an estimated 90 per cent of such work in prisons across the country will replace the cells with assemblies with one-inch bars. New bars are believed cuttable only by torch. Doors leading up to the one on which he is working have been removed. Cost: $450,000; Time: 4½ months; 275 cells. Crewmen from the Texas firm asked to remain anonymous for fear of reprisals by former inmates. (AP Wirephoto)

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Major bills in Congress recently were:

ENACTED — Tax Reductions — Cuts federal taxes to stimulate the economy and eliminates the depletion allowance for major oil and gas producers. (PL 94-12)

PENDING — Agency for Consumer Advocacy — To establish an independent nonregulatory federal agency to represent consumer interests before agencies and the courts. (Reported by Senate committee)

Emergency Housing Assistance — To provide emergency assistance to the housing industry by subsidizing mortgage interest rates for middle income families. (Passed House and Senate; in conference committee to resolve differences)

Energy Conservation Taxes — To increase gasoline taxes, to place an excise tax on industrial use of oil and natural gas and to provide for flexible use of quotas and import fees to curtail petroleum imports. (Hearings completed in House committee)

Fair Trade Laws — To repeal "fair trade" laws in 36 states that allow manufacturers to contract with retailers to set minimum prices for their brand-name products. (Hearings completed in Senate committee)

Health Insurance for the Unemployed — To provide emergency health insurance for unemployed workers and their families. (Reported by Senate committee; hearings under way in House committee)

Public Jobs — To finance public service jobs in fiscal 1978. (Hearings underway in House committee)

Standby Energy Authority — To grant the President standby authority to control the production, allocation and consumption of fuel and related materials. (Passed Senate; hearings completed in House committee)

Strip Mining — To provide minimum federal standards for regulation of the surface mining of coal. (Passed House and Senate; in conference committee to resolve differences)

Voting Rights — To extend the Voting Rights act of 1965, scheduled to expire in August, suspending the use of literacy tests and similar qualifying devices, requiring Justice department clearance of changes in election laws and authorizing federal examiners to oversee compliance. (Hearings completed in House committee; Senate committee hearings underway)

Shell Information Series: Tires

"I'd like to help you squeeze extra mileage out of every tire."

By John Thomas, Shell Staff Engineer

Here are ways to get long life from your tires, and know what to look for when you replace them, no matter where you buy.

There are two major ways to save money on tires. First, get longer life from the tires you have. Second, start figuring out what kind of tire you'll need when it's time to buy new ones. First things first.

Under-inflated tires can cost you a small fortune

Tires carrying only 60 percent of recommended pressure can actually wear out twice as fast as properly inflated tires. That's an extreme example, but it gives you some idea of the wear under-inflation can cause. And if it's combined with high speed or overload, under-inflation can also cause heat to build up until the tire actually starts to come apart.

What's more, under-inflation costs you in gasoline mileage. It simply takes more energy to turn an under-inflated tire. Fill your tires to the pressure recommended in your owner's manual and check them often. Don't forget to adjust for different load conditions.

Be sure to keep caps on your tire valves, too. If you don't, dirt can get into the valve and cause it to leak.

A word from your tire tread

I look at my tire tread regularly for danger signals. Here's what to look for.

Signal	Probable cause
 Bald spots, or "cupping"	Out of balance or worn shock absorbers
 One edge of tread worn	Out of alignment
 Both edges of tread worn	Under-inflation (see note below)
 Feathered tread ribs	Out of alignment
 Center of tread worn	Over-inflation

Note: Hard, fast cornering can also cause both edges of the tread to wear excessively.

Since tires can wear differently at each wheel position be sure to have your tires rotated when the owner's manual says to.

Don't drive your tires to an early grave

You pay a lot for that rubber, so why leave it all over the road? Fast stops and starts wear down the tread, even if the tires don't squeal. The same goes for fast cornering.

And excessive speed is not only unlawful, it can overheat and even destroy a tire, particularly if the tire is under-inflated or overloaded. Also, no matter how good your tires are, you should try to avoid any road hazards like chuck holes and "road junk." Any tire can be punctured, even ruined.

What makes one tire cost you more than another

The wider the tire profile, the higher the price tag will generally be. Furthermore, when you move up in size, you usually move up in price. Finally, radial tires usually cost more than bias-belted, and bias-belted usually cost more than bias-ply tires.

You should know what these terms mean before you start shopping.

Bias-ply tire. A tire in which the body cords run diagonally to the tread. Bias-ply tires offer a softer, more comfortable ride than other types of tire construction.

Bias-belted tire. The body cords run the same as in the regular bias-ply tire, but the tire also has layers of material formed into belts under the tread. These belts reduce tread squirm for longer wear and better traction than you get with non-belted tires.

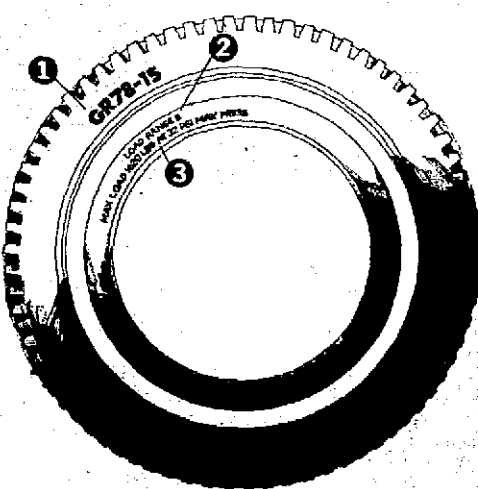

Radial tire. Belted tires in which the body cords run at a right angle to the tread, instead of diagonally. Radial tires have more flexible sidewalls and roll easier than non-radials. This can give you longer tire life and better gasoline mileage. Radials also give faster, surer steering response.

Tire profile. The profile is a number that tells you, generally, how wide the tread is. The lower the number, the wider the tire. The number is actually the height-to-width ratio of a tire's cross-section. In a 78 series, for example, the height is 78% of the width. Most cars use a 78 or 70 series tire.

How to read a tire

There's a lot of information about a tire on its sidewall. For instance:

1. Size designation. This tire is a GR 78-15. The "G" designates the weight the tire is designed to support (letters run from A-N).

"R" tells you it's a radial. If there's no "R" here, it's a bias-ply or bias-belted tire. The first number in the series, 78, gives you the tire profile. The second number gives you the diameter of the wheel rim this tire will fit. In this case, it's 15 inches.

2. Load range code. The load range code will be "B", "C", or "D", and tells you the maximum allowable air pressure. This is a load range "B" tire and can carry a maximum of 32 pounds per square inch. Load range "C" and "D" tires can carry more air pressure and, therefore, heavier loads.

Most passenger cars should carry less than the maximum air pressure. If you carry a heavy load, increase the air pressure, but never above the maximum stated on the tire.

Consult your owner's manual for the recommended tire pressure for your car.

3. Load and pressure. This tells you the maximum weight the tire could carry at full air pressure. Four tires could thus support a car and load up to 6,480 lbs. (4x1620).

Before buying new tires, check your old ones

Your best guide in choosing new tires is how well your present tires have served you.

Trade for tires with the same construction and load carrying capacity if your present tires have served your needs and you're looking for another set that will last about as long.

Trade down if you're using the car less than you'd expected, and don't plan on long or hard service from the tires. But I don't advise trading down in size or load capacity.

Trade up if you haven't been satisfied with your present tires, or if your driving needs require it. Remember, bias-belted tires and radial tires generally give you better traction and longer mileage than bias-ply tires.

Don't buy tires strictly on price. The cheapest tire isn't always the best buy, but neither is the most expensive. Strength, handling, expected mileage from the tire, and even gas mileage are all factors that should enter into your decision.

Warning: Never mix tires of different sizes or types on the same axle. Never use radial tires in front with bias-ply or bias-belted tires on the rear. Improper mixing can lead to dangerously poor handling.

Shop the Shell tire line-up before you buy

Shell Comfort Ride. Our economy tire. A bias-ply tire with four full plies of polyester cord for the driver who prefers a soft, comfortable ride.

Shell Belted 78. Our bias-belted tire. It has two polyester cord body plies and two fiberglass belts for good traction and wear.

Shell Radial Ride. Our new improved economy radial. Available about June 1. Two belts of fiberglass cord, two polyester cord body plies. For the driver who wants the handling and steering response that radials offer without paying for the added strength and mileage of steel.

Super Shell® Steel-Belted Radial. Shell's best. Twin belts of steel cord, plus two radial plies of polyester cord, plus the tire mileage and steering response radial construction offers. And no matter what brand of tires you have on your car, remember there are thousands of Shell dealers anxious to help you take care of them.

Many Shell tires are on sale now. This month—Free replacement tire valve caps at participating Shell stations.

Any questions? Write me.

Write John Thomas, Staff Engineer, Shell Oil Company, P.O. Box 61609, Civic Center Station, Houston, Texas 77208. And ask for our free 12-page booklet, "Three Rules for Maximum Tire Life." It has more ideas on how to get full mileage from any brand of tire.

South Haven Chamber To Launch Drive

$15,000 Goal Fixed For New Office

By TOM KENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The Greater South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce will

CHAIRMAN: Sue Lackey of Paw Paw has been named Republican party youth chairman for Fourth Congressional district. Miss Lackey also serves on the Fourth district Republican committee and the Van Buren GOP issues committee. A graduate student at Western Michigan university, she is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lackey of Paw Paw.

launch a fund drive Tuesday to raise $15,000 for construction of permanent office quarters.

The chamber has used rented office space since its inception. Its location has been moved seven times in the past 11 years. The chamber has been using office space in the city of South Haven recreation building, but that structure has been leased to the South Haven public school system for conversion to an administrative center.

The city has agreed to lease land to the chamber on Quaker street across from city hall as a site for the new building.

The chamber also has a start on the new structure with the gift of a modular building from Citizens Trust and Savings Bank of South Haven. The building had been used as temporary quarters by the bank during construction of a new branch in South Haven township. The chamber plans to add a 14 by 32 foot addition to the existing structure and remodel its exterior to conform with the Early American theme of the central business district.

The proposed building would include a reception area for greeting visitors, a literature display area, an office for employees, space for built-in storage, a work area and a small meeting area.

Chamber President Donald Goodwillie Jr. noted that the fund drive is seeking money above what businessmen give as dues for normal operations.

"We are asking members to consider giving a minimum of $100 or an amount equal to 100 per cent of their annual dues, whichever is larger," Goodwillie said.

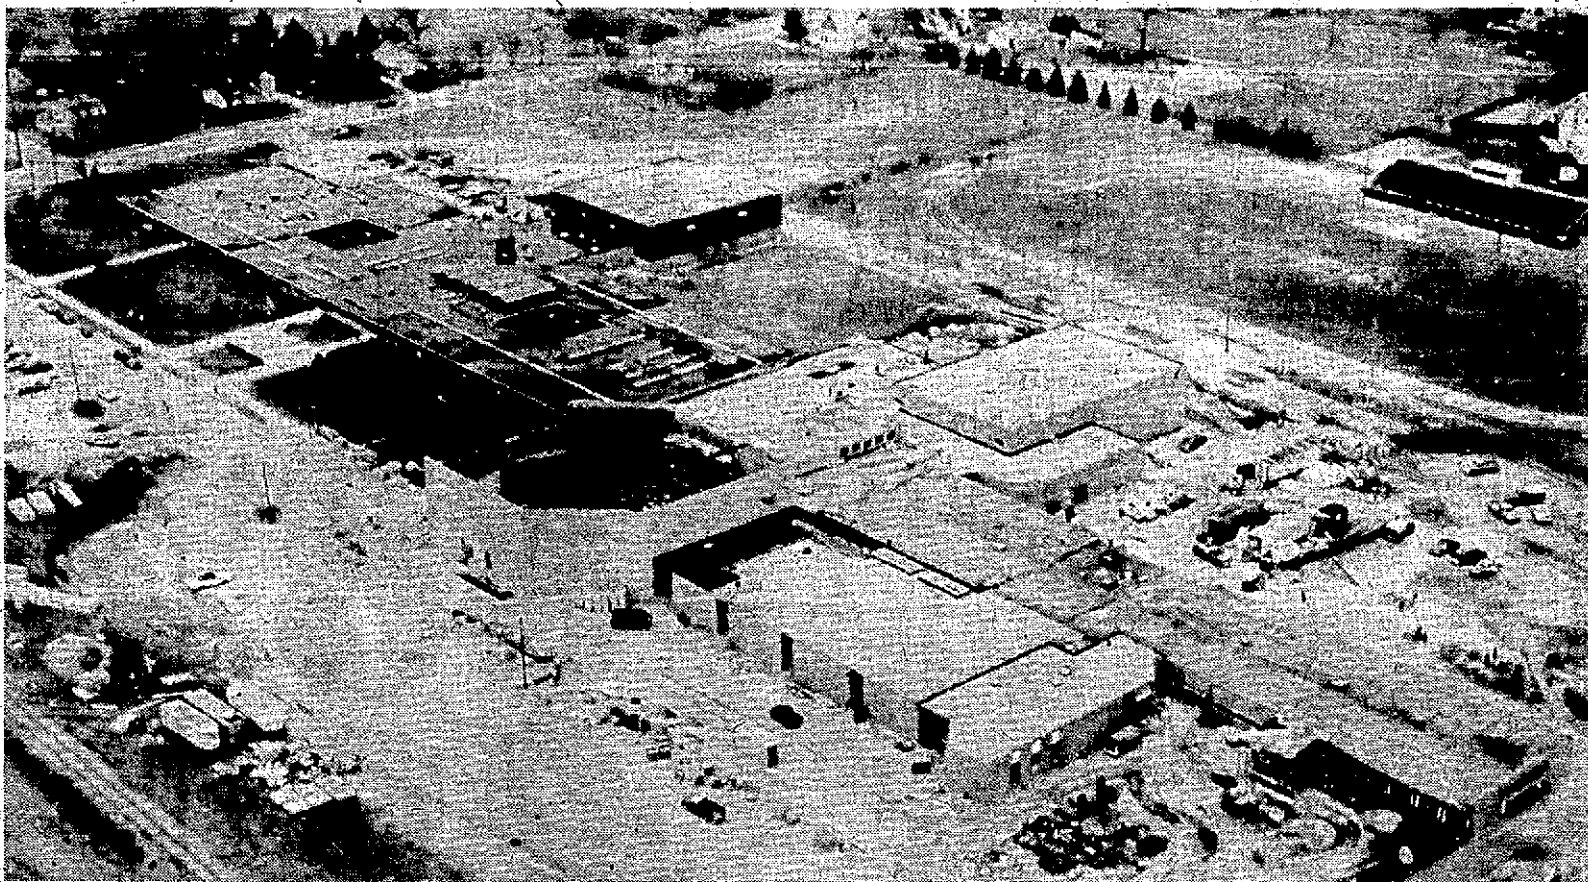

Pledges over the next three years are being encouraged for members unable to make an outright gift. The chamber said it would also welcome "in-kind" donations in the form of labor and materials.

$1,750 Ring Is Lost In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Mrs. Ernest Adler, 38 Lake Shore drive, South Haven, reported to city police here Saturday the loss of a ring valued at $1,750.

Mrs. Adler told police she discovered the ring was missing from her hand after returning home from shopping Saturday night. The ring was described as being 14 karat white gold with a three-quarter diamond setting.

HARTFORD SCHOOLS: North elementary school will become home for middle school grades six through eight at Hartford when this phase of construction is completed. Six-sided, yet unroofed structure will be auditorium, backed by new kitchen and commons area which will serve as dividing point between high school (upper left) and middle school grades. Construction here is only one part of construction being financed by $3.95 million bond issue Hartford voters approved in June, 1973. When completed, high school, remodeled and expanded middle school, new Woodside elementary school and remodeled and expanded

South (Red Arrow) elementary school buildings will each house 600 students. Split schedules will be eliminated, school officials said. Construction pictured here is costing about $2,450,000.

RED-ARROW: South elementary school in Hartford has undergone structural and name change. New name is Red Arrow elementary school. Photo shows walls that will add classroom space and all-purpose (cafeteria and gym) room to building. At right center are seven portable classrooms school district has sold for $43,000, and above them is house in which school's administrative offices are now located. House will be razed to make room for playground and offices moved to old cafeteria in high school when school year ends. Construction on Red Arrow elementary school is costing about $500,000. New Woodside elementary school into which students were moved in January, cost about $1 million. Construction on all school projects should be completed in early fall, according to Hartford Supt. Gary Waterkamp. (Adolph Hann aerial photos)

Warrant Waited For 25 Months

SOUTH HAVEN — A man sought by police since April 1973 on a warrant charging him with selling marijuana was arrested here about 6:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police said John Bonacci, 29, was arrested at 90 North Shore drive by officers from South Haven city police and troopers from the South Haven post.

He is accused of selling marijuana to a state police undercover agent, state police said.

Police said Bonacci had not lived in South Haven on a permanent basis for some time. Another man at the address where Bonacci was apprehended was arrested on a charge of obstructing a police officer.

Richard Morris, 28, 265 Kalamazoo street, was taken into custody after a man at the North Shore drive apartments told police Bonacci was not at the apartment.

Police said Bonacci was found in a bedroom.

Union Pier Cycle Passenger Killed

BRIDGMAN — Mrs. Fred (Valerie Lynn) Gober, 24, 9635 Union Pier road, Union Pier, was killed yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle on which she was a passenger crashed into an automobile here on Red Arrow highway.

State police from the New

Buffalo post said the driver of the motorcycle, Danny Ketchersid, 25, of Michigan City, Ind., was injured in the crash.

He was reported in critical condition today at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Police said Mrs. Gober was pronounced dead on arrival at the St. Joseph hospital shortly after the 5:40 p.m. crash. She suffered massive internal injuries, police said.

The crash occurred at the intersection of Red Arrow highway and Lake street in Bridgman.

Police said that Mrs. Gober's husband and Kitchersid's wife, Linda, 26, were following on a second motorcycle but were not involved in the crash.

Police said the accident occurred when an auto, driven by William Mathieu, 55, of Steger, Ill., and headed north on Red Arrow highway, attempted a left turn onto Lake street.

Kitchersid, headed south on Red Arrow, braked and laid the motorcycle on its side in an attempt to avoid the accident, but crashed into the passenger side of the auto, police said.

Police said Mathieu told troopers he did not see the oncoming motorcycle.

Mathieu and three passengers

She was a waitress at the Firebird Truck Stop at Sawyer. She was a native of Bremen, Ind.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are a son, Matthew; her father, Robert Young, Bremen; her mother, Mrs. Shirley Howell, Michigan City; and four sisters, Mrs. Robert Groves, South Bend, Mrs. William Reed and Miss Chris Young, both of Bremen, and Miss Robyn Young, Lapaz, Ind.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m., Wednesday, at the Smith funeral home, New Buffalo, with Rev. Robert Pumfrey officiating.

Friends may call from 2 p.m. until 9 p.m., Tuesday, at the funeral home.

WARDENS STRIKE
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Warden in Belgian jails began a three-day strike today in a bid for more money.

General Telephone Bargainers Parley

MUSKEGON — General Telephone company negotiators and members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers System Council T-3 bargaining committee are in the process of negotiating a new contract, according to Jack Reitze, company president.

Both formal and informal negotiation meetings between both parties began April 15. The contract agreed to two years ago expired at midnight Sunday, May 4.

"Although progress has been slow, we're hopeful that an agreement can be reached soon," Reitze said. Another meeting is slated for today, according to Lowell Kinney, company public information manager, but no plans have as yet been made for negotiating on a day-to-day basis.

Company and union official discussions thus far have hinged on many proposals from each side, but wage and contract duration have not been discussed to date, Reitze said.

General Telephone, which serves 576,000 telephones in 541 Michigan communities, has approximately 3,700 employees with about 2,800 covered by the contract.

WORLD WAR I VETS GATHER: Eighty-five World War I veterans and their wives from Western Michigan district, which extends from Muskegon to Battle Creek, gathered in Memo hall, St. Joseph, Saturday to make plans for their state convention to be held in Grand Rapids in June. Officers presiding over the meeting are from left: John LaHure, Allegan, district chaplain; Lawrence in the auto suffered minor injuries but were not hospitalized, police said.

The death was the 13th traffic fatality in Berrien county this year.

Police said no charges have been filed, but the accident remains under investigation.

Mrs. Gober had lived in Union Pier for about one year, after moving from Dallas, Texas, with her husband.

All Signs Point To Economic Upturn

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The already widespread belief that an economic upturn is likely to take place in the second half of the year was reinforced during the past week. As usual, most of the big news was out of Washington.

Perhaps the most important announcement of all came from Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He told the Senate Banking Committee he would seek a 5 to 7.5 per cent growth in the money supply.

Many Americans have harbored the suspicion that Burns, by personality and responsibility, is probably still more concerned about the dangers of inflation than of recession. But Burns dispelled that notion somewhat.

The money supply goal, which he called "moderate" at one point but "rather high" at another, should be sufficient, he said, "to finance a vigorous economic recovery."

It will, at least, be considerably more than the rate that prevailed over the past year. In all of 1974 the rate was only 4.7 per cent; in the first quarter of this year it was 3.5 per cent.

Many ordinary citizens as well as economists and congressmen have criticized the money supply rate as too low to permit vigorous recovery. In fact, they maintain the low rate has worsened the recession.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, remained just as hesitant and cautious as ever, but the mere fact that he again stated a belief that recovery was coming served to lend encouragement.

"The evidence is still tentative," he told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, "but it tends to support the view that the economy will stabilize to a very large degree during the second quarter of the year."

The treasury Department added another view that was widely interpreted as being bullish. It would need $5 billion less in the credit markets, it said, because tax revenues were turning out higher than anticipated.

This news took a lot of pressure off the credit markets, which are in the position of having to finance not only the big federal deficit but the expansion plans of private industry. That pressure was expected to drive interest rates back up.

Relief over the Treasury announcement was reflected immediately in soaring securities prices. The stock market doesn't like high interest rates because they tend to drain investment funds into bonds.

At 848.48, the Dow Jones Industrial Average has now recovered all but about 2 of the 230 points lost during the collapse of prices in 1974, but it still has more than 300 points to go before reaching its all-time high of 1051.70, attained Jan. 11, 1973.

Nothing is certain in economics or stocks, however, and a lot of people remain nervous about the immediate future. The chief worries appear to be these:

—Few economists foresee the jobless rate coming down very fast. While many agree that the 8.9 per cent rate is probably close to the peak, they fear that it might stay in that vicinity for several months.

—Arthur Burns isn't the only one fearful of a return of the boom-bust cycle. Inflation is by no means licked yet, although there seems to be widespread agreement that it will be far below 8 per cent by late in the year.

However, more than a handful of economists are worried that it might surge again in two years, forcing restraints on the economy that could pitch it back into recession.

—While the stock market is said to be a good forecaster because it represents the outlook of the public, the public doesn't seem to be aware of it. Most of the heavy trading is by institutions, by professionals, rather than by the general public.

FACES HIJACKING TRIAL
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Virginia man, Francis Page Covey, charged with air piracy has been ordered held for a federal court trial after two FBI agents testified at a preliminary hearing that he commandeered a United Airlines jet April 25.

SITE BEING PREPARED: Construction and site preparation of $4,795,000 building program off M-140 for Covert school district has begun. Included in project is construction of new high school, middle school, five additional elementary classrooms, administration office, bus garage and swimming pool. Present three-story high school building, lower center, will be torn down and area will be used for parking, according to Supt. William Randall. Most of portable classrooms, right center, will be sold; he added. Erhardt Construction of Grand Rapids is general contractor for project which is expected to be completed by fall of 1976. Voters approved bond proposal to finance construction in March, 1974. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

'Retrofit' Born During WWII

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Many words have just happened and have become part of our vernacular. "Snafu" probably is the best known. Now, "retrofit" is gaining in popular usage.

Today, retrofit means insulating one's home to make it more energy-efficient, to conform with new government standards. During World War II it meant constantly refitting military aircraft, tanks and naval vessels which became obsolete even before they were completed. Each plane or ship was provided with the latest gear — often on a weekly basis as technology advanced.

The resurrection of retrofit occurred during the energy crisis bearing in Washington in 1973 in testimony by energy experts of Certain-teed Products here.

They pointed out that millions of American homes required attic retrofitting with six inches of fiberglass insulation (or its R-19 equivalent).

Conforming to these retrofit standards, the nation could save up to 30 per cent on annual heating and cooling bills.

Kissinger To CIA Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is one of four past or present high-level government officials to appear before the Rockefeller commission as that panel enters the final month of its investigation of CIA domestic activities. In addition to Kissinger, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, former CIA Director John A. McCona and former national security adviser Walt W. Rostow are scheduled to testify today.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Heading Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed higher again today with the aid of continuing hopes for an improved economy.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

A survey by the National Association of Purchasing Management of company purchasing agents released this morning showed a general belief among buyers that the recession was bottoming out.

There have also been optimistic statements about the chances for an economic rebound from several White House officials in recent days.

Today's early prices included Bethlehem Steel, unchanged at 40 1/2; Standard Oil of California, up 1/2 at 28 1/2; United Gas Pipeline, down 1/4 at 8 1/4, and Lone Star Industries, unchanged at 13 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 17.52 to 948.40 just 2.48 points of short of erasing all its 1974 loss.

The Dow finished the week with a 36.68 gain.

Advances outpaced declines by a little less than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE as turnover increased to 25.21 million shares.

The Big Board's composite index was up .59 to 47.18.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .75 to 84.91.

State Week Turns Up Odd Facts

A flood of Michigan Week statistics turns up a somewhat curious fact about the state: there is only one margarine producer in the whole state.

At least, that's the claim made by Shedd-Bartush-Foods division of Beatrice Foods Co., pioneer Detroit manufacturer of KEYKO margarine.

Announcing the firm's support of Michigan Week (May 17-May 24),

Adam J. Schubel, president of Shedd-Bartush, said:

"We are proud to be the only margarine producer in Michigan and we support Michigan Week. Greater knowledge and pride in Michigan-made products will benefit Michigan's consumers, industry and employees."

On unrepresented advertising of margarine producers probably tends to make the public think, if it thinks at all about the subject, that there are dozens of margarine producers in every state.

Not so, says Shedd-Bartush.

But, adds the firm, while Michigan has only one margarine producer, that producer goes back a long way.

Shedd-Bartush began production of KEYKO in 1932 which establishes KEYKO as one of the nation's oldest margarine brands. During 43 years of production, a variety of packaging has been used, with the current package being the familiar golden foil.

Today Shedd-Bartush is one of the largest margarine producers in Omaha, Neb.; Elgin, Ill.; Dallas, Tex.; Greenville, S.C. and Sunnyvale, Calif.

Postal Theft Loss Might Hit 'Millions'

NEW YORK (AP) — Postal authorities say the contents of 11 sacks of registered mail stolen from a Times Square area post office could be valued "into the millions."

Officials said insured letters and parcels such as those stolen from a mid-Manhattan postal substation garage Sunday morning, usually contain checks, cash, negotiable securities, jewelry and other valuables and sometimes guns.

The mail bags were stolen about 8:45 a.m. by five gunmen apparently "very familiar with the operations" of the Postal Service, according to postal inspectors.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Withdraw, Reinvest: The Pros And Cons

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I have retired at 63 and have asked my mutual fund to send me quarterly dividends and annual capital gains by check rather than reinvest them. Is this preferable to a 3 1/2 percent monthly withdrawal?

A. I'd say it is more conservative, by far.

When you take only dividends and capital gains from the fund you are using only the amount the fund generated that year. You do not force the fund to sell shares in order to make up, let us say, a $50 monthly withdrawal check when it isn't earning the $50.

Although a regular monthly check is, understandably, desirable for those budgeting retirement income, it should be clearly understood that this regular monthly check either must be earned by the fund, or the money raised by cashing in some of your shares.

In a lower market year you are thus forcing to sell out more shares at a lower price in order to meet the fixed withdrawal figure.

It is thus the reverse dollar-cost averaging in buying the fund, when a regular monthly purchase gets you more shares at a lower price, thus improving your long-term average buying cost.

Where possible, I would vote for taking only dividends and capital gains and especially at the relatively young retirement age of 63 (and after a long market decline) when it is to your advantage to avoid reducing the number of shares in the fund which could benefit from a market recovery. Furthermore, by taking only dividends and gains you avoid — in the case of some funds — fees imposed for carrying out level withdrawal programs.

Finally, I trust you realize that $50-a-month figure is not a universal recipe. This is the "normal" withdrawal from a $10,000 investment in a fund.

LOSSES BIG, TOO

Q. Please comment on a friend's suggestion that I turn over my money to a commodity trading company. I'm told they make fantastic profits.

A. They do. They also take fantastic losses when the market goes against them or when they make a mistake. The commodity market is one of the wilder trading arenas. I can't endorse such a suggestion — even if I knew the trading outfit, which I don't.

ONLY FOR EXPERTS

Q. Would you advise purchase of second mortgages?

A. Only by those who are real estate experts.

Gasoline Guzzlers Bypassed

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's consumers are thinking twice and taking a new tack when going shopping for a new car, according to a nationwide survey.

The poll, conducted by the Detroit Free Press, shows 80 per cent of the outsmokers take a reason other than status into primary consideration when buying. This indicates the appeal of the behemoth gas-guzzler is being eroded by concern for the economy, the availability of gas, and the increasing price of cars, the newspaper said.

The survey said there was a 17 per cent shift to a smaller car among people surveyed, although some observers still hold the big car retains its sensual allure for most.

The survey reported more than a third of those who now own standard-sized cars said their next auto would be smaller. And as the size of preferred cars decline, so do the wanted options, the survey found.

A majority of those polled said they could do without vinyl roofs, big engines or a big car altogether, the survey said. But most wanted air conditioning, automatic transmissions, power steering and brakes.

More than half of those who intend to buy this year make more than $15,000 a year, the survey found, but only 15 per cent make less than $10,000. An overpowering 88 per cent of the survey respondents said they felt cheated by high prices.

An earlier story on the poll showed attitudes toward the automobile indicate the public may be ready to force a revolution in the auto industry.

The poll is reported to be the first major study of attitudes toward the automobile not motivated by the commercial interests of the auto makers.

The study consisted of 1,008 personal interviews conducted March 15-31 in 200 communities. The interviews, of persons 18 years and older, were done by William R. Hamilton and Staff, a national polling organization based in Washington, D.C.

The survey also found:

—More than two-thirds of the people questioned said they intend to keep their present cars longer than they originally planned.

—The respondents are bothered by increasing frustrations that go with operating their cars, but acknowledge dependence upon them and many speak quite highly of the cars they own.

—They show little sympathy for the plight of the industry.

The survey also indicated sales in the already hard-hit industry could get worse.

Half the people surveyed said they think that buying a new car would be a good thing for the country, but only 8.1 per cent said they are ready to take that step this year.

Wine Region Of Italy Hit By Storms

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Wind, snow, rain and the lowest temperatures in 30 years hit northern Italy over the weekend, badly damaging vineyards in Asti Province, a top producer of sparkling wine, officials said today.

Temperatures, which climbed to 88 degrees last week, fell to 41 in the plains and below zero in the mountains. Strong winds damaged the vineyards in IRNCE. Crops in various other north Italian areas were badly damaged by the drop in temperature and rainstorms.

Snow measuring up to 28 inches fell in the Aosta Valley, the western Alps and the Alto Adige region close to the Austrian border. The ski resort of Cortina d'Ampezzo was blanketed.

Heavy rainfalls, lasting 48 hours, fell in the Piedmont, Lombardy and Venetian regions. Some canals near Milan overflowed.

Small Business Accounting Topic Of Chamber Meeting

"How To Succeed in Business with Accounting" is the topic for a meeting sponsored by the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the St. Joseph Savings and Loan association.

It will be at 8 a.m. Thursday, May 15, at the Chamber office, 777 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor. It's the 15th in a series of programs for small businessmen and women, department heads and managers.

William E. Smits, CPA and partner in the accounting firm of Herkner, Smits, Miskill and Merrifield, will conduct the session. Smits said small business accounting will be stressed along with interpretation of financial statements.

Smits has been in public accounting 25 years with an AB degree from Wabash College in economics and minors in philosophy and history. He has also taken graduate courses at Indiana University and the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

The meeting is free, but reservations should be made by calling the Chamber office.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

Newspaper Is Sold For $30 Million

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Enquirer has been sold by American Financial Corp. to Combined Communications Corp. for $30 million in cash and a large amount of stock.

William Keating, president and chief executive of the 220,000-circulation newspaper, said the sale would not affect the newspaper's management or personnel.

Carl Lindner, AFC president and chief executive officer, said in the joint sale announcement made Saturday that he will remain as publisher and become a member of the Combined Communications Corp. — CCC — board of directors along with Keating.

AFC would receive $30 million cash, 300,000 shares of common stock and 700,000 common stock warrants in CCC, according to the agreement.

The sale has been approved by the AFC board but needs approval of the CCC board and regulatory agencies before completed, Lindner said.

Karl Eller, president and chief executive officer of CCC, from Phoenix, Ariz. and John L. Louis Jr., chairman of the CCC board, become members of the Enquirer board of directors. Lindner remains chairman.

The joint announcement said the Enquirer is the first investment by CCC in a newspaper. The firm owns outdoor billboard advertising and operates radio stations in Phoenix, Hackensack, N.J., and Los Angeles, and television stations in Phoenix, Atlanta, Ga., Oklahoma City, Denver, Colo., Little Rock, Ark., Louisville, Ky., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

It reported sales of $120 million in 1974 and net income of $6.1 million, equal to $1.65 per share of common stock.

The announcement said that WSAI radio, in Cincinnati, is controlled by CCC through a subsidiary, Pacific and Southern Co. Inc. The firm said it may be required to divest it.

South Haven Hospital

SOUTH HAVEN — Patients admitted to South Haven Community hospital over the weekend included Mrs. Albert Anderson, Mrs. Gordon Barber, Mrs. Gary Elzinga, John Sprague, Peter McEvoy, South Haven; Mrs. Dora Atcher, Mrs. Leona Rainey, Pullman; Miss Teresa Forestieri, Coloma; Harry Pape Sr., Bangor.

PRISONER AID

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Prisoners in need of mental treatment might not have to wait as long before receiving it under a bill headed for the Senate. The House passed the measure, 105-4, with immediate effect Thursday.

Fair Stock

To Register June 6, 7

BERRIEN SPRINGS — June 6 and 7 have been set as the days that all livestock to be exhibited at the 1975 Berrien County Youth fair is to be pre-registered for exhibition.

Lowell Bruce, youth exhibits coordinator, said livestock, including horses, dairy, beef breeding animals, sheep, swine and goats, are to be registered either of those two days at the entry office on the fairgrounds here. The hours will be 1 to 5 p.m. on June 6 and 9 a.m. to noon on June 7. Market steers are not included, as they were registered Jan. 15, with a record number of 140 steers eligible to be exhibited.

Livestock not registered June 6 and 7 will be ineligible for exhibition.

All exhibitors will be provided entry sheets and identification procedures at pre-registration. Exhibitors with horses or breeding stock should bring photos, sketches or breed registration papers at the time of pre-registration, according to Bruce. Market animal exhibitors will receive identification tags for their animals.

POLICE-ROUNDUP

Window Breaking Spree Results In Eight Arrests

Twin Cities area police over the weekend arrested eight people during investigations of window-breakings at three Benton Harbor Area school buildings and a break-in at a fourth.

Benton Harbor police late Saturday night booked Otis Hartz, 20, of 571 East Britain avenue, on a charge of malicious destruction of property over $100.

Patrolman Delbert Lange said Hartz was subdued with chemical spray and treated for glass cuts at Mercy hospital. Reported broken were a door glass at Benton Harbor Area schools administration building, a plate glass window at Lee's Cigo station, East Britain and South Fair avenue, and a window at the Hartz home. No motive was reported.

Others arrested included five boys and two girls, all juveniles.

A 12-year-old boy was booked for breaking and entering and released to his parents Saturday, after two boys ran from Henry Morton school as officers answered an alarm about 8:30 a.m. One boy escaped. Police said a window was broken.

At 11:45 a.m. Saturday, three boys, 8 and 9, were booked for window-breaking, after a window was broken at Calvin Britain school, Benton Harbor. The boys were outside the building.

A 9-year-old boy was booked for breaking and entering Saturday, after six bags of potato chips were reported stolen from a closed service station at Colfax and Empire.

Benton township police about 7 p.m. Sunday, arrested two girls, 14 and 15, in connection with a break-in at old Sorter school, 1421 Pipestone road. The girls were apprehended near the building. They were petitioned to juvenile court and released to their parents. Police said the building was entered through a boarded-up door.

WOMAN STRUCK

Benton Harbor police reported Mrs. Dorothy Williams, 37, was injured twice within two hours Saturday when she was hit on the head.

Police said Mrs. Williams was struck on the forehead by a beer bottle at the Ponderosa bar, Territorial road, shortly before 8:50 p.m.

Shortly before 10:50 p.m. Mrs. Williams was struck across the ear by a man using a shotgun as a club in her home, 452 Maple street. Police said Mrs. Williams was treated after both incidents at Mercy hospital and released.

Also treated and released after the Maple street incident was a friend of Mrs. Williams, identified as Lois Sloan of 398 Miller street. She reportedly was struck about the wrist and face by the gun. No arrest was made pending further investigation.

REPORTS ROBBERY

A motorist told Benton Harbor police Saturday night he was robbed of his wallet containing $47, while slowing to turn off Clay street, onto Broadway.

Elmer L. Curry, 61, of the Snowflake motel south of St. Joseph, reported to police that a man stuck with Curry thought was a gun through the driver's side window and demanded the wallet. Curry said it happened so fast he did not see the gun, or observe the bandit. Curry was not hurt, police said.

SCUFFLE REPORTED

A 30-year-old Benton Harbor man was arrested after he allegedly struck an officer and then scuffled with police when they tried to take him into custody.

Arrested on a charge of assault and battery and resisting arrest was Willie G. Harrington, 30. He gave an address of 404 Summit street, Benton Harbor.

Police reported chemical spray was used to subdue a man after he struck Benton Harbor Sgt. Dwight-Claude on the shoulder and then began fighting with police.

Police reported the incident took place about noon Saturday in the 300 block of Brunson avenue. Police were called to the scene when a scuffle report.

Man Drowned

CHANNING, Mich. (AP) — John T. Hoffman, 23, of Channing drowned Sunday evening in Sawyer Lake north of here, Dickinson County sheriff's deputies said. Deputies said Hoffman was testing a 12-foot pump propelled by a 15 horsepower engine when he was tossed out of the craft.

tedly broke out between a man and a woman allegedly over the custody of a baby.

STABBING REPORTED
A Benton Harbor woman was hospitalized Saturday from a stabbing incident that reportedly occurred about 8 p.m. Saturday in a house in Benton township.

Reported in "good" condition at Mercy hospital Sunday was Delores Haliburton, 29, of 735 Columbus avenue. She told township police she was stabbed by a man at house near Pine street and Chicago avenue. Police reported she sustained a wound in the stomach. No arrest was made, pending further investigation.

BEATEN, ROBBED

A 32-year-old man forgot to lock his hotel room door and as the result sustained a black eye and came up $75 short, Benton Harbor police reported.

Roy Westfall, 52, told police he awoke about 11 p.m. Saturday night and found two men going through his belongings in his room at the Milner hotel, 250 East Main street.

Westfall reportedly tried to subdue the two thieves, but they escaped. He reported $75 was missing. Westfall sustained a black eye during the fight, police reported.

WOUNDED IN FOOT

A Benton township man reported to police he sustained a bullet wound to the foot when a shot was fired from a passing auto. Treated and released from Mercy hospital for the wound was George Poole, 1434 Monroe street. Poole reportedly told township police he had just gotten out his auto parked at his home about 2 a.m. Sunday when he was struck by the shot.

UNLAWFUL ENTERING

Benton Harbor police reported a 51-year-old Spokane, Wash., man was arrested after he was found inside the juvenile attention center, 214 East Britain avenue, Sunday morning.

Arrested on a charge of entering without permission was Jack Melville, 51, Spokane, Wash. Officers responded to the scene about 8:35 a.m. after they received a tip of someone being in the building. Entrance was believed gained through a unlocked door. The man inside reportedly told police he had received permission to sleep there overnight.

CARS VANDALIZED

St. Joseph police reported five cars were vandalized over the weekend.

Damages were reported to the following:
A window shattered on an auto owned by Joseph Cuchinski, 1115 Pearl street, while parked in the front of his home, broken windows on autos owned by Robert Haskins, 1015 Church street, and Joseph Robinson, 1018 Church street, while parked near their homes; a broken car window to a car owned by Diana L. Bond, apartment 3-A, 917 Pearl street, while parked in a lot at 917 Pearl; and dents to the door of a car owned by Gertrude L. Meier, 537 Winchester avenue, while parked in the 800 block of Pleasant street.

FLORIDA MAN ARRESTED

Benton sheriff's deputies and metro crime unit officers over the weekend arrested a Lakeland, Fla., man, identified as Jimmy Lee Timze, 31, who was sought on a fugitive warrant charging him with escape from a Florida prison.

Timze was apprehended at 5:54 p.m. Friday, after a car was stopped on Red Arrow highway near Lakeside. He was being held for Florida authorities.

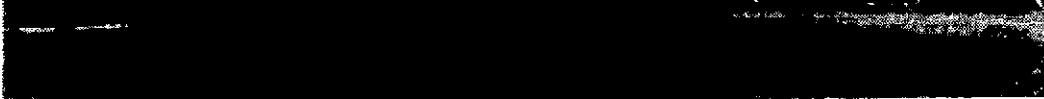

ASSAULT CHARGED

Benton Harbor police report of Gary Flakes, 17, of 1007 Buss avenue, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of assaulting a police officer. Patrolman Arthur Bell said he was grabbed and pushed several times after officers had gone to the Buss address on complaint of a family quarrel.

THEFTS REPORTED

Thefts reported to Berrien sheriff's deputies:
—An air conditioner unit, power mower, tools and a silver candle, valued at $685, from a home, owned by Paul Criston, at Red Arrow highway and Brownstown road, Chikaming township.

A theft reported to St. Joseph police was:
Tools valued at $82.42 and a tool box, owned by Melvin Hall, 104 Reeder street, Benton township, from a trailer owned at Barlow's, Chikaming, 2228 Cleveland avenue.

ADDED SERVICE: Kenneth Hanners of Eau Claire, who has been wholesale fish distributor for about two years, has begun processing fish in newly constructed $10,000 building on his property off Kirk road in Sodus township. Building houses cold storage and processing area for variety of seafoods he purchases in Chicago. Hanners, who has been in fishery-connected businesses for 25 years, will be processing, cleaning and storing fish at building for later distribution to retail outlets. (Cliff Stevens photo)

Duff Lectureship in 1965, and the Stouffer Prize in 1972, which he shared with three other doctors. The Stouffer Prize Selection Committee is chaired by Professor von Euler, former chairman of the Nobel Prize Committee for physiology and medicine.

Dr. Gofman is the former associate director of the Atomic Energy Commission's biomedical division of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory. This division was organized in 1963 when the state of Utah was in an uproar to find that their milk supply was radioactively contaminated. Prevailing winds had dumped radioactive debris from above ground defense and Plovershare testing in Nevada on fodder fed to cows in Utah. (A report some months later by Dr. Harold Knapp of the A.E.C. stated that the children of Utah had received radiation damage. The A.E.C. tried to suppress the report, but Dr. Knapp published it and resigned.)

Dr. Gofman, together with Dr. Arthur Tamplin, was engaged to study the effects of release of radiation and radioactivity on the biosphere, especially the effects on man. Their report, after careful research, was not what the A.E.C. had hoped for. They concluded that there is no safe level of radiation. All radiation, whether occurring in nature or man-made, is detrimental to the health of man. The more radiation, the more cancers and genetic damage. The Plovershare Program, just as weapons testing before it had done, was adding to the radiation damage to man.

The result of this report was that the two researchers came under vicious attack from the nuclear establishment. The full documented story is told in the book, "Population Control Through Nuclear Pollution" by Gofman and Tamplin.

Dr. Gofman has stated recently: "Given the nature of the real problem of nuclear power, it is difficult to understand the position of anyone who is not insistent upon an immediate moratorium on all nuclear power generation."

How should the judgment of the pre-nuclear statements of someone like Dixie Lee Ray, a marine biologist, and former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, who on being appointed to that position by former President Nixon, candidly stated: "I don't have any illusions that I was appointed because of my scientific experience of expertise. If it hadn't been for the women's liberation movement, I doubt that the president would have appointed me."

Dr. Dean Abrahamson, who was part of Nuclear Forum Panel held in St. Joseph recently, is also a doctor of medicine, Ph.D., and a former research physicist with Babcock Wilcox. His many other illustrious credentials far outweighed those who opposed him on the panel.

To illustrate his concern regarding the unresolved hazards of using nuclear fission or the breeder reactor, Dr. Abrahamson has said that faced with that choice or burning corn cobs to produce energy, he would have to choose corn cobs. In identifying the hazards, Dr. Abrahamson considers the entire cycle involved in producing electricity by nuclear fuel, from the mining of uranium, to the fuel fabrication, to the hazardous shipment of plutonium, to the unresolved problem of what to do about storing and disposing of wastes.

His alternative to the use of nuclear fission is use and conservation of oil and gas and clean fossil fuels, with the emphasis in research on the development of solar energy and fusion power. (Dr. Abrahamson is currently building in Minnesota a solar-heated house and a windmill to produce electricity.)

It has also been pointed out by many that the full implementation on all forms of solar energy would result in the creation of millions of jobs. Solar water heaters are already used in Israel and in parts of Florida. Considering the above and amplified by my evaluation of other "experts" and other factors such as the poor economics of nuclear fission power, I can come to no other conclusion but to be anti-nuclear and to have signed the National Moratorium Petition sponsored by both Dr. Gofman and Dr. Abrahamson and others.

WRITER DOESN'T CALL IT 'NONSENSE'

Editor,
On April 14 there was a letter from Mr. Larkin responding to a letter that "accused the United Nations of fostering the Viet war, stating that our generals are obliged to carry out orders from a Soviet in command of the U.N. Security council. What nonsense!"

Trygve Lie wrote in his book, "In the Cause of Peace," "Mr. Vyshinsky (of the USSR) did not delay his approach. He was the first to inform me of an understanding which the Big Five had reached in London on the appointment of a Soviet national as assistant secretary-general for political and security council affairs. . . Mr. Stettinius (U.S. Secretary of State) confirmed to me that he had agreed with the Soviet delegation in the matter."

The preservation of international peace and security was the organization's highest responsibility, and it was to entrusting the direction of the Secretariat department most concerned with this to a Soviet national that the Americans had agreed."

Let's look at the record; men appointed to the position of undersecretary-general of political and security council affairs:

1. Arkady Sobolev — USSR (Resigned April 1949)
2. Konstantin Zvenchenko — USSR (Resigned May 1953)
3. Ilya Tchernychev — USSR (Finished above term to 1954)
4. Dragoslav Protich — Yugoslavia (Resigned July 1958)
5. Anatoly F. Dobrynin — USSR (Resigned February 1969)
6. Georgi Petrovich Arkadev — USSR (Resigned March 1963)

— USSR (Resigned March 1963)
7. Eugeny Dmitrievich Kislev — USSR (Died April 17, 1963)

8. Valdimir Pavlovich Suslov — USSR (Appointed May 21, 1963)

According to the Hungarian refugees, in 1956 Suslov was head of the Soviet secret police. They say he is the one who was responsible for the betrayal of Gen. Pal Maleter, the representative of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters who met with the Soviets under their promise of protection. When Maleter arrived for the talks he was arrested by Suslov and executed a few months later.

Does Mr. Larkin call it nonsense? We ought to get the United States out of the U.N., and the U.N. off our soil, and the sooner the better.

OKLAHOMA BOYS' HOME NEEDS ASSISTANCE

In these days of unemployment, inflation, increased crime, and loose morality, it would do us all some good to be able to help someone in need.

For two years now, I have been clipping out of newspapers and magazines, cents-off coupons and refund offers, and the ones that I can't use are sent to a Christian boy's orphanage in Oklahoma.

They are in need of more housing, bedding, farm tools etc. They obtain their needs, not only by money, but from people who send them Betty Crocker coupons, trading stamps and cents-off coupons. The ones they can't use, are turned in for their cash trade value, which is one-twentieth of a cent each. So they need all they can get.

The wonderful people, such as Jack Sikes, superintendent, who runs the home, are ever so grateful for any type of help. I always receive a personal letter of thanks from them, along with a newsletter of the boys' achievements, and names and pictures of the new boys that have arrived.

So many people have aquired about this home for boys and their needs, so here is where to send items:
Westview Boy's Home

I thank you for myself and the people at Westview.

RELIGIOUS COURSES A 'UNIQUE PROJECT'

Editor,
Last Tuesday night it was my privilege to attend the board of directors meeting of the Luther Rice Extension center at the First Baptist church in Benton Harbor, where courses for ministers and lay persons have been conducted twice a week for the past eight months.

This has been a most unique venture, starting as a dream within the heart of a well-known local minister, Reverend Daniel E. Cook, pastor of Progressive Baptist church, Benton Harbor, to better train local pastors for the christian ministry. The purpose of this letter is to make our community aware of this fine program.

Reverend Cook is well qualified to direct such a school and has acted as superintendent as well as teaching a class in "Old Testament Geography and History." The other course offered this year was, "The Historical Geography of the Holy Land," and has been taught by Reverend Robert Lackner, pastor of the church where the classes were held every Tuesday and Friday nights from 7 to 9 p.m.

The enrollment for these two classes was 18 in the fall. Of this number, 10 are men who have pastorates in as many local churches. The remainder of the group is made up of lay persons, five of whom are women. Also in connection with these two classes, which are sponsored by the Luther Rice Seminary of Jacksonville, Fla., is a class in adult education emphasizing language usage, math, social studies and history, which has been taught by Miss Lois Cuglar of Eau Claire. This class, in preparation for the General Education Diploma (GED) has had an enrollment of 12 and is a mixed group of mostly persons who have been deprived of an education and who feel the need of formal training. They meet once a week.

Miss Cuglar has had many years of experience in the field of elementary education and for many years prior to teaching was a senior case worker in social work in Chicago. She has only recently retired from regular teaching and resides in Eau Claire on MI-40. The assistant teacher to this course and also coordinator for the project is Milton H. Zoschke, a social worker in the Benton Harbor school system.

To me, this seems like an exciting happening. And, it is right here at home. I feel sure there are not many communities in our county or state that can boast of such a service without any help from the taxpayers. The cost to the students is for tuition and text books, yet some of them find it difficult to make full payment. The teachers receive no remuneration, nor is there any charge for the church where classes are held.

So, there is a need for scholarships and, also, to pay the expenses of the dean of Luther Rice Seminary, Dr. Charles A. Williams, who will spend three days here at the close of the school the middle of May. He will be speaking at several places with the climax coming on Sunday, May 25, when a "Service of Celebration" will be held at 7 p.m. at New Bethel Baptist church, Townline road, details of which will be announced later. Here is an opportunity for any interested person to help sustain and promote this cause. If the school continues, as we are sure it will, it is bound to expand, offering more courses, and thus helping to raise the standards of the people whom these men influence. What could help our community more?

If you are interested in this fine project, you may send your contributions to the treasurer, Reverend Lloyd A. Zoschke, 1108 State street, St. Joseph, Mich.

While attending the board meeting, I observed a marked dedication on the part of the faculty and board members, the chairman of which is the Reverend Willie Burton. Other members on the board besides the teachers and officers mentioned in this letter, are Reverend Milton McAfee, vice-chairman, Reverend Robert DeFrances, Reverend Walter Brown, Atty. Tat Parish, and Martin J. Lane.

Madeline Kahn Top Contender For 'Flying' Lead

Q: Who will play the lead in Erica Jong's terrific book, "Fear of Flying"? — H.G., Boston, Mass.

A: The leading contender so far is comic actress Madeline Kahn of "Paper Moon," "Blazing Saddles" and "Young Frankenstein."

Q: Is Warren Beatty going to one single day, she received 97 different parcels (from Ari) delivered to her door. Onassis loved to indulge Jackie and then complain, privately, about it to his pals.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What portion of footage from the movie "Earthquake" was deemed unsuitable for the TV commercials advertising the movie? Why, a spot which showed a rooftop liquor billboard giggling. The National Association of Broadcasters felt showing this sign for J&B Scotch would violate restrictions against booze advertising on TV.

marry Michelle Phillips? — E.R., Tucson, Ariz.

Q: What went wrong with Miss Vicki and Tiny Tim's marriage? — H.T., Miami, Fla.

A: It could have been their sex life. Miss Vicki says, "It was confined to the rare event when, like a pair of naive Victorian lovers, we would struggle fully clothed, to make contact."

Q: I read where a pop musician was electrocuted while playing his wired-up guitar. Does this happen often? — D.R., Presque Isle, Maine.

A: Too often. As far as we can determine some 20 or more artists have suffered this fate. Others have been severely burned and maimed. Performers' unions are demanding that nightclubs and auditoriums provide hook-up circuits and outlets with improved safety features.

Q: Is it true Onassis wasn't really good to Jackie? — E.T., N.Y., N.Y.

A: We leave it up to you. During their six-year marriage he gave her 94 diamond rings, 68 pairs of earrings, 76 pearl necklaces and 130 bracelets. At her apartment in New York, on

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A Census Bureau survey of voter participation in the 1972 national election showed that of some 11 million persons age 18-20 added to the electorate by the 26th Amendment, only 48 per cent reported that they voted. The World Almanac notes. Among those enrolled in school, 73 per cent reported that they were registered and 64 per cent said they voted. Among those not in school, about 50 per cent were registered and 40 per cent voted.

MADELINE: In running for 'Flying'.

TINY TIM: Miss Vicki explains.

MICHELLE: Yes, but Warren says no.

Wants Locks On Sewage Disposal

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gas station owners would have to keep a lock on their sewage disposal facilities as a curb against water pollution under legislation introduced by Sen. Michael O'Brien.

Many gas stations provide tank disposal facilities for trailers and campers, the Detroit Democrat said.

Sometimes truck drivers making gasoline deliveries accidentally dump their cargo into the tanks, so that the oil ultimately finds its way to Michigan lakes and streams, causing pollution, he said.

NADER RULING REVERSED

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has tossed out a lower court's decision that consumer advocate Ralph Nader and the Connecticut Citizen Action Group were entitled to $50,000 from Allegheny Airlines for bumping Nader from an overbooked flight.
